Eleven More Days.
T. R. Would Be 74.
Also the Forgotten Lady.
A Really Big Shovel.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ONLY ELEVEN days more before election and then you will know all about it. Many know now, but certainty is better than prophecy. The last eleven days will be hard working days for the candidates.

Mr. Hoover will speak in more than twenty different cities, and Gov. Roosevelt will continue his campaign without rest. Talking to 120,000,000 people is not easy, even with newspapers to help.

WHILE WE carry on our quadrennial housekeeping, struggling with our depression, two thousand in a "hunger army" are worrying the police in London, singing "The Red Flag," carrying red flags in their hands.

London police use no firearms, even under severest provocation. Experience has taught them that killing is dangerous.

YESTERDAY, A double anniversary, was "Navy Day," 157th anniversary of the founding of the United States Navy. It was also the birthday of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, who was a good worker for the Navy of the United States.

Had he lived until now, Theodore Roosevelt would be 74 years old. If he could return and find a Roosevelt running for President, that would not surprise him. But the discovery that the candidate was not his son WOULD surprise him.

GOV. ROOSEVELT presented "the forgotten man" to the attention of the public. Now Elizabeth Tilton, head of a women's committee for education against alcohol, "summons a convention of forgotten women of the 1932 election." A big crowd would be there, if all the forgotten women were present.

Your forgotten man is a rarity compared with the number of women forgotten between breakfast and dinner.

When it is necessary for florists to write notes reminding husbands of their wedding day or their wife's birthday you realize how many forgotten women there are.

MACHINERY THAT makes manual labor less and less necessary is our big problem now. It is also the hope of the real civilization, which will come eventually.

Machinery will be a problem for a little while, then a great blessing, and meanwhile you admire the mechanical marvels that will some day set men free from physical slavery.

The Wall Street Journal describes a new shovel built by the Marion (O.) Steam Shovel Company.

How many thousands of men, working painfully with pick and shovel, will this giant shovel replace? Operated by electricity, it lifts up fifty-four thousand pounds of earth at every bite, and the operator, with his shovel at the end of a long arm, can drop the earth two hundred feet from the shovel, and on top of a seven-story building if desired.

This giant shovel will be used to strip the earth, seventy feet deep, from the top of a rich coal field, laying bare the coal, which will also be scooped up, steam shovels doing away with painful mining underground.

COPPER, THE metal, is an empire in itself. The electrical industry rests on copper, which does not disappear in rust like iron. You may dig up copper pipes in good condition that were put underground in the Island of Crete before Daedalus flew to safety from the labyrinth.

Copper, like everything else, sells too cheap, and the emperors of copper will meet in New York soon to see what can be done about making prices better.

The mysterious word "katanga," originating in Africa, is most powerful in the copper empire. Britishers were wise when they gathered in those great South African properties that now give them the greatest gold, diamond and copper mines.

DUKE VISCONTI, mayor of Milan, Italy, will today present five comfortable houses to five families in Milan with the largest number of children.

Mussolini set the example in Rome.

Each house has a little garden. The family with the most children will occupy it free of rent for twenty years, after which it becomes the property of its occupants.

In this "more highly civilized" country, the arrival of a great many children is frequently followed by the arrival of a "dispossess" agent. Hence the growth of the birth control movement.

DR. ROSENOW, who works with the Mayo Brothers, announces the discovery that different germs act differently in an electro-magnetic field.

Putting germs between the positive and negative poles of a magnet makes it possible to distinguish one from another of the various streptococci, looking much alike, that are found in cases of colds, sore throat, influenza and infantile paralysis. Electric tests show which germ is which, and should help to prevent epidemics.

The electric unit, whatever it may be, but certainly infinitely "smaller" than the smallest germ, may ultimately win man's fight against his most deadly enemy, the INVISIBLE enemy.

THUG STABS GIRL ON STREET

Angered at Finding Only 8 Cents, Token In Purse

Angered on learning a girl he held up had only eight cents and a car check, a robber slashed her on the wrist as she tried to ward off his blows today at Forbes and Beacon streets.

The young woman, Anna Ripee, 20, of 3424 Forbes street, was on her way to the home of Samuel Silverman, 5552 Beacon street, where she is employed, when she was approached by an armed man, she related to police.

He compelled her to hand over her purse. He examined the contents and flung it back with the remark:

"I don't want that."

He put his revolver in his pocket, drew a penknife and lunged at her. She threw up her hands and the blade slashed her wrist. She screamed and the thug fled. Two stitches were taken in her wound at Homeopathic Hospital.

TARIFF SAVES JOBS--HOOVER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT HOOVER TO INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—President Hoover traveled through the industrial valley of the Ohio River today preaching the doctrine of high tariff protection.

He told a crowd of several thousand at Parkersburg, W. Va.:

"If it were not for the protective wall of tariff, your industries would not be merely depressed, they would be utterly destroyed. Instead of two and one-half days a week to work, your artisans would be without any hope.

The Democrats, he charged, proposed to tear down the tariff protection, asserting:

"Their candidate for President constantly repeats his de-

Reed Asks Workers 'Line Up'

Addressing several hundred of the leading business men of the Pittsburgh district, United States Senator David A. Reed told them today to impress upon their employes the need to avoid two years of "stagnation and alarm" that he said would result if Franklin D. Roosevelt is elected to the White House.

The senior Pennsylvania Senator, a stalwart of President Hoover, said that business would be stagnant until it learned what Washington will do, and added:

"When you talk to your work people, ask them how it would be if you brought in a 'greenhorn' to do the work of a skilled workman. Impress upon them that it will take Roosevelt four years to know what Herbert Hoover knows now."

OUTLINES PROGRAM

Following Senator Reed's address, Charles J. Graham, of Pittsburgh, state chairman of the Hoover-Curtis committee of the National Railway Supply Manufacturers, the organization which sponsored the noon luncheon in the grand ballroom of the Williah Penn Hotel, outlined a campaign program for the business men.

He urged them not to exercise "coercion" but said that each employer should set aside one day to adress his employes, urging them to vote for Hoover; have plant managers do likewise, and contact the employes through the mail or in the pay envelope.

FARLEY LINKS G. O. P., STALIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Warning against eleventh-hour "Republican plots," James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, today charged that the Hoover managers are engaged in instituting a scheme to induce Josef Stalin, dictator of Soviet Russia, to grant an interview to the effect that he is for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President for the purpose of furnishing the Republicans material for the allegation that Roosevelt is a "radical."

The interview, Farley said, would be "planted" in a London newspaper, cabled back to the United States, and immediately the Republican leaders would raise the cry that Roosevelt, if

PITT LINEUP IN IRISH TILT RIDDLED

Four Regulars Unable To Start Against Notre Dame

By JESS CARVER

Pitt will present a riddled starting lineup against Notre Dame in their battle at the Stadium tomorrow, it was announced prior to the final workout this afternoon.

Neither Bob Hogan, the regular quarterback, nor Izzy Weinstock, the fullback, will be at his position at the start of play. Capt. Paul Reider also will be missing from his right halfback post.

In their places will be Cutri at quarterback, Weisenbaugh at fullback and Sebastian at half. The only regular behind the line will be Warren Heller, at left halfback. Weinstock suffered a broken nose in the Ohio State game last week. In the event of a replacement being needed for Weisenbaugh at fullback, John Luch, who has seen little action this season, will be injected into the game.

Mungas is the second choice for quarterback.

SHOTWELL ON SIDELINES

The only change contemplated in the line is at center. George Shotwell, who has been playing there most of the time, is laid up with injuries. Joe Tormey, considered the regular, also is hurt, which means that Valenti will

Ford and Wife Fail To Register to Vote

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Henry Ford, automobile magnate, and his wife may not be able to vote in the election November 8, because they did not register, an article appearing in the Detroit Times today said. The story declared:

"Unless Henry Ford takes an oath that he was ill or out of of the City of Dearborn on October 19—the last day for registration—he will not be able to vote."

Pinchot to Attend Pitt-Irish Contest

Gov. Pinchot will root for Pitt at tomorrow's game with Notre Dame. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today received word by telephone that the Governor, accompanied by Public Service Commissioners P. S. Stahlnecker and George W. Woodruff and two Pinchot secretaries, would arrive at the Hotel Schenley for the game at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Thomas Not Molested In Phila. Plaza Talk

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28. —(AP.)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, today was not molested by police when he spoke in Reyburn Plaza, where President Hoover is to speak Monday on his way from Washington to New York.

The secretary of the Fairmount Park Commission, which has jurisdiction over the plaza opposite the north side of City Hall, had refused a permit for a Socialist mass meeting, explaining it was against the rules for political meetings to be held on the plaza.

However, unofficial word was conveyed to the Socialist leaders that if they desired to hold a meeting on the plaza there probably would be no interference. Thomas, addressing about 2,000 persons, told the audience that his speech would be a "history lesson" and added:

"Now pupils, let us get together and have an understanding. I am not making a political speech here and I presume that President Hoover when he comes here will not make a political speech. When Hoover comes here, be sure to keep order, because he has been known to call out the Army, as he did in Washington."

"When President Hoover comes here Monday he will tell you of all the chickens in the pot of the Republican party and of all the cars in the garages. But don't forget they had to kill the chickens because they couldn't feed them, and they keep the cars in the garages because they have no gas.

"You know all of the rough stuff in this town has been pulled by the Republican party. The Vare machine has a little boy here called the Democratic party, who lives on the crumbs thrown to it by Papa Vare."

Thomas told his listeners that "The Republican party in Pennsylvania has run roughshod over us and has taken the state of William Penn and made it the estate of Andrew Mellon."

He Hurried to City to Cheer Pitt

The Browns, pictured in Pittsburgh today upon their arrival to attend tomorrow's Notre Dame-Pitt game—at which they'll cheer specifically for Pitt. And if Pitt wins, they'll bring the whole Brown family, including two boys now playing football and another youngster they expect to be born in January, to next year's game. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

JOE BROWN HERE TO CHEER PITT

Joe E. Brown is in town and he brought Mrs. Brown along, and all because he plans to give Pitt his oral as well as moral support at tomorrow's Notre Dame game.

Joe promises to bring the whole Brown family next year if Pitt wins. That will swell the support by three more Browns and his adopted son, Michael Frankowitch, plus, and here Joe let out a secret:

"There'll be another Brown arriving in January."

Mr. and Mrs. Brown had planned attending tomorrow's game since last year. Joe has a warm affection for Pitt. It began when the Oakland graduate, Regis Toomey, started his film career in Hollywood. Today Toomey is one of Joe's closest friends, to which circle Jock Sutherland, Pitt coach, also has become attached.

Pittsburgh Mail Flier Forced Down

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28.—A Pennsylvania Airlines passenger ship, carrying mail only, was forced down by weather here today, and the pilot, Trowbridge Sebree, of Pittsburgh, returned to Washington several hours later.

Rain, with visibility poor and ice forming on the wings of the big tri-motored plane, made it necessary for Pilot Sebree to land, he said.

Library Force Toils Payless on Sundays

Volunteer members of the staff of Carnegie Library, Schenley Park, will be on duty from 2 to 6 p. m. Sunday in the adult lending department, when books may be borrowed and returned as on week days. Sunday opening will continue throughout the winter. The workers will receive no pay, as extra pay for Sunday work was eliminated from the 1932 budget.

Pitt-Irish Game Links 2 Veteran Announcers

Kaufman, McNamee To Work Together First Time

Two of radio's most popular announcers will be united for the first time in their 10 years of broadcasting when Louis L. Kaufmann, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, "goes network" and joins Graham McNamee in describing the Pitt-Notre Dame football game at the Stadium tomorrow.

Both Kaufman and McNamee are radio pioneers, entering the radio field as announcers when the industry was in its infancy. McNamee won his way to the heights as an early announcer of sports on National Broadcasting Company networks, while Kaufman has remained in Pittsburgh to bhild up a following of thousands with his daily news broadcasts from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms.

Kaufman and McNamee will be heard over the NBC-Red network and through Station WCAE locally. The program goes on the air at 1:45 p. m.

Ted Husing, veteran Columbia System sports ace, arrived here today to complete arrangements for his broadcast of the Stadium struggle to be heard here through Station WJAS. Husing visions a real battle and says that while Pitt may lead in the early part of the game, the Irish will be victors by a score of 18-13.

Red Heckler Ousted As King Boris Talks

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—A Communist cry of "Down With the Fascist Government," interrupted a speech by King Boris today at the opening of parliament. Ushers surrounded the man who had shouted and ejected him while the rest of the deputies cheered.

Allegheny Allotted $251,038 For Relief

Additional relief funds totaling $251,038.79 have been allotted to Allegheny County by the State Emergency Relief Board, according to news dispatches from Harrisburg. These funds are part of $1,500,000 approved by the board yesterday. Almost one-third of the amount will go to Western Pennsylvania counties.

PENNA. FIRM GRIPPED BY DEALS

Son-in-Law of Benn Grilled; Lobbying Fund Admitted

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 28.—The amazing financing of the Samuel Insull utility structure, the confused transactions of Walter L. Morgan, son-in-law of former Public Service Commissioner James S. Benn, in a Pennsylvania utility stock, and the work of the public policy committee of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, which was an agency to influence legislation, were paraded before the Senate Utilities Investigating Committee today.

From Walter E. Long, former treasurer of the Public Policy Committee, O. K. Eaton, counsel for the committee, drew the admission that utilities were assessed for propaganda work, the high point of contribution being reached in 1926, when $31,000 was in the fund at Long's disposal.

During 1926 Gov. Pinchot called the Legislature in special session in a futile effort to pass a series of giant power bills, which were opposed by the utilities.

PINCHOT URGES NEW R. F. C. LOAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot asked the Reconstruction Corporation today for what he called a "common-sense" program of allotting federal relief to Pennsylvania this winter, but received no assurance that the board would do as he sought.

The state has applied for $45,000,000, the maximum allowed under the law, and to date has received slightly more than $5,000,000.

Pinchot was accompanied by Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon, Jay Goodnough, Speaker of the House; State Treasurer Edward Martin, and W. B. Rogers, chairman of the State Emergency Relief Committee, all of whom joined in asking the board how much the state could expect before April 1.

They told the board they felt the "budget relief plan" was the only businesslike way to extend federal aid to thousands of needy in Pennsylvania.

Rogers planned to apply especially for $6,000,000 for relief in the state during November.

Ingrid in London, Royal Romance Rumors Rife

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Persistent rumors that Princess Ingrid of Sweden will become engaged either to the Prince of Wales or his younger brother, Prince George, stirred Britain anew today.

Inspired by the sudden airplane arrival of the Princess from Brussels, the press joined the public in putting recent events together to reveal a royal romance between Ingrid and one of the British princes.

Sweden, too, according to the Daily Herald, foresees an engagement announcement. The Stockholm correspondent of the Herald wrote:

"All Sweden is weaving a romance for Ingrid following a mysterious hint from high court quarters that an announcement of great interest will be made early in November."

This point was strengthened by the fact that Ingrid's parents, the Crown Prince Gustaf Olaf and the Crown Princess Louise, will arrive in London in November for a visit. Their presence would be necessary if an engagement announcement were to be made here.

Soon after the princess' arrival yesterday, the Prince of Wales received the Swedish ambassador, Baron Palmstierna, on a "mystery" visit to St. James Palace.

The princess will spend the first few days of her visit with the Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, and then will see her grandfather, the Duke of Connaught.

FALSE REPORT ON POLL TO AID HOOVER LAID TO BROKERS

DIGEST DENIES VOTERS SEEK TO SHIFT

Asks Stock Exchange Discipline Firm for Untrue Statements

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The New York Stock Exchange was called on today to discipline a prominent brokerage firm for distributing false information over its private wires, intended to aid the candidacy of President Hoover. The demand was made by officials of the Literary Digest, who refused to accept a retraction proffered by the brokerage firm.

Included in the charge of distributing a baseless and false story with Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., brokers of 26 Broadway, was Raymond Benjamin, of California, member of the Republican National Committee, delegate to the Republican national convention, personal friend and close confidante of President Hoover, and recognized by all leading Republicans as the chief Hoover strategist in the campaign.

BROADCASTER NAMED

William Hard, former newspaper correspondent in Washington, political broadcaster and commentator, and regarded as one of Hoover's journalistic friends, was mentioned as having alluded to the false statement in a radio address.

Complaint was made to the stock exchange directors after it was learned that Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., a firm of 18 members, said to be actively interested in the Republican campaign, sent the following message to more than a score of branch offices on October 15:

"We are told that the Literary Digest has received over 35,000 letters in the last 10 days from people who originally voted for Roosevelt on the poll and now wish the ballots changed to Hoover."

This false report was disseminated in defiance of the recent order from the stock exchange governors forbidding any member to send political propaganda to branches or clients. The same order called on all exchange members to send copies of any political wires previously sent to the exchange's committee on business conduct.

EDITOR EXPLAINS

Dr. William Seaver Woods, editor of the Literary Digest, asserted today that not a single letter suggesting a change of vote had been received when the message was distributed. He denounced it as "an old-fashioned political roorback" and "an outrageous falsehood."

A "roorback" is defined by the dictionary as "a lie or fictitious report for political purposes." In branding the report as false, Dr. Woods said:

"Up until the time the falsehood was launched the Digest had not received a single letter asking that a vote be changed."

G. O. P. ANGERS ROOSEVELT

By RAMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Rested from his recent strenuous campaign in the Middlewest and South, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today started drafting the speech he will deliver Monday night in Boston in his whirlwind swing through New England.

The Democratic presidential nominee, his advisors revealed, is "fighting mad" because of the repeated declarations by the Republicans that election of the Democratic national ticket will impede business recovery. With the Governor in this frame of mind they predict the "political fur" will fly now until the close of the campaign.

While the Governor has not disclosed the subject of his Boston address, it is understood he is planning to renew his attack on President Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge for attempting to "scare" the voters from supporting the Democratic national ticket.

Helen Demands Carol Yield Control of Son

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—The dramatic duel of the past week between King Carol and his divorced queen, now the Princess Helen, was brought to a climax today.

Helen not only insisted that she remain in Bucharest and assume full control of the education of their son, the 11-year-old Crown Prince Michael, but also demanded $110,000 annually, a sum equal to more than two-thirds of the entire Rumanian civil list.

Of the $110,000, Helen asked $50,000 for herself and $60,000 for Prince Michael.

Carol, although refusing to turn his son's share over to Helen, agreed to pay his former queen the $50,000 annually she asked.

The cabinet was scheduled to meet today to decide for or against Helen. The meeting will follow two days of conversations at the royal palace at Sinaia between Carol, Premier Juliu Maniu friend of Helen's, and Nicholas Titulescu, former premier, close to Carol but violently opposed to Helen's return.

It was rumored that Helen was supporting Greek monarchists and because of this was presenting the great financial demands.

mand for repeal of what he calls this exorbitant tariff. My own position is clear. I am squarely for a protective tariff."

In Athens, O., Mr. Hoover was greeted by another large throng and in his speech he mentioned the precarious state of the coal industry, which he ascribed to "a destructive competition" such as prevails in no other industry. He recalled that a year ago he had proposed to Congress a modification of the anti-trust laws to permit "more co-operation" in the marketing of coal.

President Hoover said:

"The coal industry has gone through a long period of difficulty. The competition of oil and electricity has tended to prevent the expansion of the industry, or even its maintenance on a fair level.

"These competitors have, in my view, about exhausted themselves an dthe natural growth of the country will give a greater future. But in the meantime, the industry has been reduced to a bitter, destructive competition, the main burden of which falls upon the backs of the wage earner. I know the hardships that have been heid upon this industry and the men engaged in it.

CITES CO-OPERATION

"I have for many years co-operated officially with those who are trying to solve these difficulties, to bring the industry back to a point where it can earn a decent profit and where it can employ labor continuously at decent wages.

"The only way to do this is to remove the necessity for the destructive competition, which has not only brought it to its present deplorable state, but which also is resulting in the absolute destruction of our national resources and the improvement of labor.

"To this end, I suggested there should be some measure of co-operation in the marketing of coal. In order that the industry might be placed on a sound and permanent basis I recommended to Congress that we should institute an inquiry as to the economic working of these laws as applied to the natural resource industries."

Hoover, Ritchie Rivals On Indianapolis Stump

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Rivalry in campaign showmanship flared high in the Hoosier capital today as President Herbert Hoover and Gov. Albert C Ritchie brought bids for party support to Indiana voters.

The Republican President, making his fourth western swing in his campaign for re-election, and the Maryland executive, speaking for the Democratic candidate, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, headed for this "crossroads of America" with major addresses prepared for delivery before two great crowds.

Maneuvers of the state Republican and Democratic committees, each seeking to excel in presentation of rousing rallies, wound up in a flurry of arrangements for parades welcoming the two noted guests.

The President will address a Republican rally in the Butler University field house, which seats 22,000, at 7:30 p. m., central standard time. Gov. Ritchie speaks at 9:15 p. m. in downtown Cadle Tabernacle, which has a capacity of 15,000. Both addresses will be broadcast nationally.

elected, would bring about American recognition of Soviet Russia and advocate other radical policies.

G. O. P. DENIES PLOT

Farely's statement concerning the "Stalin plot" was characterized as "utter nonsense" by Senator Felix Hebert, eastern campaign manager in charge of the Republican headquarters in New York.

Farley also turned his oratorical guns on Henry Ford. Commenting on press dispatches to the effect that Ford had neglected to register, Farley wanted to know how the Detroit manufacturer had the temerity to suggest to his employes how to vote, as he did in notices posted in his plant and in a radio appeal.

Farley, in pointing out the "Stalin plot," said the Democratic leaders are on the alert for last-minute "schemes" of the Republicans to place Roosevelt in a wrong light. He said:

"No American voter, of course, will be fooled by such propaganda."

Farley called attention to the fact that recently the Democratic organization had "exposed" the "endless chain of postal cards plot," urging voters in Indiana to write Alfred E. Smith's name in on the ballot. The Democrats charged that Republican campaign managers in Chicago circulated thousands of these postal cards among the 1928 supporters of Smith in Indiana. The cards were signed, "Smith for President Club." Smith, in his speech at Boston last night, repudiated the plan, pleading with his admirers not to write his name in on the ballot.

Earlier, Farley raised a question of veracity between himself, the Montreal Star and the Chicago Tribune, in denying he ever solicited funds from a Canadian shipping man.

The Star said that a prominent local shipping man had received a letter from Farley "asking him to agree that the United States needs a change in public administration," and advising him how contributions could be made.

The news stories did not name the shipper.

SMITH STUMPS BACK TO N. Y. IN TRIUMPH

Boston Roars Approval Of 'Al's' Fiery Plea For Roosevelt Votes

By GENE K. LORICK
International News Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Urging his New England friends to join with him in the unqualified and complete support of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, "Al" Smith and his familiar brown derby continued their triumphant march across Massachusetts today.

Leaving behind the cheers of his supporters in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Boston, a frank expression of his dissatisfaction with the outcome of the Chicago convention, a denouncement of bigotry and a slashing attack on the Hoover administration for its failure to recognize the economic depression, the "happy warrior" of the 1928 presidential campaign today moves back into New York State.

EN ROUTE TO BUFFALO

The Empire State's former Governor and his party are aboard the private car "Washington," attached to the second section of the noon train out of Boston over the line of the Boston and Albany Railroad, en route to Albany and Buffalo, N. Y., where "Al" speaks tomorrow.

A stirring, tumultuous ovation was accorded Smith by 17,000 men and women when he spoke in the Boston arena last night.

Smith aroused shouting, foot-stamping, flag-waving demonstrations with his assertion that the greatest failure of President Hoover's administration was "that they left the people of this country entirely in the dark with regard to the all important function of the government—the proper adjustment of our financial condition."

APPROVAL ROARED

A roar of approval greeted his statement that:

"I believe the salvation of the country in the crisis it is now in, the progress that it must make to get away from the stagnation of trade, business and unemployment, lies upon the success of the Democratic ticket under the leadership of Franklin Roosevelt and John Garner."

"A Republican trick," he branded the use of postal cards in an "endless chain" to voters asking them to write in Smith's name on the ballot in the November election.

He briefly referred to his Newark speech and reasserted his charge he believed the Republican party to be one of bigotry which in 1928 raised the religious issue against him.

In his excoriation of the administration's failure to foresee the economic slump or remedy it, he accused President Hoover of failure also to understand America's foreign difficulties.

EVOKES LAUGHTER

Laughter echoed through the huge auditorium as Smith cited the words of the President to the effect the forces of depression were in retreat. He declared:

"After he was forced to acknowledge it (the existence of the depression), he spent two years explaining to everybody he had it licked."

Sharp criticism was directed at Hoover by Smith for the President's handling of the bonus army. He said:

"The President of the United States is the commander in chief of the Army and Navy. These men who camped in Washington belonged to the United States Army. It was his business to go out and talk to them. It was his business to explain the situation, the finances of the country with respect to the claim they were making. Instead, the marchers were driven out."

Rule on Film Modesty Demanded by Actress

Rita La Roy Insists Director Exceeded Discretion

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28.—How modest is modest in the movies and what is a peril of life and limb are two questions that had the lords of Hollywood pulling at their figurative beards today.

Rita La Roy, petite actress, is the cause of all the trouble, which grew out of her dismissal from a film set by John Francis Dillon, screen director.

She complained to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that while on location Dillon insisted she unbutton a considerable portion of an 1849 costume for a certain scene.

After she unfastened as many buttons as she deemed discreet, Dillon commanded her to continue but she remained adamant. As a result, relation became somewhat strained.

But they reached the breaking point in the next scene. The villain was supposed to lunge at her as they rode on a covered wagon. Instead, as he came at her she clutched him and prevented, she said, a fall of four feet backward which might have broken her neck.

She got her walking papers and had to beg for a ride to town, and she wants the Academy concilliation committee to decide whether she "did right."

INSULL LINKED IN PA. UTILITY MONEY MAZE

Son-in-Law of Benn Grilled; Lobbying Fund Admitted

vania Water and Power Company, but said that Benn had not owned a share of the stock until December of 1931, after he had left the commission under fire of Gov. Pinchot. This transaction, by which Morgan through two intervening companies apparently sold to Benn, appeared confused. Morgan conceded, because it was a move to enable him to take an income tax loss. He resented the implication that Benn had profited from any of his stock purchases.

The Insull maze deepened through the testimony of W. A. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the Penn Central Power and Light Company, of Altoona, an Insull corporation, subsidiary of the National Electric Power Company, in turn controlled by Middle-West Utilities.

LOAN DISTRIBUTED

Electric Light and Management Company, another Insull outfit, paid to Penn Central a loan of $2,440,000, which was immediately lent to other Insull corporations. Included was a loan to the Altoona and Logan Valley Electric Railway of $1,100,000 in January of 1932, the company going into receivership in August of this year. Another loan of $493,667.13 was made to the Central Utilities Service Company of Ohio.

Eaton brought out that these loans had been made on orders from New York offices of the Insulls. Eaton asked Miller:

"Has the loan of this money embarrassed your company?"

The witness replied:

"We think these loans are collectible, and will be collected if business turns up."

"How about your next bond interest?"

QUIZZED ON RATE BOOST

Senator Salus, of Philadelphia, entered the questioning, with the query:

"If you lose this money won't the rate payers of Pennsylvania have to absorb the loss in higher rates, already having provided the money?"

Miller replied:

"Rates aren't based on capital stock value and the loss will be to the stockholders, if there is any."

"But wouldn't their dividends be higher except for these loans, and wouldn't that reduce rates? Isn't there a point where conscience controls dividends?"

Eaton interjected:

"Hasn't your company been paying 30 per cent on its common capital stock? Do you think that is fair return?"

The witness said the 30 per cent rate was approximately correct and added he would not consider that exorbitant.

Eaton demanded:

"Are your rates so high that you can take a loss of $2,440,000? Is there that much velvet?"

LOAN PASSED ON

At the afternoon session Eaton brought out that the Penn Central loan to the Altoona Street Railway was in turn used to pay off a loan to the Municipal Service Company, another Insull concern. Eaton asked:

"In June."

"Isn't it true that the offices were moved to get their books out of Pennsylvania?"

"I don't know."

Eaton insisted the whole series of transactions should be termed "check kiting," but the witness did not like that term and described them as "simultaneous loans."

COST ON CONSUMERS

Digging into alleged expenditures of utilities for propaganda purposes, Eaton questioned A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, former head of the Philadelphia Company, as to activities of the public policy and educational committees of the Pennsylvania Electric Association when he was a member of those committees.

Robertson was questioned on a letter he had written to Maj. J. S. S. Richardson, chairman of the educational committee, about some alleged unfair passages in Iowa school books regarding utilities. Robertson admitted writing the letter, but said he had done nothing to influence the contents of text books in Pennsylvania.

PINCHOT HOLDS P. S. C. CAT PAW

HARRISBURG, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today credited Attorney General William A. Schnader with unearthing the facts disclosed by the Senate utility investigating committee concerning the stock transactions of former Commissioner James S. Benn. The Governor said:

"The first instalment of the Attorney General's information, transmitted by me to the Senate investigating committee on Tuesday, supplied the facts concerning Mr. James S. Benn and Walter L. Morgan, his son-in-law, which were brought out in yesterday's and today's hearing.

"These facts contain further evidence that the Public Service Commission as it used to be was the cat's paw of the corporations, and exposes some of the machinery by which that result was secured.

"Other information is in preparation in the office of the Attorney General and will be submitted to the committee when completed."

Candidates' Merits Will Be Debated

A debate on the qualifications of President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Washington High School auditorium, Mt. Lebanon.

Attorney John M. Henry, registration commissioner, has been assigned to speak in behalf of Roosevelt, while Attorneys Ben Lencher and Joseph Richardson have been chosen as the Republican speakers.

Jury Barred When Film Shows 'Undie' Dance

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 28.—(Universal.)—A disappointed jury has been cheated of a chance to see pretty Dorothy Rosenthal, petite, brunette and 25, dancing in her undies in a darkened grand jury room in Federal Court.

Dorothy danced—on a celluloid motion picture reel—but Judge John Boyd Avis and two lawyers were the only spectators.

And after the private preview of the four-reel movie, the judge, wtih no regard for the curiosity of a jury, decided that the 12 need not see the film at all, and directed a verdict of "no cause of action."

It was all part of Miss Rosenthal's suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad asking $300,000. She declared she was injured in a wreck March, 1931, and could never dance again.

The movies were taken at a "bungalow party" some months after the accident by a gay deceiver who pretended to be a good friend of Dorothy, but turned out to be Charles A. Housel, a private detective.

SEARCH FOR BOY LINKS ANNOYER

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—An unidentified man, accused of annoying children, was sought by police today in connection with the hunt for Ebert Holleron, 8, who has been missing mysteriously from his home here since last Saturday.

The intensive search for the boy was renewed today, with no positive clew to his fate yet discovered.

Coast Guards dragged a pond near his home yesterday, while scores of men and boys hunted through the ravines, parks and woods on the outskirts of the city.

An anonymous telephone call, late yesterday, said the body of the boy was buried in Washington Park, but searchers were unable to find a grave there.

Police feared the youth either was killed by a hit-run automobile driver, who disposed of his body, or that he may have been kidnaped.

JAPANESE MOVE MUKDEN ARMY

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Final stages of the moving of the Japanese military headquarters from here, chief seat of Japanese military operations during the past year's campaign, were completed today.

Changchun, capital of Manchukuo, henceforth will be the Manchurian headquarters of the Japanese army.

The extensive, three-story structure which served as the headquarters was a bedlam, with straw matting, used for packing, filling the hallways along with pyramids of packing cases.

In all, 2,000 Japanese, official and military, will leave Mukden for the new headquarters.

Culbertson and Sims Bridge War Favorites

Vanderbilt Ambitions Serious Bar to Ely's Wife's Hopes

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—With the field narrowed down to eight teams, the annual contest for the Vanderbilt cup, most coveted trophy in tournament bridge, swings into the quarter-final round this afternoon.

All the favorites came through in the first knockout round of 36 boards, which ended in the early hours of the morning. From now on, it will be a slugging fight for survival among the giants of the bridge world.

The dopesters generally believe that the finals will see the teams of Ely Culbertson and P. Hal Sims engaged for the honor of having their names inscribed on the famous trophy. There was much sentimental rooting, however, for Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, pitted against her husband for the first time in tournament bridge.

JOSEPHINE WINS

Mrs. Culbertson's team eliminated the foursome headed by Curt Reisinger, by 3,735 points. But to meet her famous husband in the finals, Mrs. Culbertson and her teammates will first have to defeat Sims and his partners—Willard S. Karn, Waldemar von Zedwitz and Harold S. Vanderbilt.

No easy task in any case, it is made doubly hard this year by Vanderbilt's determination to have his name inscribed on the cup which he donated. Never a winner, Vanderbilt this year is a member of the strongest team he ever has been associated with in the tournament.

NORTH
Spades—Q-J-5-4-2.
Diamonds—Q-J-8-2.

WEST

SOUTH

VANDERBILT WINS

Both sides were vulnerable and Vanderbilt and Von Zedwitz got up to four hearts. South, with a powerful trump holding and two apparent quick tricks in diamonds, as well as two kings, doubled.

South led the king of diamonds. Vanderbilt trumped and then successfully finessed through the club king. From that time, Vanderbilt cross-ruffed spades in the dummy and diamonds in his own hand. On the last two ruffs in his own hand he played the ace and king of hearts, and the South player was forced, having nothing else, to under-ruff. Five tricks were made.

Bristol Unemployed Attack Aid Office

BRISTOL, England, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Brisk street fighting occurred today when a mob of unemployed attacked the offices of the Public Assistance Committee after a deputation of jobless had been refused admittance.

Police with drawn batons charged the rioters and a spirited scuffle followed. Several were injured and four arrested.

'How to Keep Husband' Recipe Fails Its Author

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Janet Lorna Fantin, who for months spoke over a national radio system on "How to Keep a Husband," has filed a suit for divorce from Humbert Fantin, New York importer, whom she charged with cruelty.

The divorce petition said the couple married in New York October 25, 1925 and separated January 9, 1929. There are no children and no community property.

She said Fantin was absent from home for long periods of time and was unsociable and rude to her in front of friends.

B. E. F. TO MOVE HEADQUARTERS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Asserting that his first act would be to move the national headquarters of the Bonus Expeditionary Force from Uniontown to Chicago, George Anthony today assumed his duties as national field commander.

Anthony, a resident of Chicago, succeeds Hoke Smith, who was relieved of his office yesterday after the general staff charged him with "creating public prejudice" against the B. E. F.

The staff officers adopted a resolution yesterday reiterating their "100 per cent approval" of Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner for President and Vice President.

2 GIRLS FREED IN AX KILLING

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The number of persons held in connection with a triple slaying here two weeks ago dwindled to two today as Rose and Margaret Renda were released.

The girls were detained after their father, Philip Renda, 50, was arrested as a suspect. Renda and Clyde Harden, a relative of the victims, are still in custody.

Billy Tressler, whose mother, sister and grandmother were killed, is recovering from injuries he met in the slayer's attack.

TOSS GOLD LOOT INTO RIVER

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—A patrolman on the Williamsburg Bridge was astonished at the sight of three men dropping large bars of gold into the East River, but not too astonished to nab them. As a result, six men and two women are under arrest today and the mystery of the $50,000 gold robbery from a Brooklyn precious metal plant last Tuesday has been solved.

Apparently several bars of gold had already been tossed from the lofty heights of the bridge into the swirling waters as only four bars remained in the car.

The three men gave their names as Jacob Charee, Joseph Kaplan and Frank Jandezjak. Charee and Kaplan were immediately identified as two of the men who held up the Kastenhuber and Lehrfeld metal refining plant.

The prisoners were questioned and soon a car laden with police was rushing to a Brooklyn tenement, where two men and four women were taken into custody. No loot was found in the flat but eight revolvers, several Maxim silencers and a quantity of ammunition justified the holding of the tenants on Sullivan law charges.

Weather Conditions.

Light rains occurred over the Upper Ohio Valley states, the lake region and eastward to the coast during yesterday and last night as a result of the low pressure that apepared over the Great Lakes yesterday morning and which is now off the New England coast. There was also light rain or snowfall over the northwestern states in the low pressure area that was centered over Alberta yesterday morning, and which is now over the Dakotas. High pressure is centered over the Ohio Valley states and southward and over Alberta. There is still considerable cloudiness over the northern states, while over the southern half of the country the skies are clear. Temperature changes were slight over the states east of the Mississippi, but with a tendency towards colder, while over the plains states temperatures are rising. In the Far Northwest there was a marked drop in temperature to considerably below freezing.

BELL SWOONS AT SENTENCE

Tony Bell, former Fayette County detective, racketeer and "squealer" in the Constable Jack Donohoe racket murder, collapsed in Federal Court today when Judge F. P. Schoonmaker imposed a two-year sentence, to be added to the three-year term he is now serving in the Federal reformatory, at Chillicothe, O.

It was his second sentence for impersonating a prohibition agent. Bell was sentenced March 11, last, in Buffalo to serve three years. Two weeks later he and three others were convicted at Erie for impersonating officers at New Kensington. Sentence at that time was held up because Bell was needed as a witness in Fayette County to back up a confession he made in Buffalo accusing Robert C. Bledsoe and Tony Stangoni, of murdering Donohoe, a crime for which Bell had been acquitted. Stengoni and Bledsoe later were acquitted.

JAIL BEESON STOCK HOAXER

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Frank C. Davis was sentenced today to four and one-half years in prison for using the mails to defraud Miss Kathryn Beeson, of Pittsburgh, of $177,000.

Davis was convicted yesterday by a jury which had listened to testimony for a week and which recommended leniency.

In imposing sentence Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey said he considered the maximum five-year penalty possible under the law was altogether inadequate, but that in view of the jury's recommendation he would deduct six months from the maximum.

WOMAN LINKED IN BOMB PLOT

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—A woman's alleged connection with a campaign of terrorism directed against Supt. of Schools William J. Bogan and a number of his subordinates was under investigation today.

Held by police was Mrs. Gussie Kallis, 40, vice chairman of the Associated Retailers of Chicago, an organization which, according to Supt. Bogan, has opposed school board operation of school lunch rooms.

Experts allege the handwriting on several threatening notes sent school officials was identical with that of Mrs. Kallis. She denied writing the notes.

Bogan's home was bombed and slightly damaged last Saturday.

Unaware Own Mother Took Her From Luxury Home

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Three-year-old Nancy Irene Buchanan was happily back in her nursery today unaware she was the center of a story-book tale of real life which combined kidnaping, attempted extortion, a tragedy of mother love and the wealth of an old English estate.

MOTHER UNRECOGNIZED

The circumstances which brought her into the midst of this strange picture began a few hours after her birth as the daughter of Ruth Borman, unmarried mother and former Iowa girl, who sat brokenly in a jail cell today awaiting threatened prosecution for kidnaping.

Nancy did not know Miss Borman, 20 years old, as "mother." That was the name to her of Mrs. Violet C. Buchanan, her guardian; a wealthy divorcee and daughter of an aristocratic family of England and the California Spaniards, from whose home she was abducted Wednesday.

HOAX REVEALED

With her mother Mrs. Buchanan inherited the £100,000 estate of her father, Clevedon Thomas, English gentleman. The will provided Mrs. Buchanan could pass the fortune only to an heir of her own blood. So when her marriage to her chauffeur, Arthur Buchanan, from whom she was recently divorced, proved fruitless, she filed a birth certificate attesting she was the mother of Nancy. On protests of other heirs she amended this to show the real mother.

Attempts to adopt the child were blocked by Miss Borman.

Following the kidnaping, Miss Borman was quickly traced when her suitor, M. E. Warner, admitted the kidnaping but denied inplication in two extortion notes demanding $12,500 from Mrs. Buchanan on threat of abduction of the child.

NORMAN GETS RIOT THREAT

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A special detachment of plainclothes police today stood guard about the Kensington residence of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, following receipt of an anonymous threat that it would be mobbed by unemployed.

Norman was told on the telephone by an unknown caller:

"The unemployed are coming down to break up your house."

Police guarded the house throughout the night, but nothing happened.

Placing the official casualties of the Hyde Park unemployment riot at 19 police and 58 demonstrators injured, Sir John Gilmour, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, told the House of Commons today that the demonstrators carried weapons "by deliberate intent."

The tariff, he said, should be higher to meet foreign competition that he asserted still exists even under the Republican tariff.

The Senator said he had found a drift for President Hoover in New York state and New England and added:

"If we get together as missionaries, the Hoover drift will be accelerated."

He attacked Gov. Roosevelt on "efficiency;" said that he had not met the banking issues in New York state as the federal government had for national banks, and that expenditures in New York state had increased during Roosevelt's term as Governor.

Find Ceiling Fan Used in Gambling

ATLANTA, Ga.—With summer passing and the dismantling of ceiling fans in Atlanta hotel rooms, guests are deprived of a new form of gambling. The manager of a leading hotel here reported finding in one room the numbers 1-2-3-4, formed from adhesive tape, pasted on the four blades of a fan. On the ceiling adhesive had been used to form an arrow. The fan would be turned on long enough to gain full speed, turned off, and the number nearest the arrow won the mony.

Evans, receivers of the hotel company, are named as defendants.

ELECTION RACE IN MOUNTAIN STATES HOT

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Three states in the Rocky Mountain region of the Far West are proving dangerous grounds as election day approaches.

Two are dangerous for Gov. Roosevelt and one for President Hoover.

Roosevelt is battling Hoover for every inch of the latter's slender margin in Colorado, while Hoover, with the same tenacity is cutting in under Roosevelt inch by inch to undermine his slight leads in Montana and Wyoming.

These three states can be classed as doubtful as any three in the whole United States, according to returns in the nation-wide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Colorado, to date, has returned 6,855 ballots, out of which Hoover holds a majority of 131, of which 53 was acquired in the tabulation of 207 new ballots. On last week's tabulation Roosevelt obtained a majority of six out of 198 from Colorado, while the week before, Hoover got a margin of four out of 798.

The week before that, Roosevelt got a majority of 103 out of 791. These figures give an idea of how closely the campaign is being contested in Colorado. Hoover today holds the state by 51 per cent.

Montana has returned 4,004 ballots, of which Roosevelt has a majority of 192, giving him the state by 52 per cent. However, Hoover obtained a majority of 50 in the tabulation of 514 new ballots today.

Last week Montana gave Roosevelt 29 majority out of 201 ballots, while the week before Hoover got 11 majority out of 263 ballots and the week before that Roosevelt 13 out of 345. That is how close the battle is running in Montana.

Wyoming shows a majority of 30 for Roosevelt with 1,444 ballots returned. That means he leads with 51 per cent. Today Hoover got a 39 margin out of 227 new votes. Last week Roosevelt got four majority out of 76 and 13 the week before out of 257, with seven the week before that out of 153. So goes the battle in Wyoming.

Except for these three states, the Far West seems altogether safe for Roosevelt. Nowhere else beyond the Kansas line does the Democratic candidate seem to be in danger.

7 STATES G.O.P. IN DIGEST POLL

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, was shown as leading in 41 states in the semi-final returns of the Literary Digest's national poll, the latest figures of which were made public today. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, recorded 141,992 votes or 4.84 per cent of the total ballots.

Roosevelt maintained his 3-to-2 lead over President Hoover, Republican candidate, with the Democratic standard-bearer registering 56.19 per cent, or 1,648,237 votes, while Hoover has 37.33 per cent, or 1,095,274 ballots, of a total of 2,933,600 votes tallied.

Hoover continued to carry Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey. Roosevelt held the lead in the remaining 41 states.

In Pennsylvania, stronghold of Republicanism, Roosevelt kept his lead with 120,054, compared to 88,885 for Hoover.

G.O.P. RALLIES HERE TONIGHT

Four prominent Republicans will speak at a G. O. P. mass meeting in Syria Mosque next Thursday. They are Senator David A. Reed, Hanford MacNider, former assistant Secretary of War; County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and Congressman James M. Beck.

Presidential Trend By States

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

A. F. OF L. HEAD ASKS BEER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today called on Congress to legalize beer at its December session as a measure of unemployment relief.

Green made it plain the American Federation of Labor would oppose any move to delay legalization of beer until the new Congress convenes, some time after next March 4.

Green declared the legalization of beer would go far toward relieving unemployment, restoring economic prosperity and improving law enforcement conditions.

Touching the unemployment situation, Green declared legalized beer would put 100,000 men to work in the brewery industry; revive business for the railroads, spur the mining industry, provide a market for $100,000,000 of farm products, and give work to building tradesmen of all crafts, and to workers in the bottle, label, box, paper and cooperage industries.

Socialists' Rally At Avalon Tonight

Robert Heckert, of Brackenridge, Socialist candidate for Legislature in the Thirteenth District, will speak tonight at a Socialist rally in Avalon borough hall, along with Dr. William S. Van Essen, Socialist nominee for United States senator.

TIPSTAFF GETS WAR MEDAL

Tipstaff Ben Prager, of Criminal Court, has just been decorated with the silver star medal, the first such decoration received in Pittsburgh. It was awarded for distinguished gallantry in action against armed insurgents in the attack on Sibalom, Philippine Islands, September 11, 1900. With their ammunition all but exhausted, Prager, a corporal in Company A, Nineteenth Infantry, led a charge of seven men against 115 insurgents and a number of bolomen, who had attacked a small American garrison, numbering 38 men.

Prager, now a lieutenant, has several other medals for bravery, including the Distinguished Service Cross, won in the World War when he leaped on top of a trench to draw fire from a concealed machine gun nest that was raking off the Americans. He fell back into the trench with 17 bullets in his legs. His comrades by his act were able to locate the nest and wipe it out.

Upshaw, Rogers Tie In Seminary Poll

Prohibition presidential candidate, William. D. Upshaw, polled a lone vote in a straw vote taken by 46 dormitory students of the Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church, Ridge avenue, North Side. President Hoover proved the favorite, with Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, second choice. The vote, conducted by the social committee, of which Hugh Thomson Kerr, Jr., is chairman, polled: Hoover, 25; Thomas, 13; Gov. Roosevelt, Democrat, 6; Upshaw, 1, and Will Rogers, 1.

ARSENAL HIGH DEDICATION SET

Dedication exercises for the new $880,000 Arsenal High School, Butler and Fortieth streets, will be held next Friday, with an all-day program of speaking, pageantry and pupil demonstration.

N. R. Criss, vice president of the Board of Education, will speak at the formal dedicatory exercises in the school auditorium at 10 a. m. Dr. A. L. Lewin, chairman of the board's Building Committee, will preside.

A pageant, "History of the Arsenal Grounds," will be presented by pupils in the afternoon. Folk dances and other entertainment will be given.

Demonstrations in the gymnasium, swimming pool and classrooms will be given in the evening by pupils. The dedication was arranged by a committee of the Arsenal Board of Trade, composed of D. J. Broderick, the Rev. G. A. Curry, R. H. Henderson, F. K. Larkin, Karl Nickel and H. B. Rodgers, working jointly with a Board of Education committee, which included Frank E. Freese, Philip Murray and Dr. A. L. Lewin, chairman.

Rich Scholarship Awaits Student 100 Pct. Moral

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The University of Illinois was put in the market for one student who, with other qualifications, is 100 per cent moral and 100 per cent cheerful.

Such a person is desired to participate in a $80,000 scholarship fund provided for in the will of Wensel Morava, consulting engineer and university alumnus, who died recently, leaving a $500,000 estate.

The will, filed for probate here, gave other qualifications for the scholarship that he (preference is to be given to masculine applicants) be a Czechoslovakian, whose health is 85 to 90 per cent perfect, physique 95 to 100 per cent, and self-application is 95 to 100 per cent.

SEEK CHANGES IN SCHOOL LAW

State Superintendent of Public Instruction James N. Rule today said amendments to Pennsylvania school laws, including possible emergency changes in the Edmonds Act, which sets minimum salaries for teachers and determines the basis of distribution of state subsidies to school districts, will be proposed at the State Educational Congress, which meets in Harrisburg, November 9-10.

A commission for the study of educational problems also is preparing to present its findings relating to the larger unit of school administration, teacher preparation, and other matters in which economic conditions emphasize need for revision of school laws, Dr. Rule said.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—

Patricia Pitt

There's much arriving and departing these days with some folks going to weddings, and others to deb parties in the East, where a debutante's day is still a 24-hour affair.

On Sunday a group of social registerites will start for Minneapolis, Minn. And the attraction is the wedding there on Tuesday of Mary Ellen Selden, daughter of Mrs. Henry Curtis Selden, of Minneapolis, and James Verner Scaife, Jr., one of Pittsburgh's popular bachelors.

Mrs. Scaife and her son will leave on Sunday, and so will all the Pittsburgh folks in the bridal party. And this group includes the Alan Magee Scaifes, Richard King Mellon, John H. Ricketson III, Alexander C. Robinson, William C. Robinson, Jr., Walton Scully, John S Laughlin, Graham McCargo and Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr.

Betty Dalby, daughter of the James M. Dalbys, left last night for New York to attend the debutante party this weekend of Virginia Ousley.

To Make DeBut

Mrs. S. Murray Rust tells me that she and Mr. Rust have decided to present their daughter, Mary Lee Rust. Their older daughter, Mary, made her debut several years ago.

Mary Lee will be presented at a luncheon some time in December. Mrs. Rust hasn't yet decided on a definite date. Mary was graduated from Northampton School for Girls at Northampton, Mass., in June.

Cot Club Play

Sewickley's smart set was to be found at the Edgeworth Club last night to see friends appearing on the stage in "The Queen's Husband," the Sewickley Cot Club's play for 1932.

Before the play, given for the benefit of the Sewickley Valley Hospital, there were ever so many small dinner parties, and after the play there was dancing.

The George B. Irwins, of Montclair, N. J., are guests of Miss Annie D. Flower for the week-end. They are on their way to Miami.

Four Pittsburgh Girls Honored At Oberlin

In a list of dormitory officers recently chosen at Oberlin College, four Pittsburgh students have been honored.

Miss Mary Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Harvey, Phillips avenue, was elected social chairman of Johnson House, and will have charge of all social functions sponsored by that dormitory. She is a senior in Oberlin.

Miss Margaret Gold, a freshman this year, was elected freshman counsel at Churchill Dormitory. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Gold, Perrysville avenue.

At Barrows House, Miss Jane McCullough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. McCullough, Black street, was elected vice president. This is Miss McCullough's senior year at Oberlin.

Miss Helen Schrack, who is starting her first year in the Conservatory of Music, was elected social chairman at Johnson House, also, and will work with Miss Harvey. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Schrack, Carson street.

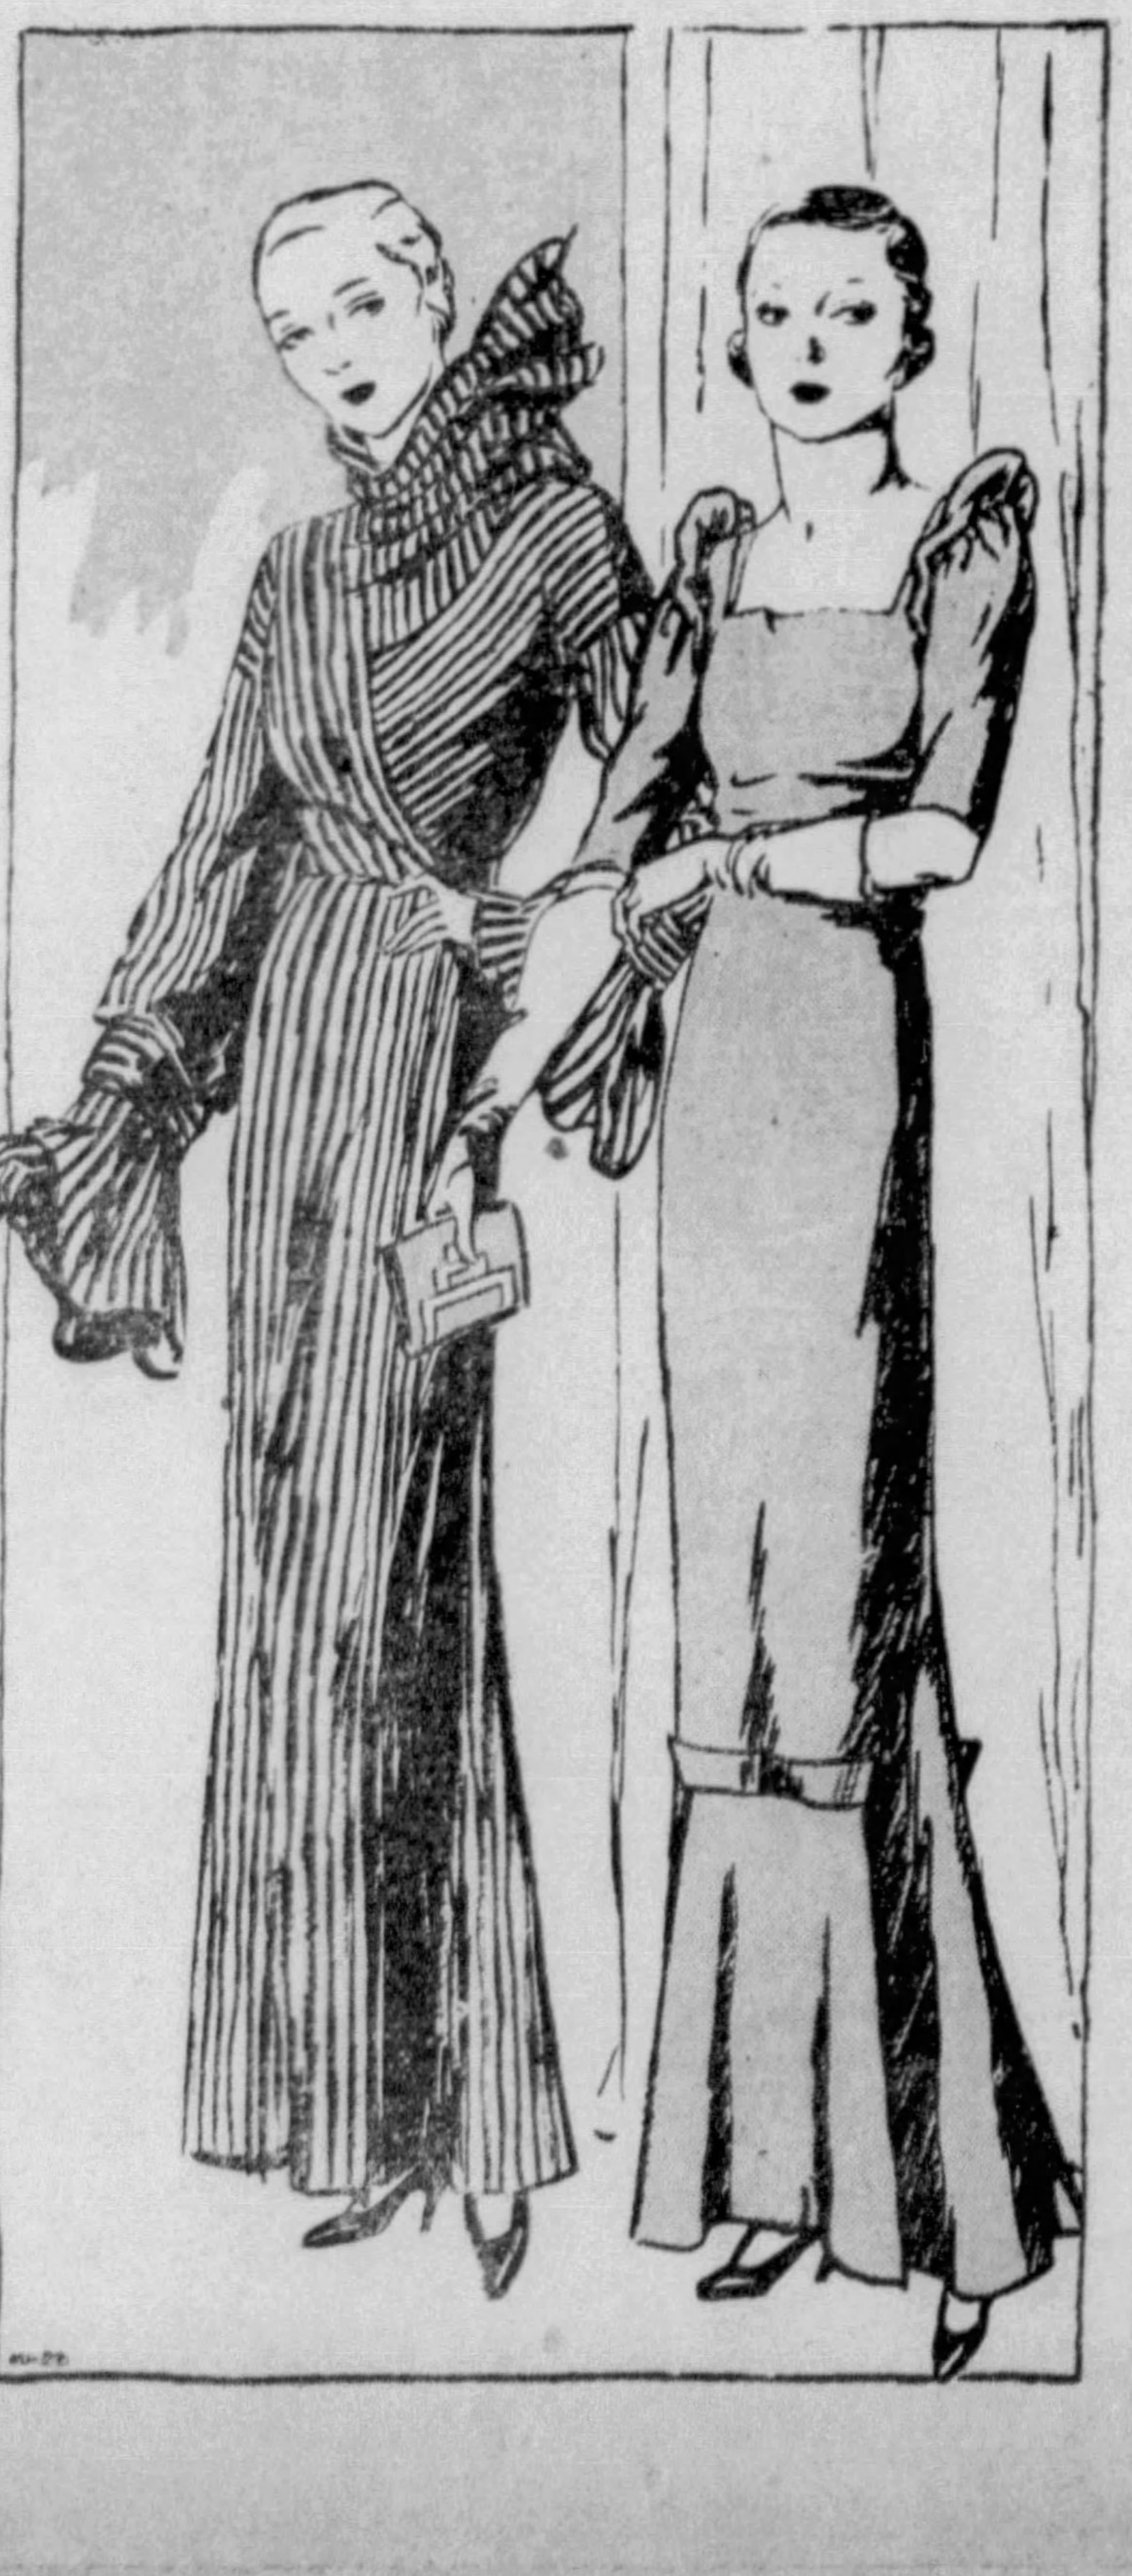
WOOLEN EVENING DRESSES BECOME STANDARD MODERN EQUIPMENT

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Woolen evening dresses, talked of as novelties early in the year, have become almost standard equipment of all well-dressed French women. Besides the many practical considerations, dresses of this type can be made of an extreme simplicity that is almost impossible in a silk frock—a simplicity that becomes the ultimate of good looks, because it does nothing to detract from the natural lines of the figure.

FOR EXAMPLE, there is the Augustabernard evening dress sketched today. A dress of this severity, done in silk, would be almost too plain for the average woman, whereas in black broadcloth, it becomes actually distinctive. There is a certain classic purity of line in the unbroken fabric that reaches from shoulder to knees. The fastening at the side, under the arms, eliminates any break in the smoothness of the line.

THE TWO panels added at the hem, at the front and back, provide fullness about the ankles, and the ruffs at the top of the sleeves lend height to the shoulders. There is not a single touch of color or contrasting trimming of any kind.

* * *

THE EVENING wrap in the sketch, done by Francis, is o[illegible] the current Paris favorites. It is in striped velvet, with wide cuffs and an elaborate scarf collar taking the place of any fur trimming.

Group of Club Women to Aid Flower Sale

A group of Pittsburgh club women, organized by Mrs. Asia L. Negley, will help the Volunteers of America to conduct their "flower sale" on the streets of Pittsburgh tomorrow. The proceeds will be used to continue the feeding of undernourished children at the Maud Booth Day Nursery, West North avenue, and to dispense general relief from the relief station in the Volunteers' Church on Sandusky street.

Mrs. Negley is founder and supreme commander in the United States of the Star and Cresent organization. She will direct the activities of her group from the downtown headquarters of the Volunteers established for the day in the basement of the Commonwealth Trust Company, Fourth avenue.

Fairview Fire Company Auxiliary Holds Party

The second annual Halloween party of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Fairview Fire Department was held last night in the engine house. Mrs. Gladys Cook and William J. Bickert won the costume prizes. Mrs. Virginia Hanna was chairman of entertainment.

Poale Zedeck Sisterhood To Hold Party Wednesday

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the Poale Zedeck Sisterhood will sponsor a depression-versus-prosperity party in the auditorium of the Poale Zedeck Synagogue. Mrs. Murray Edlis is general chairman, and Mrs. Sam Glick is vice chairman.

Passavant Aid Society To Meet on Wednesday

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Passavant Hospital will be held Wednesday in the First Lutheran Church.

East Liberty 'Y' Dance To Be Held Tomorrow

The third annual Halloween dance at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. will be held in the gymnasium tomorrow evening.

Helen Affolter To Be Married Tomorrow

Miss Helen Affolter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Affolter, of Ramsey street, Wilkinsburg, will become the bride of Edward Rouen, of the United States Navy, stationed at the Great Lakes, Ill., aviation base, tomorrow morning in the Affolter home.

George Shields is officiating, in the presence of the families and a few friends. The bride is to be unattended.

After a reception and breakfast, Mr. Rouen and his bride will leave by motor for Chicago. They will be at home in North Chicago after Tuesday.

Miss Dorothy Bugher, Artist Returning to Paris, Feted

One of Pittsburgh's well-known woman artists, who studied at Carnegie Tech and in Paris, is planning to return to Paris, leaving Pittsburgh for New York today. She is Miss Dorothy Bugher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bugher, of Schenley Farms terrace.

Last night Miss Bugher was guest of honor at a small dinner party given by Miss Ruth Haverty in her home in Aylesboro avenue.

The Newcomers of the Pitt Women's Association are adding to the informality of their meetings by bringing their needlework at the request of the chairman, Mrs. Q. A. W. Rohrbach. They will meet Wednesday afternoon in the old College Club to take up poetry.

The Women's Association and the Faculty Club are combining to give a dance and card party on Saturday evening in the College Club. Here, too, a bridge luncheon will be held on the seventh and the regular meeting on the n[illegible]. Dr. A. A. Horvath is to speak on the latter day on "A Scientist's Research Into a Romantic Food" and there will be tea and music.

P.C.W. Alumnae Lists 3 Events For November

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Three events are listed for next month by the Alumnae Association of the Pennsylvania College for Women, The first is the fall meeting on Saturday, the fifth, which is to be a luncheon at the College Club, In the morning the members will discuss scholarship versus student loan.

Next—on the twelfth—comes a white elephant bridge party in Woodland Hall, at the college. Since it is to be in the evening, the men friends of members will be guests, and, by the way, it is not a benefit, but a purely social event. Miss Elizabeth Stadtlander is chairman in charge.

The third event is a buffet supper which the members will give on the nineteenth in honor of the junior class. It's to be in the home of Mrs. George M. Swan, Inverness street, with Miss Marion Stone heading the committee on arrangements.

Fortnightly Review Holds 'Soiree' in Mt. Lebanon

Old-fashioned games and old-fashioned refreshments—cakes four and five layers high and huge pumpkin pies—as well as old-fashioned costumes, marked the "soiree" given last night in Mt. Lebanon Park recreation hall by the Fortnightly Review. The club husbands, who were guests, entered into the spirit of the affair, too, and appeared in some startling costumes.

Prizes for the costumes went to Mr. and Mrs. James S. Huey, Mr. and Mrs. J. W Davis, Mrs. W. M. Bailey, Mrs. S. R. Hoover and A. A. Buehn

The decorations were distinctly original for, in addition to the autumn leaves and cornstalks that grace every Halloween festival, there were potted geraniums and begonias on the windowsills, just like grandmother's day. And the candlesticks were hollowed out ears of corn that had potatoes as their bases.

'Y' Members to Attend Vesper Service Sunday

For its biennial membership observance, the Young Women's Christian Association will attend vesper services in Shadyside Presbyterian Church on Sunday at 4:15 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr will preach, using as his theme "Social Responsibility."

Mrs. D. M. Clemson, who is a member of the Central Branch committee of management, will sing, and other musical numbers are being arranged by Earl Mitchell, organist of the church.

12th Ward Women Voters' League to Meet Monday

The Twelfth Ward League of Women Voters will meet Monday afternoon in the Lemington School. Ray C. Dever, of the Bureau of Elections, will speak on "Election Laws."

Frick Elementary P. T. A. To Hear Scouting Talks

Addresses on girl and boy scouting will be made at the meeting of the Frick Elementary Parent-Teacher Association next Friday afternoon.

Future Home Donation Day Set for November 7

The annual donation day of the New Future Home will be observed Monday, November 7, from 2 until 10 o'clock.

Bogus Telephone Slugs Jail Man

Arrested in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station last night while he was alleged to have been depositing metal slugs in a telephone pay station, Vincent Pascarell, 24, of 10* Smithfield street, was being held for a hearing in Central Police Court today.

City Detectives Murray Edlis and Fred Gray and operatives of the telephone company reported finding 18 discs, the exact size of a quarter, in Pascarell's possession.

Robbers Loot Office Of Lumber Company

Robbers broke into the office of the George M. Hall Company, lumber dealers, Seventh avenue and Hays street, Homestead, last night, knocked the combination off a filing cabinet and obtained $70, police were informed.

3 BUS MEETINGS SET TONIGHT

Community co-operative bus plans will be discussed before three meetings tonight, a public gathering marking a session of the Baldwin Township Civic Association.

Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, will outline the citizens' plans to provide 12½-cent transportation in the Baldwin township borough building.

Officers and directors of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade will meet to hear Earl A. Reichard, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Community Transportation Company, and C. V. Shoup, executive director of the Association of Communities.

Shoup also will speak before a meeting of the Union Civic League of Wilkinsburg meeting in the Allison public school.

POISON 'MOONIE' KILLS 3D MAN

Another man, the third within the last two days, was dead today from poisonous moonshine, according to a coroner's report.

Nick Wallach, 35, of Steuben street, fell dead while visiting at the home of Andrew Zubinski, at 1402 Western avenue.

Wallach arrived at the Zubinski home with a half pint of moonshine. He collapsed a short time after each had taken two drinks, according to the report to the coroner.

The other two men, found near East Park, died Wednesday in Allegheny General Hospital from the effects of moonshine.

TWO MEN HELD FOR 'NUMBERS'

Two men, charged with operating a lottery, were held under $2,500 bail each by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today after detectives testified they were employed in the "numbers" racket. They are Louis Mongellazzo, 45, of 1530 Berkshire avenue, and Irwin Grant, 48, of 640 Hillsboro avenue.

Grant said he is an unemployed salesman and was a "pick up man" for a friend whose name he refused to divulge. Mongellazzo said he is an apple seller and was selling "numbers" to increase his earnings.

Canvas Auto Top Stolen During Rain

During the rain last night, thieves stole the canvas top from the automobile of Russell V. Beckett, of 2860 Perrysville avenue, while it was parked at Eighth street and Duquesne way. Beckett valued the top at $50.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Well, the dramatic critics will be among those first-nighters who won't believe any other showman henceforth, when 8:30 curtains are threatened "or you have to stand until the initial scene is over" . . . Sam H. Harris spent a lot of coin in the amusement advertising sections warning the patrons that his "Dinner at Eight" asbestos would positively lift at that time, and it didn't . . . It was an affront to those who offered to help the producer get his play started on the guaranteed hour . . . It went up 20 minutes later to oblige those stiff-shirts and their over-painted women who came for an 8:50 curtain . . . Because, we prefer to believe, the towners have been educated to that time for curtains on the drama . . . And it is a waste of courtesy, too, for the critics to come early, anyhow . . . They have the aisle pews, and have to stand to let tardy arrivals get to their chairs . . . "Dinner at Eight," but not at 8:30.

It reminded us of the only producer in town who doesn't give a hang for the carriage trade, which arrives when it pleases . . . He always lifted his curtains at 8:30—and still does. He is J. J. Shubert . . . And once when Charles Darnton, the critic, came a little late, the doorman refused to open the entrance for him (not knowing he was a reviewer) and Darnton got so upset he went away yelling: "The devil with it, then!" . . . Darnton, however, could always be depended upon for a good quote for the Shubert electrics, and his previous quote, "It's a Hit!—Chas. Darnton, Eve' World" was still on the theater front in lights . . . So Mr. Shubert said: "Well, then, the devil with him, too!" and kept the same quote up for the show that the critic never witnessed . . . Very amusing . . . Of course there isn't time for one person to heed all the letters that come in a day from the distressed ones, who arouse your pity with tales of their destitution . . . But some of them get you —even if your blood is iced . . . The letter from the 60-year-old actor, who was a somebody in his day, is sad and we wonder what producer, showman or theater owner will give him a break? . . . He tells how he is starving and would run an elevator or tend a stage door . . . If a manager gives him such a job won't that force the one holding it now out of his? . . . We wouldn't want it that way . . . Perhaps Lee Shubert, or another showman, will oblige the old-timer, and not expect this reviewer to be obligated in any way.

The plight of Bertha Kalich, the threescore tragedienne, who is ailing, makes me unhappy, too . . . This grand old lady of the theater has one artificial orb, and the other can distinguish only colors . . . She is practically sightless, but what a thrill it must have been to see her act at the benefit for her the other night at The Art Theater . . . The reserves had to be summoned to handle the unadmitted 10,000 . . . Paul Muni, Sophie Tucker, and dozens of others came to do their stunts, and thrill the audience, so that Miss Kalich's remaining days might be fruitful ones . . . But watching her go through her histrionics was what got them that night . . . There were four doors in the set she used—all marked by colored lights so Bertha could find her way about . . . There were three bottles on a table to guide her to the various chairs, poor thing . . . The deafening cheers that followed her turn lasted for many minutes, and it was re-birth for her . . . We like Percy Hammond's counsel about reviewing plays . . . He argues that the show is supposed to be an illusion—it should make you believe what you are witnessing . . . And when the play and the actors do not fool you, it is not a good show—for you are not being entertained.

Among other locals who rate scallions are those at the University Club who have been hiring waitresses . . . The persons selecting the girls probably thinks he's in the show business, for not only must the femmes be of a certain height and weight, but they must submit to ankle measurements, et cetera—or else let those who will get the job . . . Hollywood is up to its tricks again . . . Fox is making Noel Coward's "Cavalcade," which calls for three children . . . And what with all the talented tots so near at hand—they are up a tree . . . The casting director will confess that he has tried out mobs of Hollywood's pride and joys without result . . . For not one of the children tested spoke English!!!

Well, it is pleasant to know that the column helped someone . . . Bernice Petkere, whose newest song was mentioned here recently as being unusual, was approached by many leading publishers the following day . . . The result was that Bernice got $2,500 from Jack Robbins' firm as advance royalty—the largest advance on a song, they say, paid anyone in the past five years. . . . It was written here that her melody had a range of only six notes, considered most unusual by Tin Pan Alley . . . Since, however, we've been informed that the trick isn't—that Harry Barris composed one with only three notes . . . The Roy Benson, a youthful magician, also mentioned recently as being a lifter of Cardini's tricks, confused us. . . . Cardini's complaint was against the trickster in Earl Carroll's flop and not against Benson, who is spoiling Fred Keating's magic elsewhere by employing the famous bird-cage disappearing illusion . . . What Cardini complains about is that while his tricks may not be new—that his imitator admitted to him that he saw Cardini present them first . . . I am too lazy to look up the chap's tag to make his cheeks pink.

Wonder who gave Olive Borden that black eye! . . . Probably the type of guy who can lick any woman his weight! . . . So Senator Bingham has barred Charles Francis Coe from making speeches for the Repubs in Connecticut . . . Coe, it seems, is for Hoover and the resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment, and Bingham is for Herb and direct repeal . . . Boys will be bores . . . It will fill whatever void there is in the routine to be back before the microphone again in December . . . At one time the grind became more of a problem—instead of being exciting diversion for us, at any rate. . . . And then, too, there is a certain lad who has been making up jokes about us right along, and we haven't had an air battleground since August 9 to return the poison ivy . . . And so we can't wait for December 4 to again swap barbs with Ben Bernie, who prefers calling himself "The Old Maestro"—when anyone could tell you that he should be nick-named—that old Mickey Maestro!

Oakie Fights In Stanley

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Jack Oakie and Warren Hymer, as pugilist and wrestler, respectively, each dumb as he is proficient at his calling, which is saying plenty, cause laughs as well as cheers in "Madison Square Garden," a film that should prove especially attractive to men, that opened yesterday in the Stanley.

There isn't much romance in it, but attractive Marian Nixon serves prettily to redeem it from being wholly sports. Zasu Pitts adds a little more femininity, with a comical edge, as Marian's pal. Both are telegraph office employes in a hotel where dwell our two heroes and their manager, William Collier, who manages to be pretty much the chief figure of the film from a story standpoint.

The tale is thin, that of a sports "stable" going east to crash the Garden and doing it. But first there is a split between the boys and their manager, involving a sort of sacrifice, and some unpleasant adventure with crooks, who delude Oakie and use him as a chopping block to clean up surething bets.

There is a ring contest that is fast and of the nature they permit heroes to indulge in. Quite exciting, too.

Our own Tom Meighan has the role of a Madison Square Garden official. William Boyd and Lew Cody are on the crooked side.

Player

New Pictures In Town

Opening in the Penn today, Douglas Fairbanks will be seen in "Mr. Robinson Crusoe," story of a man who bets friends he can live a month on a desert island.

Beginning today the Warner will show William Powell and Kay Francis in "One Way Passage." Powell plays a suave crook and Miss Francis is his heart interest.

"The Crash," starring Ruth Chatterton, opens tomorrow on the screen of the Davis. Miss Chatterton has the role of a woman who quits her husband when the wherewithal runs low.

Coming tomorrow to the Sheridan Square is "Grand Hotel," with Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt.

Marlene Dietrich is a night-club entertainer and wife and mother in "Blonde Venus," feature attraction opening in the Enright tomorrow.

'Rackety Rax' Hit Film

By EDWARD W. GOSS

"Rackety Rax," picturization of Joel Sayre's story of the same name, should do well by the Fulton, for it's good comedy with the added attraction of having the capable Vic McLaglen as chief comedian.

The picture is right down the alley of the folks who are cynical enough to believe college football is not quite so amateurish as the colleges claim. It is not to be implied from this that "Rackety Rax" is an expose of professionalism in the college football ranks. "Rackety Rax" doesn't "put the finger" on college football; it only shows what could happen if a smart businessman or racketeer decided to profit from the business of staging football games.

Vic McLaglen is the racketeer who sees the possibilities of gain. He buys up a defunct institution of higher learning and turns it into a giant football camp. The male students are wrestlers, box-fighters, gorillas, gunmen and hatchetmen. This "material" would warm any coach's heart. Vic shuts his baleful eye to his "students'" ignorance of the arts, but when it comes to a football game he brooks no oversights.

With such a team Vic cleans up. There is no college eleven anywhere near Vic's team. His co-eds are also of the best. They are all night-club entertainers and chorus girls. In a cheering section they make a pretty picture.

Vic buzzes along in fine style until another racket man decides he, too, should get a slice of the "take." This racketeer also buys in a college and gets himself a team similar to Vic's. Through utter ignorance Vic books a game with the rival racketeer's team. And what a game! The flying wedge is a childish prank compared to the plays introduced by the two schools. Blackjacks, tear gas bombs and "gats" are common. The boys become so worked up that the immense stadium is reduced to a vertible shambles.

Featured players in support of McLaglen are Vince Barnett, Allan Dinehart, Arthur Pierson, Marjorie Beebe, Stanley Fields, Allen Jenkins and Esther Howard. Gretta Nissen and Nell O'Day have the principal feminine roles.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In an effort to collect $94,000 in delinquent taxes, Monessen Council has waived the 1 per cent penalty for failure to pay by December 1.

Conductor

Karloff's Real Face Won't Be Seen

Karloff, who made a worthy bid for the late Lon Chaney's make-up mantle with his vivid screen impersonation of "Frankenstein," has been forbidden by his employers at Universal City to be photographed as he looks in real life. Otherwise they fear the illusion he creates in his pictures might be destroyed.

Stage Actor Accepts Role in Movies

Robert Barret, New York stage player, chose the films over the footlights today when he accepted an important role in Paramount's "King of the Jungle" in preference to an equally valuable part in the Broadway production "Firebird." Barret is scheduled to arrive in Hollywood early next week and will report at the studio immediately.

Y. M. & W. H. A. Studio Bill to Be Playlets

The Co-operative Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. announces its opening studio presentation, which will be a bill of one-act plays by local playwrights, to be presented in the auditorium at the "Y", soon after the first major production of the Playhouse season in the middle of November. The first studio bill will include K. Emily Smith's "Polling Place;" Herman Richt's "Off to War," and Alfred L. Goldenberg's satire on prison life, "Hello, Pal!" The directors, casts and technical crews will be selected from the membership of the Playhouse. The work of the studio group is under supervision of Isabelle Jones.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"THIS STORY," writes Lionel Toll, "concerns two fairly prominent couples on the upper west side of our fair city. Thus, if you don't mind, I'd like to call them Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Jones. In that way, we can both keep out of trouble.

"These people had been friends for years, Mark. Very good friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jones belonged to the same bridge club, and the men played golf together and exchanged lousy ties as Christmas gifts.

"Then suddenly, a few years ago, Mr. Smith started to nag his wife. He told her that she didn't know how to wear her hair. Why didn't she wear it like Mrs. Jones? Why didn't she cook like Mrs. Jones? Why didn't she dress like Mrs. Jones?

"So Mrs. Smith became a little tired of it, and asked him why the devil he hadn't married Mrs. Jones? That started it, Mark. From that point on the Smiths were as loving as a sailor and a marine after the same girl.

"Smith began to stay out at night. So did Mrs. Jones. Now, as Smith and his wife weren't even on fighting terms, it didn't matter. But Jones was very much in love with his wife. And, like a sap, he said nothing. Well, almost nothing then.

"It's strange, Mark, that Jones never said a word to Smith about it. He must have known what was going on. But maybe he had an idea that, if he ever brought up the subject, his wife and Smith would openly defy him and walk off together.

"If that was his idea, however, he lost out anyway. For Mrs. Jones left home one afternoon and didn't return. She left a note saying that she didn't love her husband any more, and he might as well know it now.

"Two months later, a notice came from Reno saying that Mrs. Jones was seeking a divorce. Jones turned the letter over and over in his hand. He knew that he could contest that suit. He knew that he could place many obstacles in her path. But he decided not to. He decided to give her all the freedom she wanted. Besides, she asked for no alimony.

"Then Smith asked his wife to divorce him. The woman said said she hated the idea of divorce, but realized that they could no longer get along together. Smith said he'd make it worth her while, and would frame himself so that she could catch him with the goods.

"So she agreed. She got enough evidence to hang her husband, and then followed the other woman to Reno. Smith soon appeared on the scene, in the company of Mrs. Jones. Then Jones arrived, and the battle was on once more.

"Mr. Smith and Mrs. Jones went everywhere together. When Mrs. J. got her decree, Mr. S. kissed her tenderly, and said:

" 'It won't be long now, baby. Mrs. Smith's case comes up next week.'

"But a strange thing happened, Mark. And knowing you are always on the lookout for such things, I'll relate it to you.

"Mrs. Smith suddenly decided to make her husband pay dearly. She sued for $500 a week alimony. Smith yelled murder, and said he couldn't afford it. Mrs. Smith wasn't a bit ruffled, however. She knew she had the goods on her old man, and she was playing it for all it was worth.

"Needless to say, she got the $500. Shortly after the divorce, Smith married Mrs. Jones and everything was lovely indeed. Of course, they had to economize. That heavy alimony ate into Smith's income quite a bit. But they didn't mind—much. They were happy. And they had each other.

"But Jones, the quiet guy who didn't fight throughout the entire mess, got revenge in a grand way. Know what he did, Mark? He upped and married Mrs. Smith, and now lives on his rival's $500 a week" . . .

"THIS," writes Marion W., "is a true story, so help me Hellinger. It concerns a big bootlegger named Abe. He lived with his wife on W. 56th st., had a little baby about three years of age, a beautiful police dog named Lucky—and a sweetheart on W. 49th st. It is hard to say which he cared for most.

"At any rate, Abe was often absent from home. In his line of business, it was often imperative that he be on the scene when a new shipment of liquor came in. Therefore, he was often absent over night, and Mrs. Abe never worried.

"When he was home, Abe would take Lucky for a stroll around West End Ave. in the evenings. Mrs. Abe admired that quality in her husband. It made her happy to think that he was devoted to a dumb animal, because that's what makes good husbands.

"And if he sometimes aired the animal for three and four hours at a stretch, Mrs. Abe merely wondered, and said nothing about it. Which made her an ideal wife.

"Came the day when Abe phoned his wife and said that he wouldn't be home that night. Business, he said, would keep him downtown throughout the night. There was a brand new shipment, he said, of rye that looked like red wine and tasted like gin coming in. He had to be on hand.

"So Mrs. Abe thought nothing about it and hung up. Along about 10 o'clock that night she decided that Lucky should be aired. So she took him downstairs, gave him a new leash on life, and started to stroll down West End avenue.

"When they reached Forty-ninth street, the dog began to act strangely. Mrs. Abe tried to lead him further on downtown, but he kept straining to cross over toward Fifth avenue.

"Now Mrs. Abe, besides being a bootlegger's wife, also had a bit of sense. She knew that when the dog acted that way, something was the matter.

"So she permitted Lucky to lead her on. Lucky crossed the street, kept on the uptown side, and turned into a very fashionable apartment. Once inside, he headed straight for the elevator and waited.

"When the car came down, the colored elevator boy leaped out and stroked the dog's head.

" 'Hello, Lucky,' he said, 'how are yo,' boy?'

"Then he looked up and saw Mrs. Abe.

" 'Yo' wish to see Mr. Abe?' he said.

"Mrs. Abe nodded. There was a lump in her throat as big as Grant's Tomb, but she nodded just the same.

"The elevator boy, still patting the dog's back, took Mrs. Abe to the third floor and pointed to an apartment. It wasn't his fault. How was he to know that this was another Mrs. Abe?

"The rest you know. When Mrs. Abe rang the bell Mr. Abe opened the door. And a few months later, they were divorced.

"Abe still owns Lucky. But he doesn't take him visiting." . . .

Gossip About Players

Sidney Fox, petite heroine of "Once in a Lifetime," doesn't like to be called "tiny" because she considers tiny things "worthless and ineffectual."

Chinese comes easy to Karloff, character star who plays the part of a mummy in his next picture, "The Mummy." Before entering pictures he studied for the Chinese consular service at the University of London.

Andy Devine, gravel throated comic of "The All-American," lives on a boat anchored in San Pedro Harbor, 35 miles from Universal City, where he works.

Sidney Fox and Eric Linden both attended Columbia University at the same time, but never met until they were co-starred in "Afraid to Talk," which was the Broadway play, "Merry-go-Round."

When he was only 7 years old, Tom Mix, cowboy star, took part in a circus knife throwing act. He has just started his second season with Universal.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The second and final performance of "Journey's End" will be given tonight in Fellowship Hall, Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, in Dormont, where the first was given last night by the Dracomtra Players, one of our most active Little Theater groups. This war play by R. C. Sheriff is one that presents unusual difficulties because of the nature of the set, as well as from the acting standpoint. All of the action is in a dugout, but the set has to be a trick one, as it is wrecked by a shell in the final act. The Dracomtra Players built their own.

Smith & Dale, who will head the cast of Brown & Henderson's new revue, "Forward March," coming to the Nixon Monday, are veteran comedians who have ranged the entire scope of entertainment, vaudeville, musical comedy, revue, moving picture and radio. The new production will rely largely upon youngsters who have not yet made a name for themselves, but the talent will be reflected in varied specialties that are always part of this type of production. Then, of course, there will be Brown & Henderson songs.

The six reporters who will lend realism to the newspaper scenes in "Blessed Event," next week's production on the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt, are all members of The Sun-Telegraph staff. They are all nice boys, not at all of the type typified in "The Front Page," and no matter what the coming play may make them seem, we assure you they are not the slightest menace to society. Henry Richards, juvenile of the Vail Players, will portray the leading role, originated in New York by Roger Pryor.

"Whistling in the Dark," which played 143 performances in New York last season, will try it again there, with Bernard Granville in the leading role, originally played by Ernest Truex . . . Katharine Cornell has returned from a vacation of three months in Europe . . . Paul McGrath has been engaged for a role in "The Love Life of the Tiffy" . . . Lenita Lane, former leading woman for the George Sharp Players here, and Crane Wilbur have been signed for "Tin Boxes," to be produced shortly.

Notes About Talkies

Viola Brothers Shore has completed the screen adaptation of "Tars and Feathers," an original story by Frank O'Connor which will serve as Vivienne Osborn's initial starring vehicle.

Joe Hermeno and A. S. Byron are additions to the cast of the RKO Radio production, "The Penguin Pool Murder."

Hal Crane, who first clicked on the stage has been drafted for film work in the role of a medicine show man in the RKO Radio production "Phantom Fame," which co-features Lee Tracy and Lupe Velez.

Silent Movie Camera Being Sought

An organized search for an inventor with an idea for an absolutely silent motion picture camera has been launched in Hollywood by the research council of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Virgil Miller, head of the camera department at the Paramount studios, is in direct charge of the search, which, if successful would save the film industry many dollars annually by eliminating unweildly silencers, speeding up production and reducing costs.

Leading Role Given Dorothy Libaire

Dorothy Libaire, former Broadway leading woman, and Irving Pichel, Paramount contract player, have been assigned leading parts in "Madame Butterfly," which B. P. Schulberg is producing.

Miss Libaire has had leading roles on Broadway in "Broken Dishes," "Skidding" and "As Good As New." Pichel returns to Paramount after six consecutive pictures away from that studio. During his absence he worked on the adaptation of one film, co-directed another and acted in four.

FIGHT RENEWAL OF STATE'S SALES TAX

Pittsburgh's organized business and industry will join forces with the recently formed Pennsylvania Retailers' Association to block the re-enactment of the 1 per cent state sales tax which automatically expires February 28, 1933, unless given a new lease of life by the Legislature. This action was decided upon by representatives of 28 trade and industrial associations at a meeting called by Arthur C. Kaufmann, president of McCreery & Co., yesterday in McCreery's dining room.

Speaking as regional vice president of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, Kaufmann outlined five reasons why the sales tax, which was passed at the last special session of the Legislature to provide funds for the Talbot bill, should be ended:

1—It is unequitable, as it is a state tax and places Pennsylvania business under unfair competition.

2—It is unfair in general and comes at an inopportune time.

3—The state will find it expensive and uneconomical to collect.

4—Most satisfactory taxes and the most economical to collect are taxes at the source.

5—The larger revenue to be obtained through this tax source will tend to check the economies of government.

HELD EXTRA BURDEN

It was pointed out by Kaufmann that the sales tax was rushed through the Legislature and nobody seemed to realize the injury it would work on Pennsylvania business. A manufacturer of machinery within the state, he explained, has to add a 1 per cent tax on top of his price, whereas the same machinery can be purchased outside the state free of the sales tax.

Referring to department stores, he said:

"We pay a mercantile tax and on top of that we have to pay a sales tax."

OPPOSE CONTINUANCE

Representatives of the steel industry in Pittsburgh agreed they were "very much opposed" to the continuance of the sales tax "if the emergency for which it was passed can be taken care of in any other way."

Leo Lehman, president of May, Stern & Co., while opposing continuance of the tax, advised the meeting that he did not believe the merchants and industrialists should be thought to be taking the stand that they were opposed to relief measures, "although those measures fall pretty heavily on us." He added:

"We must make it known that we are opposed to its permanency."

Hotel Association Re-elects Officers

9 Held in Rum Raid Near Police Station

Within the shadow of North Side Police Station, 500 bottles of home brew, a small quantity of moonshine and a slot machine were seized by police in a raid at 611 West Diamond street. Harry Erhart, 44, said to be the proprietor by police, seven men visitors and one woman visitor were arrested.

Wife Has Hair Cut, Husband Ends Life

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Dolan Casey, 23, commanded his 17-year-old wife, the mother of two children, to leave her hair unbobbed.

She had it trimmed anyway, and when he discovered the fact he went into a bedroom, locked the door and shot himself to death, Mrs. Casey testified at a coroner's inquest yesterday.

PRINTS DEPICT SPORTING LIFE

By PENELOPE REDD

A grand christening party was given yesterday in the Silver Room in the William Penn Hotel by Brentano's for a smart young child in American art, "American Sporting Prints and Literature." The collection is so inclusive of almost every phase of amateur sporting life that it might appropriately be called an exhibition of "Gentlemen's Recreations," as was the Barlow and Holiar series of English prints three centuries ago.

Miss Redd

Paul Brown approximates the regard for form found in the old pictures. The famous clubs in his color drawings for "Gentlemen Up" and his Dickensonian characters in the pencil studies for "Hunting Pie" have a traditional flavor of the spacious and exhilarating sport. "Foxhunting Formalities," a sort of Emily Price Post guide to hunting manners, inspired Brown to some superb drawings in ink with brush. In general, Brown and Edward King are closer in style than their contemporaries to their illustrious predecessors in England, whose art flourished chiefly as colored aquatints between 1790 and 1830.

The Philistine will be moved by J. Alden Twatchman's sincere drawings for "The Silver Horn," by Gordon Grand.

Ever popular Margaret Kirmse appears in this exhibition with a colored dry point of "The Fox." In addition to the prints, the Derrydale Press has also added the books in which these pictures serve as illustrations and many others to prove that "the huntsmen are up in America and already they are past their first sleep in Persia." The collection, together with the Spode hunting service in porcelain painted by Lionel Edwards and lent by Hardy & Hayes, is now on view to the public at Brentano's.

How Does a Woman Champion Manage?

Women champions cannot have "off days." Day after day of practice and play, and matches that permit no postponements. They how do they manage during regular periods when other women are sunk with pain? They meet these monthly emergencies with Midol, and they don't ever experience a twinge of periodic pain.

Harmless as it is, a Midol tablet blocks all possibility of periodic pain for hours at a stretch. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes, and lets you menstruate in comfort! Just ask the druggist for Midol.

APPEALS RULE ON HOTEL RATING

D. E. Heckman, owner of the buildings at 808-10 Second avenue, known as the Acme Hotel, has asked the Zoning Board of Appeals for a rehearing on an occupancy permit for hotel and rooming house recently refused by the board.

Heckman today declared he is ready to make the changes necessary to comply with housing, sanitary and safety regulations.

According to Heckman, he is prepared to build a fire escape and an additional exit, to vacate an iron-clad garage at the rear of the property as a habitation, and to add such flue connections and additional bath rooms as may be necessary.

As for the flimsy balcony on the fourth floor, referred to at the zoning hearing as the "crow's nest," Heckman declared that it was torn down on the day of the hearing by the man who built it.

Army Flier Killed In Crash at Manila

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Lieut. Leroy M. Wolfe, 36, was fatally injured today in the crash of an army airplane during gunnery practice. Capt. Edgar P. Sorenson was injured. Wolfe was a native of Ohio.

Police Sprinter Captures Store Theft Suspect

Who can deny that Emanuel Cacere, 33, loved his sweetheart?

Nobody. Emanuel loved her so much that police say he grabbed 10 dresses in the Snappy Dress Shop at 505 East Ohio street and ran. But Patrolman Anthony Judas ran faster.

Emanuel's plea that he stole the dresses for his one and only failed to impress Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court today. Emanuel was held for court on a larceny charge.

Trooper's Ailment Baffles Physicians

Suffering from an undiagnosed malady which has caused 158 convulsions since last week, Corp. H. D. Albert, of the New Kensington detail of Troop B, state highway patrol, is in critical condition in Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington. The convulsions first occurred every 15 minutes, but have decreased in frequency, although not in severity, hospital attaches said today.

Corp. Albert

Corp. Albert fell from a motorcycle a year ago, but at that time it was thought he was uninjured. Physicians attribute the convulsions to a brain condition.

HOMES ENTERED IN EAST END

Jewelry valued at $300 was stolen from the home of James C. Dye, at 7066 Apple avenue, police reported. Dye is a son of City Detective Roy Dye.

Mrs. John A. Urban, of 5806 Hampton street, returned home last night and found the entire house ransacked. Mrs. Urban was unable to determine if anything had been stolen.

An overcoat and two pairs of gloves were reported stolen from the automobile of the Rev. John Dunphy, of Portersville, while it was parked in Epiphany street near Elm street last night.

Squirrel Hill police received a report that burglars entered the Atlantic and Pacific Tea store at 7638 Reynolds street Wednesday night and stole tobacco valued at $25, groceries valued at $7.40, and $7 in cash.

Tells How to Defeat High Blood Pressure

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Most persons take high blood pressure too seriously, Dr. Harlow Brooks, of New York University, told the Interstate Post-Graduate Medical Association today. Persons with the ailment live to old age if other conditions of health are good, he said, adding:

"General habits of life are what make high blood pressure serious or not serious."

ELECTIVE POST URGED BY KERR

The city treasurer should be elected rather than appointed, Controller James P. Kerr told the League of Women Voters yesterday at the Congress of Women's Clubs.

The treasurer's office is of such importance, Kerr said, that it should be free of political appointees. He said be believed an elected treasurer would be more independent.

Questioned on the need for the job of budget controller held by former Councilman Robert Alderdice, Kerr said the maintenance of this position was entirely up to Council. the councilmanic savings fund referred to by Alderdice as the product of the activities of the budget controller, is simply the total accumulated balances in various accounts which would necessarily go into surplus at the end of the year.

Gang Victim Bound, Slain in Apartment

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—A "typical gang murder" was the conclusion of the police today when they found the bullet-riddled, trussed-up body of John Saccone, 28, Brooklyn, in a furnished apartment on the West Side.

Investigation established that Saccone lately was engaged in racketeering in union circles.

Arrested as Rum Seller Third Time, Fined

For the third time in little more than a month, Harry Ehrhardt, 44, was arraigned in North Side Police Court as the proprietor of a speakeasy at 611 West Diamond street. The charge was keeping a disorderly house.

He eyed 500 bottles of home brew, a slot machine and the bottles of whisky confiscated by the police, and heard Magistrate Ray Schneider announce a $100 fine.

Motorist Routs Dry-Law 'Agent'

William Cuddy, of 5149 Rosetta street, reported to East End police today that an apparently bogus prohibition agent and a companion last night forced his automobile to the curb in St. Clair street, saying we're going to search his car for liquor. When Cuddy seized a jack handle, the "agent" fled to his own machine and drove away. He wore a white linen coat. The other man was at the wheel of the car, Cuddy said.

"Ivory Soap came into our house when Doctor advised it for me. But now it costs so little that mother uses it for all soap purposes."

SEVERE WINTER FORECAST BY BROTZMAN

The coming winter likely will be more severe than the past three winters, by the law of averages, not in fulfillment of goosequill weather prophets, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said today. He declared:

"For the last three winters, particularly last season, the weather has been unusually mild. So it is probable the approaching winter will revert more nearly to normal and we may expect a harder season than we have had, though this cannot be predicted except on the basis of average figures.

"Natural signs are no criterion. Fishing worms are going deeper this fall than usual not because they anticipate a cold winter but because they seek moisture and the ground is very dry at the surface. When squirrels store many nuts it does not signify they are laying up food against a long siege of winter weather, but simply that there has been a plentiful supply of nuts.

"When the coats of animals, horses and cattle are unusually heavy it means they have been well fed and are in good physical condition. The large migrations of birds southward indicates merely that the season for birds has been favorable. All such signs point to the past rather than to the future."

GIRL MISSING, MOTHER ILL

A mother, seriously ill in her home, 814 North Canal street, today sent a plea to the Missing Persons Bureau to renew search for her daughter, Regina Becker, 17, who disappeared more than a year ago.

Relatives informed police the mother's condition was aggravated by worry over her missing daughter. A wide search for her at the time of her disappearance revealed no trace. She is described as 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, brown eyes and light hair.

Probe Double Fire In Home Same Day

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 28—The state fire marshal is today investigating two fires in the residence of Siegel Brown, of Newcomerstown yesterday. The second blaze broke out four hours after the first and caused $1,000 damage.

5,000 Chickens Lost In Union City Fire

UNION CITY, Pa., Oct. 28.—Nearly 5,000 young chickens, ready for market, were lost in a fire which destroyed the brooder plant of Floyd Doolittle at Union City. Damage totaled $5,000.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS BRIGHTEN BAD DAYS

Dollars Are "Silver-linings" for Wrigley Users.

By MISS MINT

Sometimes life does become discouraging. Business is slack, things go wrong, but there is always a silver lining that comes peeping out thru blackest clouds at unexpected moments. After all, the "ups and downs" are what make life interesting, if we stop and consider it that way.

The other day, I visited a jewelry store and approached MR. JAMES A. McKINLEY, 1620 Mirion St. "Have you any Wrigley's gum with you?" I asked. "I have a package of Juicy Fruit in my desk, if that counts," replied Mr. McKinley. I assured him that it did, and so the package was produced. Mr. McKinley was quite thrilled with his Wrigley Dollar, and told me Wrigley's was the "best gum on the market." "Do you know," continued Mr. McKinely, "this is the first dollar I've taken in today?" I was certainly glad I had stopped in the store, and that a Wrigley Dollar was a real "silver lining" for a bad day. Perhaps that dollar bill can be considered a good omen, Mr. McKinley; at any rate, good luck!

Others to whom I gave Wrigley Dollars were:

NICK CONSOLO, 414 Todd St.; MRS. E. G. OBLINGER, 2115 Noble St.; ROBERT W. PRETTYMAN, 7514 Dickson St.; KATHERINE HAMILTON, 7308 Woodlawn St.; HOWARD GETZ, 7478 Delmar Way; LINDA CUCCARESE, 2009 Waverly Ave.; EDWARD J. McCOY, 7531 Washington St.; MRS. GEO. M. SMITH, 517 Coal St.

Remember, you can collect a new, crisp dollar bill, if you have Wrigley's gum when I approach you. Be on the alert—I may be in your vicinity today.

MORE COUNTY ROAD WORKERS SCHEDULED FOR LAYOFF

DR. RINEHART, ILL FOR YEAR, DIES AT 65

Former Noted Doctor Here Succumbs In Capital

Ill more than a year, Dr. Stanley Marshall Rinehart, formerly a prominent Pittsburgh physician and surgeon and husband of Mary Roberts Rinehart, the author, died early today in Washington. He was 65.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Rinehart home. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Rinehart and three sons, Stanley M. Rinehart, Jr., Alan G. Rinehart, both of the firm of Rinehart & Farrar, publishers, of New York, and F. R. Rinehart, of South Dartmouth, Mass., survive.

BORN IN PITTSBURGH

Dr. Rinehart was born in Pittsburgh in 1867. At the age of 24 he graduated from Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia and, after an interneship in Homeopathic Hospital here, entered surgical and general practice.

It was while he substituted for the family doctor of the Roberts family that he met his future wife, Mary Roberts. She had come to him for advice on entering the Pittsburgh Training School for Nurses, at the age of 16.

The two married in 1895, after the girl's graduation. He was 28, she 19. Dr. Rinehart at this time was connected with the staff of Homeopathic Hospital—a position he held until the World War—and was a city physician and a state health officer.

The Rinehart family was heavily involved when the panic of 1903 hit the stock market.

It was then that Mrs. Rinehart began writing with an eye for added income. Three children were to be cared for.

RECOVERS FORTUNE

The family fortunes had recovered by 1910, when it became evident that Mrs. Rinehart would go blind unless change of climate and expert medical attention were had.

It was this, added to Dr. Rinehart's desire to specialize in heart and lung diseases, that led him to take her to Europe. At Vienna, Munich and London he studied, deserting surgery to concentrate on heart and lung treatment, while his wife's eyes were cured.

With the approach of the war, Dr. Rinehart was asked to serve the government as a supervisor of health in training camps. As captain in the medical corps, he was stationed for some time in Camp Sherman, O., where his son, Stanley, Jr., was a sergeant.

Dr. Rinehart retired from active practice when he and Mrs. Rinehart moved to Washington, D. C., about 10 years ago. There they have been members of the capital's exclusive social colony.

He had written several books on medicine, including "Common Sense of Health."

OIL MAN'S 'EX' WINS IN COURT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Leonard R. Quackenbush, of Scarsdale, sales manager of the Tidewater Oil Company, lost his move to delve into the affairs of his wife after she divorced him in Reno in 1923. Justice Bleakley yesterday ruled examination of his former wife to specific questions concerning money she spent on their 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy.

He has sued in Brooklyn to obtain custody of the child from his former wife, now known as Dorothy Swift Woods, department store executive, of Minneapolis, and in court here faces a $15,000 suit by Mrs. Woods, who claims Quackenbush agreed to pay for the support of their daughter. Mrs. Quackenbush later married James A. Woods and divorced him a few years later.

Butler Army Man Ordered to N.Y. Post

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 28.—Lieut. Richard W. Gibson, of Butler, on duty with the air corps in the Philippines, has been ordered to Mitchell Field, New York, according to a War Department order issued yesterday.

'Boy Friend' in Home Too Much for Husband

Says Wife Proposed Rival Live With Them; Divorced

After his wife had bitten him several times and suggested she be permitted to bring her "boy friend" home to live with them, William R. Whikehart, 316 West North avenue, decided it was time to seek a divorce, which was granted by Judge W. Heber Dithrich.

Whikehart testified his wife, Elizabeth W. Whikehart, left him and went to Washington with a married man, taking her three children. Whikehart said he was willing to reconcile differences, until she suggested the "boy friend" come along. Judge Dithrich inquired what Whikehart had to say. His reply was:

"I asked her what kind of a sap she thought I was."

EX-STUDENTS FREED

Two Homestead High School students, John E. Lucas and Mary K. Hopwood Lucas, married at Washington, Pa., March 26, 1930, were also divorced by Judge Dithrich.

Both were 19 when married, but gave their ages as 21. Each went to their respective homes, it was testified, Mrs. Lucas' parents objecting to Lucas living with them and Mrs. Lucas would not live with her husband's people.

Telling his wife he would have to cut down her allowance, led to a quarrel, it was testified by George R. Dunseath, 50, North Side poultry and egg dealer, in his application for a divorce from Edith Brennan Dunseath, 45, granted by Judge Dithrich. Dunseath remarked:

"I told her on account of the depression I would have to economize and that raised a fight."

TWISTED NOSE

The witness testified that Mrs. Dunseath, who is a beautician, would twist his nose when peeved. He also averred she once threw a knife at him. They were married May 6, 1930.

After he failed in business, his wife urged him to become a bootlegger to provide her with money, Joseph Jefferson, 2923 Portman avenue, alleges in a bill of particulars filed against his wife, Eva Jefferson, whom he has sued for divorce, alleging indignities.

Jury Frees Mother Who Took Ill Child

Mrs. Mary Keough, of 7125 Thomas boulevard, was found not guilty of assault and battery on her mother-in-law, Mrs. Bridget Keough, of 919 McCandless avenue, by a jury today.

Testimony showed the younger Mrs. Keough crawled through a window of the mother-in-law's home, June 28, and carried out the former's 6-year-old son, Lawrence, ill with measles.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Oct. 28.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Winter is coming and tourists will soon be looking for a place to visit. Now let's get this Florida and California thing settled. I can afford to be fair, for I can't sell my lots out there anyhow. Hotels even, both have wonderful ones. People even, both equally windy. Distance from civilization even. Tennis, California; horseshoe pitching, Florida. Desert and mountains California, lakes Florida. Bathing, Florida wins. We take to the tub about October. Good roads—pardon me, Florida, I shouldn't have brought that up.

Millionaire visitors even, none either place. That's a race of people that has been entirely exterminated by bad judgment. Florida excels in fish and Democrats. Outside of Catalina Island we can't touch you on fishing. So if you like to fish and look at Democrats, Florida is your opinion. But you've got to come to California to see Janet Gaynor, Sally Eilers, Clara Bow and Greta Garbo. Are you listening?

Yours, WILL.

Toto Is of Great Service To Trapper in Getting Rid of Diplomat

CHAPTER XIV.

Weren't there some other means of dampening Kingley's enthusiasm? Surely there must be some way. Another idea came to me. Did he know that I was in the habit of coming and going at the weirdest hours, that this unfortunate habit was part and parcel of the business I was in?

That was perfectly all right, he declared blandly. He was sure I would not disturb him.

We made our way off the porch onto the spacious lawn. He was jaunty, I depressed. As we stood there, Kinkley, facing the animal sheds, piped up buoyantly, "I suppose that's where you keep your animals."

WANTS TOTO'S HELP

I nodded. As he spoke, I could see Toto shuffling up the front steps of the house. I watched him as he reached the porch and began scrutinizing Kinkley's briefcase. A sudden hope sprang up in my breast as Toto moved over to investigate this new plaything he had found. Kinkley's back was toward the porch as he made some patronizing remarks about my animals.

I watched Toto poke at the diplomat's briefcase with one paw and then the other. If I could get Kinkley away for half an hour, Toto might do something to annoy him out of wanting to live here!

I suggested that we look over the animals, and he assented. As we passed out of sight, I noted that Toto had dealt the briefcase a couple of extra wallops with his paw, and then, convinced that it was now dead, started lugging it off toward the porch stairs.

Feeling that Toto could be depended upon now to do something which would seriously annoy the boresome Mr. Kinkley, I spent a leisurely half-hour showing him all the animals in the compound, elaborately explaining the antecedents and eccentricities of each. All the time I was praying silently that the roguish little Toto would not

PITT CO-EDS AT THE CATHEDRAL OF LEARNING INSPECTING THE EXPERIMENT TO FIND THE BEST GRASS FOR FOOTBALL!

New Grass to Soften Pitt Spills Planned

University of Pittsburgh football players are going to have softer spills in the Stadium, if a grass experiment now being made proves successful.

Twenty-four large square blocks have been laid out on the Cathedral grounds, planted with different kinds of lawn mixtures. Half of each block will be cut close, while the other half will be allowed to grow

John Weber, supervising engineer and business manager of Pitt, said:

"We have been bothered with the grass in the Stadium. We have a suspicion if we let the grass grow a little higher the roots will penetrate a little deeper. It would then stand up better under the football players' cleats."

Hoover Down From Tree and Talking Plenty

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Original Republican campaign scheme was for Mr. Hoover to say nothing and look wise.

But the owl climbs down out of the tree today and will make 22 speeches by Monday night.

Eighteen of them will be five-minute wayside solos for the benefit of baggage masters at small depots.

These short, sharp bursts of selling talks have already been indorsed by the vendors of combination rapid noodle choppers and corn removers.

If you have never spoken from the back of a wagon you cannot visualize the splendor and dignity of a rear-end Pullman shillaber.

You are for country, home and the flag with one hand on your heart and the other on the bellrope.

And such a trip is a continuous round of whistle indorsement and airbrake applause. Nothing can go wrong when you make your speech at a water tank and your encore 17 miles further up the tracks.

'Feathery Friends' Warn of Hard Winter

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—It's going to be a tough winter, with blizzards, high winds and snow galore, the weather sharps assert, listing the following reasons:

Robins started for warmer climates in September, ahead of schedule.

Chickens and domesticated canaries have moulted unusually early.

NEW ECONOMY MOVE LIKELY TO HIT 100

Commissioners Confer With Chester, Welsh On Reductions

Further dismissals of employes in the county department of highways, bridges and tunnels were predicted today following an all-day conference yesterday in the County Commissioners' office.

In addition to the Commissioners, Frank J. Chester, director of the department, and Regis Welsh, head of the personnel division, were present.

Paring the department payroll to the bone was reported to have been the subject under discussion. Little new work is being done by the highways department, and with virtually all the county bond projects out of the way, the wholesale elimination of jobs, begun several months ago, is to be continued, according to reports.

Estimates of the number to be let out ran as high as 100. The dismissals are expected to take place before the first of the year. The jobs will be eliminated when the 1933 budget estimates are made.

The reported move for ousting of Chester himself as a result of the investigation of the "asphalt racket" was not up for consideration at the conference, it was learned.

SAVING IN STEEL COSTS TOLD

A method of producing steel at a saving of from 10 to 30 cents a ton was revealed today at a meeting of the metallurgical advisory board of Carnegie Institute of Technology and the iron and steel division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Dr. C. H. Herty, Jr., research professor at Tech, explained by "the deoxidation of steel by the use of manganese silico alloys," the oxygen content of steel can be cut more than by any other process in the open hearth furnace. He pointed out the importance of this development lies in the fact that a low grade of manganese ore may be used in making the alloy and much smaller quantities of manganese.

Dr. V. N. Krivobok, also of Tech, read a paper on chromium-nickel-iron alloys.

Mrs. Miller Speaker At Jeannette Rally

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—Jeannette Democrats will hold a rally in that city Thursday evening, November 3. Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, will be the principal speaker. Short addresses will be made by Dr. Summerfield Baldwin, of Seton Hill College, and by Attorney Richard D. Laird, of Greensburg.

Latins Tire of 'Good Will' Visits, Says Rogers

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, returning from a 16,000-mile flight over Central and South America, reported the "people down there are fed up on good will." He said:

"I guaranteed 'em that if Roosevelt was elected he'll not make any good will trip down there."

Rogers said "I took no good will with me and brought none back, so that makes us even."

In response to an inquiry he said he would make no political campaign speeches and added:

"What are you trying to do, kid me? I thought I was the one to do that."

Rogers waved his hat repeatedly to a crowd that met him here yesterday, telling those near him:

"You fellows thank those folks for coming down to see me. Even if they had nothing else to do it was nice of them to come. Not even my chauffeur or any of my folks will come down to meet me when I get home to California."

Rogers said he believed South American business was improving.

Hopes of Four Parties Told at 'Y' Forum

County Chairmen On One Platform, For An Evening

Leading issues, hopes and aspirations in the 1932 political campaign were discussed at a party forum last night at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. by the county chairmen of Allegheny County's four major parties before an audience of 200.

SOCIALISTS' VIEW

Dr. Van Essen, first speaker, defended his party's platform against those "who would associate it with Communism." He said:

"Revolutionary class action will lead the working class only to slaughter. We want parliamentary procedure in the prescribed order. To attempt to abolish the capitalistic system over night is a dream."

Johnstone was an advocate of chaos. He declared:

"The Communist does not seek power. It is the worker that seeks power. Comrades, the worker must organize in order to drive the capitalist out, not by votes, but by force, just as they did in the Soviet Union."

COLEMAN'S ESTIMATE

President Hoover was defended by Coleman. He said:

"In my judgment, his experience in life, his knowledge of human affairs, his work in the scientific world has given him a clearer viewpoint of the needs of the people of this nation than Gov. Roosevelt has obtained from his life experience."

David Lawrence, speaking for the Democrats, said:

"We believe that the Democratic party is more in sympathy with the rank and file than the present administration. We believe that Gov. Roosevelt will stand for a better distribution of wealth."

D. M. Howell, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., opened the meeting. The Rev. Albert E. Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, presided.

NEW SWINDLING CHARGES LOOM

G. R. Morancy, held in the county jail here for his alleged attempt to swindle shareholders of the Penn Light and Power Company, is wanted in Philadelphia and Baltimore on similar charges, county detectives said today.

A message from Philadelphia declaring Morancy operated the swindle scheme there prevented his release on bail. His counsel was said to have offered a bond up to $50,000, but it was refused by Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt.

J. H. Shute, of Altoona, vice president of the power company, telegraphed detectives that Morancy is wanted by Baltimore police for swindling Hyman Kramer, of 2227 East Fayette street, out of 12 shares of stock, according to the detectives.

Morancy will be arraigned before Alderman Thomas M. Geary Monday on charges of false pretense and violating the state securities act.

Minister to Talk At East Liberty 'Y'

Dr. H. J. Ockenga, pastor of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Inspiration of the Bible" tonight at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. This is the second introductory lecture preceding the Bible study course dealing with the historical development of the Bible. Charles E. Hastings will preside.

'Fire' in Factory Just Night Crew

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Lights flickered in the plant of the Heller Leather Company, glove manufacturers, last night. Excited residents summoned the fire department. Herman Heller, president, met the firemen and explained that the firm had received some orders and that a night crew went on duty.

Bandits Rob Trio In Ambridge Store

Ambridge police today sought three armed bandits who forced three men to the rear room of a confectionery at 290 Charles street, last night, escaping with more than $100.

Sam Pearl, the owner, said the bandit trio took $55 from him, $62 from Jack Tolorski and $5 from Mike Rilneko.

Banker Kills Self With Gun in Hotel

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—William A. Johnson, 45, banker and cattleman of Canadian, Tex., was found shot to death in his room in a hotel here late yesterday. Police said he committed suicide.

Boy Friend's Letter To Girl Puzzles Postal People

Uncle Sam has solved one of his most freakish letter address problems after a week of puzzling.

The letter was mailed a week ago by a young man friend to Adaline Ray, Schenley High student, of 428 Dinwiddie street, and was delivered today.

The address, printed with straight lines, consisted of only the name and the street. Both were inclosed in a two-inch circle and were at right angles to each other. It was the most mysteriously addressed letter the "riddle department" had received in many a day. W. F. Stewart, in charge of the department, said:

"The majority of our problems are due to trick designs, carelessness or the absence of mind of those who turn mail over to the government for distribution."

Other addresses that have called upon the department's ingenuity are Golustoru, for Johnstown; J. Vainr Coey, for H. J. Heinz Company; Conne, for Connellsville; Minese, for Minnesota and Mersho Spital, for Mercy Hospital.

Often letters are addressed just Pittsburgh. Then it may be intended for any one of 10 states, for there are 10 states that have a town or city called Pittsburgh.

COX CONTINUES HOOVER ATTACK

Scoring Munhall borough officials for what he termed their lack of fairness to taxpayers, the Rev. James R. Cox, in an address at a political rally held last night in Carnegie Library, Munhall, declared they were "more to be pitied than censured."

Father Cox told of his westward trek. He styled President Hoover as "the president of England, rather than of the United States."

High Heels Blamed For Girls' 'Bowlegs'

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Some women who think they are bowlegged are really not bowlegged at all, in the opinion of Dr. Amenuel Demeur, of the Illinois Association of Chiropodists. He said:

"High heels have caused the shins of many young women to turn outward, rotating the knees. This condition gives the incorrect impression that they have bowlegs. Wearing of proper shoes in such cases will bring the legs back to normal."

MUMMERS' PAGEANTS TO MARK HALLOWEEN FETE HERE

FREE DANCING IN PARKS OF COUNTY

Goblins will stalk and mummers revel in a score of community Halloween celebrations Monday night.

Parades, street dances, mardi gras festivities, with prizes for most original and striking costumes will be held under auspices of boards of trade, civic and in some instances military organizations.

The festal spirit will rule in hotels, restaurants and cafes, as well as in theaters and movie houses, many of which have billed special programs.

Free masquerade dances will be held Monday night in North and South County parks from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock, the former at the Parish Hill pavilion, the latter at Spreading Oak pavilion.

FROLIC AT INGRAM

Ingram firemen will sponsor a borough frolic, with a mummers' parade led by the firemen's band as the feature. There will be prizes for the best costumes.

On the South Side a parade and celebration will be held under auspices of American Legion Post 453. The parade will form at South Twenty-fifth and Carson streets and march to South Tenth street, thence to the legion's headquarters, 1700 Jane street, where refreshments will be served and prizes awarded. A street dance will follow.

Residents of the North Boroughs will participate in a mummers' parade in Bellevue, under direction of the Bellevue Board of Trade. The parade will form at Washington and Burnside avenues and traverse the principal streets, with the Bellevue High School Band leading. More than 100 prizes will be distributed.

NORTH SIDE PARADE

The Business Men's Association of the East North Side will sponsor a parade and celebration for residents of the district. The parade will form in Phineas street, near Chestnut, will march along Ohio street and return past a reviewing stand in Middle street.

In the Lincoln avenue district, a Halloween fete will be held in the yard of Lemington school, with awards for best costumes given by the Businessmen's Association.

The first Halloween parade in the Fifteenth Ward will be sponsored by the Hazelwood Community Council. The parade will form at Renova street and pass along Second avenue. Local bands and the Boy Scouts are assisting.

Floats depicting scenes in American history will appear in a parade in Overbrook, in charge of the Junior Drum and Bugle Corps of Overbrook Post 1620, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Col. William R. Dunlap, director of the City Department of Supplies, will be chief judge of the parade and dance competitions.

POVERTY DANCE

In Mt. Lebanon Park bathhouse auditorium, a poverty and masquerade dance will be given by the United Relief Association of Mt. Lebanon Monday night. Needy families will be the beneficiaries.

Duquesne Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual barn dance Monday night in the council house, Fifth and Bellefield avenues. Carl G. Eichenlaub is general chairman.

A parade and street dancing will feature Brookline's Halloween celebration under auspices of the Brookline Board of Trade and the Business Men's Association.

The G. E. M. Club will hold a Halloween dance Monday night in Elks Hall, Cedar avenue, North Side.

Anatole Club will hold a poverty dance at Ehler's barn near North Park tomorrow night in place of its usual Halloween celebration. Old clothes will be worn by all participants.

MICKEY MOUSE PARTY

A Halloween celebration will be held by members of the boys' division of East Liberty Y. M. C. A. tonight. It will be in the form of a Mickey Mouse Party, with a parade of comic page characters as a feature. Scores of members of the Whitfield Street Branch of the Y. and their girl friends will be in costume. A program of Halloween games and entertainment has been arranged.

Mt. Lebanon residents will celebrate the completion of Beverly road between Ralston place and Overlook drive. Mt. Lebanon High School Band will lead a mummers' parade. Apples, popcorn and candy will be distributed free by merchants of the district.

Confetti Forbidden In Halloween Fete

Confetti, talcum powder and "wife beaters" are barred on Halloween by order of Police Chief Peter P. Walsh. He said 300 officers specially detailed throughout the city would not interfere with reasonable celebrations.

Warning against soaping automobile windshields and windows was issued by the state highway patrol. A $25 fine or 10 days' imprisonment is the penalty.

6 ESCAPE FIRE IN BRADENVILLE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—Six persons, including two children, their escape cut off when flames trapped them on the upper floors of their home at Bradenville, near here, early today, fled over rooftops to safety in night attire. Tony Torcellio aided his wife and two children, one aged 6 and the other 2, to slide down a pole to the ground. Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Marco made their way to safety over the rooftop.

The house occupied by the two families and an unoccupied building adjoining were destroyed. Several other houses in the neighborhood were threatened.

English Scientists to Win Nobel Prize

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Two English scientists, each of world renown, will share the 1932 Nobel prize for medicine and physiology.

The award, announced last night, was made to Sir Charles Sherrington, of Oxford, and Prof. Edgar Douglas Adrian, of Cambridge, for their joint discoveries in the study of the neuron.

T. R. HONORED AT DINNER

The name of Theodore Roosevelt was honored last night at a dinner of the Roosevelt Western Pennsylvania Commemoration Association in the William Penn Hotel. Former Congressman James M. Magee was elected president to succeed Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence.

Addresses were made by Congressman Henry W. Temple and Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission. King said the Public Service Commission is without power to prevent wild and loose financing in utility stock promotion.

Gen. Martin Claims State For G. O. P.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee, visited his party's eastern headquarters and left the word that "all polls to the contrary notwithstanding, Pennsylvania will go Republican." He added:

Grace, of Bethlehem, Declares For Hoover

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—President Eugene G. Grace, of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, replied to a question regarding his views on politics by saying:

"Well, personally, I intend to vote for Hoover."

Mr. Grace said politics, however, had nothing to do with Bethlehem because "the corporation is owned by Republicans, Democrats and Socialists."

Fish May Be Substituted for More Expensive Meats

The proteins of fish are identical with those found in meat and the change gives a variety to the diet.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Comissioner of Health, New York City.

For many years the food authorities have tried without great success to convince the public of the high nutrative value of fish. Necessary food budgeting has turned the attention of the housewife to its economical and nutritional value. In many homes it is now used as a substitute for meat.

There is no objection to this because the proteins of fish are identical with those found in meat. The change gives variety to the diet and its ease of digestion makes fish an important food for everyone.

Fish may be given to the child at as early an age as 18 months. When the child's ability to chew is limited, fish may well be given in place of meat. Fish that is steamed, baked or boiled may be fed the infant once or twice a week.

I need not remind the mother that extreme care must be taken to remove every single bone. If I did not tell you this you might have occasion to scold me.

HAS LESS FAT

Fish contains less fat and more water than meat. The digestibility of fish is largely determined by the amount of fat it contains. The more fat it carries, the greater the burden upon the organs. That is why fried fish is more difficult to digest than boiled or broiled fish.

The great improvements in transportation and refrigeration make fish available at all times of the year. Even when fishing boats are idle at their docks, fresh fish can be purchased at the markets.

In spite of the many advantages this food offers, fish has never been popular in this country. Many avoid fish because they fear food poisoning. This is an unfounded fear, because with present day methods of packing and shipping, there is little chance of spoilage.

MANY VARIETIES

There are many varieties of sea fish. Bluefish, flounder, halibut, mackerel, salmon and herring are the most popular. The red snapper is a popular fish in the southern states. It has an unusual flavor and is similar to the salmon in its nutritive value. The salmon, too, is popular throughout the country. Canned salmon is used in enormous quantities.

The white fish is abundantly found in the Great Lakes. It is exceptionally rich in protein and is valuable in the diet of persons suffering from digestive disturbances.

The value of the codfish is widely known. The livers of this fish are used in the manufacture of cod liver oil. Within recent months the halibut has increased in popularity. The oil obtained from the liver of the halibut is really superior to that of the cod.

Fish has often been referred to as the "poor man's meat." Bear in mind that fish can be properly substituted for more expensive meats. It is a plentiful food and can be purchased all year round. It is so clean and wholesome a food that it should be given a prominent place in the diet.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

FISH ROE WITH SWEETBREADS—Soak a pair of sweetbreads in cold water for 20 minutes. Drain, cover with fresh salted water, and parboil until tender. Remove membrane and cut the sweetbreads in small pieces.

Then brown 2 tablespoons butter, add one can fish roe, stir in chopped sweetbreads, salt, pepper and paprika, and saute for 10 minutes.

Serve on toast points or garnished with parsley and strips of pimiento.

BAKED TOMATOES AND FISH ROE—6 tomatoes, 1¼ cups fish roe, ½ cup soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons melted butter, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Cut a thin slice off stem end of tomatoes and scoop out centers. Combine fish roe, bread crumbs, onion, Worcestershire sauce, butter, salt and pepper, and fill tomato cups. Bake the tomatoes covered in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Uncover and brown. Garnish with parsley.

FISH ROE IN POTATO CUPS—2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped fine, 1¼ cups fish roe, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, pimiento strips.

Mix parsley with mashed potatoes and drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Make a deep depression in the center of each mound and fill with seasoned fish roe. Dot with butter and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) until brown. Garnish with strips of pimiento.

FISH SOUFFLE—1½ cups codfish, ½ cup bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 2 egg yolks, beaten; 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 egg whites, beaten stiff.

Shred codfish. Soak in cold water overnight and drain. Cover with fresh water and bring to a boil. Drain. Cook bread crumbs in milk for three minutes. Add to the two beaten egg yolks.

Mix all ingredients, and shape like chops. Put a piece of macaroni in the small end to give the appearance of a bone. Fry in a small amount of hot butter or fat. Six chops.

ENGLISH MONKEY—7 soda crackers, crumbled; 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons butter, ¾ cup grated cheese, ¼ teaspoon mustard, salt, pepper and paprika, 1 egg, 6 soda crackers, whole.

Soak crumbled crackers in milk. Melt 1 teaspoon butter and the cheese in saucepan, add soaked crackers, mustard and seasoning. Mix well and add beaten egg. Cook 3 minutes and pour over heated buttered soda crackers. Six portions.

EMPIRE FRUIT PUDDING—2 quarts drained sliced peaches (canned), 4 quarts sliced cooking apples, 1¼ pounds crackers, crumbled, 1 cup melted butter, 6 cups brown sugar, 6 cups peach syrup or peach syrup and water.

Butter baking pan. In it arrange layers of peaches, apples and crumbled crackers, mixed with butter. Sprinkle with sugar and repeat layers. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs and pour liquid over all. Bake covered in a slow oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking until apples are tender and top browned. Served with hard sauce or whipped cream; 50 portions.

INDIVIDUAL MEAT PIES—6 shredded wheat biscuits, hot water, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 pound chopped steak, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons minced onion.

Split shredded wheat biscuit and dip quickly in hot water. Brush with melted butter. Mix meat, seasoning and onion and put a layer of the mixture on 6 halves of shredded wheat. Cover each with a second half. Place on a greased baking pan, cover and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Uncover and brown. Serve hot garnished with pimiento strips. Six pies.

PORK CHOPS A LA ROBERT—16 crackers, 2 cups sliced cooking apples, ½ cup sliced onions, salt and pepper, 6 loin pork chops.

Into a greased baking dish put alternate layers of crackers, apples and onions. Season and lay chops on top. Season meat and bake covereed (375 degree Fahrenheit) 40 minutes. Uncover, brown. Six portions.

CORN CHOWDER—2 cups canned or fresh corn, 4 cups diced potatoes, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 4 cups scalded milk, salt and pepper, 1 cup Oysterettes.

Boil potatoes until tender, but not soft. Cook onion in butter 2 minutes over low flame and add to potatoes. Then add corn and milk and bring to boiling point. Season with salt and pepper and add crackers. Simmer gently 2 minutes and serve. Six portions.

STUFFED ONIONS — 6 large onions, 12 crackers, ¼ cup ground cooked meat, 2 tablespoons butter or fat, melted, salt and pepper, 2 cups medium white sauce, ¼ cup grated cheese.

Peel and parboil onions in boiling salted water. Drain and remove centers. Chop centers and combine with crumbled saltinas, meat, butter or fat and seasoning. Fill onions with this mixture. Place them in a buttered baking dish. Cover with medium white sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake covered, 15 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees fahrenheit). Uncover and brown. Six portions.

BAKED POTATO SURPRISE—6 medium-sized potatoes, 2 cups crumbled crackers, ½ cup grated American cheese, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoonful minced onion, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons butter, pepper.

Peel and slice potatoes. In a greased baking dish put alternate layers of potatoes, crackers and cheese. Add onion and salt to the milk and pour over all. Dot with butter and sprinkle with pepper. Bake, covered, in a hot over (425 degrees fahrenheit) until potatoes are tender about 40 minutes. Uncover and brown. Six portions.

POLICE PREVENT WORK ON P. O.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 28.—Police, backed by a Treasury Department order, today kept workmen from the new $300,000 New Kensington Postoffice. The contract of the Nicholas Company, of Philadelphia, contractors, was terminated yesterday, Treasury officials announced.

Weeks of opposition to the contractors, who it was claimed imported labor, to the exclusion of local workmen, resulted in a protest being filed by Congressman A. M. Wyant. It was also alleged the wage scale was not being maintained.

Yesterday Basil Scott, construction engineer in charge, was notified to have work suspended in the afternoon and since then the place has been guarded by policemen.

The steel work has been completed, and stone masons and bricklayers were constructing the building when the stoppage order arrived.

3 'LOST' GIRLS HUNTED HERE

The Missing Persons Bureau today was asked to aid in the search for three girls, all of whom have disappeared from their homes in the Pittsburgh district.

Mrs. Lydia Carson, of Sheffield road, Irwin, told the bureau her daughter, Margaret, 15, disappeared 19 months ago after leaving her home for school, according to Mrs. Ida Forsythe, of the bureau. She is 5 feet 5½ inches tall, blonde, and weighs 115 pounds.

Evelyn Miller 19, of 1220 McDonough street, North Braddock, has been missing since October 6, when she left her home for Fifth and Smithfield streets to meet a woman who was to get a position for her on the North Side, the bureau reported. Evelyn is 5 feet tall, a brunette, and weighs 112 pounds.

Florence Pope, 19, left her Zelienople home October 6, for Pittsburgh, to get a job, and has been missing since, her mother, Mrs. Mary Pope reported. She is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. She is a waitress.

Mooney's Mother To Sail Tonight

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84, mother of Tom Mooney, now serving a life term in California, will sail tonight for Russia to attend the world congress of International Reds in Moscow next month. Delay in obtaining her passport was due to her inability to produce birth and death certificates of Brian Mooney, her husband, who died in 1892. A relative's affidavit was finally accepted.

Senator Plans Bill To End Vote Forcing

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Angered by the alleged intimidation of workers in Ford Motor Car Company plants, Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, today announced he would introduce a bill in the Senate making it a criminal offense for any employer to try to force his employes to vote a certain way.

300 Die in Storm In French Colony

PARIS, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Three hundred persons were killed on October 15 in a terrific storm which swept part of French Indo-China, messages from Saigon said today.

On October 25 another storm interrupted railway service and caused some damage along the Mandarin road.

Two Steel Firms Urge Workers Back Hoover

APOLLO, Pa., Oct. 28.—Two independent steel companies, the Apollo and the West Leechburg, have issued statements urging their employes to vote for Hoover at the coming election. They give as their reason their desire for continuance of the present tariff policy.

CHARITY GUEST LOSES $2,300

The doors were locked when Michael Bobak, 42, reached the Helping Hand dormitories last night, late. But Michael was carrying $2,300 in a money belt, he need not sleep in the park.

An hour later Michael didn't have his $2,300. He ran breathlessly into Center Avenue Police Station complaining that he had been robbed in a Negro's house in Clark street.

Michael named one Inez James, of 1537 Clark street, as the thief. She and four others, all denying the charge, were held for investigation in Central Police Court today.

GUILTY VERDICT AFTER 45 HOURS

A jury convicted Jeff Whitaker, 35, Negro, of 81 Longworth street, of voluntary manslaughter today after deliberating 45 hours, the longest a murder jury here has stayed out for several years. The jury retired at noon Wednesday.

Whitaker was sentenced five to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Whitaker was tried before visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, charged with killing Mrs. Pearl Duckett, 29, a roomer in his home. It was charged Whitaker fired at his wife in a quarrel over another man and hit Mrs. Duckett.

Gridder Paralyzed, Still Hopes to Play

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Although paralyzed from the hips down from an injury in a neighborhood football game, John Taylor, 16, still cherishes the ambition to make his high school team next season. Physicians expressed belief he would recover.

Graf Starts Home For Winter's Rest

eggs, ½ cup grated cheese, ¾ teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons butter, melted; ½ cup cooked peas, or 1 No. 1 can of peas, drained), parsley.

Mix the melted butter, the salt, the peas and half the grated cheese thoroughly with the rice. Spread on buttered ovenproof platter. Make 5 small wells in the rice, drop an egg into each, sprinkle the remainder of the cheese over the rice and bake in a moderate (350 F.) oven until eggs are set and cheese is melted, about 12-15 minutes. Or set the platter under a moderate broiler flame to cook the eggs and melt the cheese.

EGGS AND ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN—1½ cups milk, 4 tablespoons butter, ¾ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup grated cheese, 6 hard boiled eggs, 2 bunches asparagus tips, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Make white sauce of milk, flour, butter and salt. Add the cheese. Sprinkle bottom of buttered baking dish with crumbs. Arrange alternate layers of asparagus, cut into inch lengths, and sliced eggs. Pour cheese sauce over all. Sprinkle top lightly with crumbs and set into a hot oven (400 F.) until crumbs are browned and mixture is heated through. Serves 6.

FRIED OYSTERS — Clean oysters thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper, rip in flour, egg and fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 375 degrees, drain on brown paper. Garnish with tartar sauce.

Cut bacon and mushrooms into strips and add to the cooked macaroni with the cheese. Pour the sauce over all and heat 10 minutes in the oven. A quick, easy dish, and a very good one.

CREAMY PUDDING WITH GRAPE SAUCE—⅓ cup quick-cooking tapico, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 cups milk, scalded, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten, 2 cup blue grapes, ¾ cup sugar, dash of salt, ¼ cup water.

Add quick-cooking tapioca and salt to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca

R. F. C. DEBATED AT RALLY

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation had an inning at a Democratic mass meeting in Carnegie Music Hall last night. Three hundred enthusiastic adherents heard it praised as an idea, but flayed for its manner of operation.

L. K. Porter, brother of the late Congressman Stephen G. Porter, leading the hosts opposed to the corporation, declared it "illegal" and scored the Republican administration as "dollar diplomats."

Prof. Francis H. Bohlen, a "wet" candidate for United States Senator in 1930, declaring that the R. F. C. was necessary, said it was legal, while Attorney Frank P. Walsh, once active in Tom Mooney's fight for pardon in California, said the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was a "virtuous act performed in an unvirtuous manner."

Pope Sounds Hope Of Russian Expiation

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—In granting permission today for the founding of a new Russian Catholic Church in Rome, Pope Pius expressed the hope that the "martyrized Russian people may return to peace and prosperity."

The Pontiff said he hopes also that "a spirit of reparation and expiation will develop in Russia for the crimes committed by militant atheists."

Buck of 'Wild Cargo' Relates Thrills Here

Frank Buck, who "brings 'em back alive" and who authored "Wild Cargo," which is being published in the Sun-Telegraph, spoke at the University Club last night on his experiences in collecting big game in various parts of the world.

The hunter told of his experiences in Africa and Asia in capturing animals alive for zoos and other collections. He is noted for hunting without guns, trapping the biggest of big game animals and shipping them to various countries.

Buck recounted the thrills he has experienced to an audience of some 500 persons. After he had spoken, he answered questions concerning the habits of animals and his methods in capturing them.

The PERFECT DOG FOOD
DOGGIE DINNER
CONTAINS NO HORSE MEAT

A MONTH OF WHOLESOME MEALS FOR YOUR DOG!

In a carton of Doggie Dinner are 24 cans—a month's meal ticket for the average dog. Many dog owners are buying it by the carton so that there is always a can on the shelf ready for their faithful companion.

Doggie Dinner is a BEEF MEAT PRODUCT, the natural food for carnivora. It is a complete and perfectly balanced ration for every breed of dog. It supplies all the nutritional elements required for blood and bone and muscle. Dogs never tire of it. A can a day is usually enough for an average size dog.

Your neighborhood store has it or can get it for you.

is clear, stirring frequently. Add sugar. Pour small amount of tapioca mixture over egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from fire. Add vanilla. Fold a small amount into egg white. Add to remaining tapioca mixture and blend. Chill.

For grape sauce, cut grapes in half, remove seeds, add sugar, salt and water, and cook together until slightly thickened. Chill. Place tapioca cream in sherbet glasses. Serve with grape sauce. Serves eight.

Most women can make a good oyster stew, but here are two oyster dishes that may be new to you:

BAKED OYSTERS—30 oysters in the shell, butter, salt, pepper.

Wash the oyster shells thoroughly by scrubbing with a brush. Place with the deep shell down in a baking pan in a very hot oven, bake until the shells open, remove upper shells, add a little butter, salt and pepper to each oyster, and serve in the undershells.

PANNED OYSTERS—1 pint large oysters, 6 slices buttered toast, ¼ cup oyster juice.

Lay the oysters in a shallow dripping pan and pour over them a small quantity of oyster juice, but not sufficient to raise or float them. Place the dish carefully in a hot oven and just heat the oysters through, being careful not to bake them. Moisten hot buttered toast with the hot juice from the oysters and serve the oysters on the toast.

BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDING—1 cup brown sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ pound peanut brittle.

Mix sugar and flour, add beaten eggs, stirring in well. Add milk and cook mixture in double boiler for 15 minutes. Just before removing from fire add the peanut brittle crushed fine.

But Sissie can't forget him, So—

"Shall I call him up?" She wants to know. "I'd like to," she goes on to explain. "But I'm afraid if I did, he wouldn't be nice to me."

What do you think of her notion? It's sappy you say? And she shouldn't need to have a brick house fall on her before she can take a hint?

Yep. That's the way it looks to us. But some gals—and boys, too—are gluttons for fooling themselves!

"Dear Sally:

"Being a constant reader of your column, I am in hopes that you can solve my problem for me, so I am coming to you. Please help me.

"I am 24 years old. I am considered quiet, and not a type for parties and dances. About three years ago I met Buddy, who is seven years older than I. We went together for a while and then became engaged. I looked forward to a very happy future.

WANTS HIM BACK

"But a few months ago he changed. He became very sulky and stubborn, and nothing pleased him, no matter how hard I tried to be nice. So, considering the way he seemed to feel, there was nothing for us to do but break the engagement, as he seemed to want it that way.

"Now I see him quite a lot with another girl, and whenever he chances to meet me he ignores me.

"But I still love Buddy, and I can't seem to forget him or care for anyone else.

"What shall I do? I would like to make the first break for a reconciliation, but I am afraid that if I called him up he would belittle me, and make me feel like a fool.

"So please, please advise me, and tell me what method I should use to win him back. I care so much for him, and I want him back. How can I get him? SISSIE."

How'll you get him back?

"You can't, Sissie; and you're handing yourself plenty of razzberries when you refuse to realize it. If you two had had a silly lovers' quarrel, and you had sent him away, your "making the first break" to mend matters would be all well and good. But, according to your own story, that wasn't what happened. What happened was that he simply stopped caring for you, and tried to let you down easy by acting in such a way that you would break with him.

FIND NEW FRIENDS

And now, plainly, he doesn't want to even see you. So take it on the chin, kid. Put him definitely out of your life. Quit kidding yourself with the notion that you can "win him back," and dig in and make a new life for yourself.

I know it won't be easy, but it is just one of those things that come to all of us, and it has to be faced—for your own sake. So make up your mind, once for all, that so far as he is concerned, you're all washed up.

Once you do that—once you stop mooning around with the delusion that you can, by some hook or crook, win back what is gone—you'll be giving yourself a chance to live and laugh at love again.

No, your heart won't break. As a matter of fact, I doubt very much if you're so much in love with this man as you think you are. He became a habit, and you miss that habit, of course. Your ego was nicked when he walked out on you, so you haven't been willing to let go. But let go, now. Find new interests; new friends. Get out of your shell. And the first thing you know, you'll wonder what you ever saw in this man.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

A doggie outfit is a suit of black woolen, the jacket trimmed with big wooden buttons with doggies in black accents. It has a wrap-around collar and stitched pockets, while the skirt is also a wrap-round model. It is worn with a lacy Shetland wool blouse.

A key to domestic happiness is expressed in a lovely antique bracelet recently seen and cleverly copied. It is of antique gold with various semi-precious stones and has tiny thin gold chains from which hang a miniature house key, a heart and a tiny wedding bell.

Always liked is the fur-trimmed coat of silk velvet. A most delectable model is of black silk velvet and has black fox fur joining the capelike sleeves and the collar in one. It has a shirred neckline.

Nothing is more difficult and discouraging than the beginning of any kind of a career.

And to my mind no one is a greater philanthropist than the person who is willing to give an ambitious beginner his first chance.

You cannot talk with any person who has made a reputation in his particular calling without hearing the praises sung of that first employer who believed in the unknown who came without experience and was given a chance.

The greater opportunity which may bring fame comes later. But the manager, director, executive, editor, or employer of any kind who will have faith in the blunders of a beginner, and give him his first chance, ranks with the honored discoverers of history. The famous bless him.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please help me and let me know what to do? I received a wedding invitation from the daughter of my very oldest friend. It was addressed to myself and son and not to Mr. and Mrs. and son. I feel hurt about this. Will you kindly let me know your opinion?

2—Will you please give me some suggestions for a wedding present?

The invitation is for the church only; the reception is for the relatives only. F.

1—I do think that there must have been some mistake about this, and, if I were you, I would take the point of view that there was. There is so much confusion in a time like this, and there are so many opportunities for just this sort of thing to happen, that one shouldn't make a snap judgment about it. As a matter of fact, a somewhat similar thing happened recently to a friend of mine—a reception card was not enclosed with the church-ceremony invitation—and I know so well how deeply chagrined and sorry the parents of the bride-to-be are about the omission. They have tried in every way to make it clear that the mistake was not an intentional one, and it has taken much explanation to make the thing right. So do, dear friend, give these friends the benefit of the doubt.

2—I wish you'd told me what your gift-budget is! Linen, a luncheon or dinner set, is always a charming and welcomed gift. Or, of course, any item or items in silver, china, or glass. There are beautiful vases in all of these, beautiful serving-pieces, centerpieces. Smoking accessories are now a very popular present, when they must be distributed all over the house! Leather is lovely, too . . . a handsome portfolio for photographs, or accessories for the library table or desk. And lamps of many kinds of beauty and for many uses.

Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me wether it is proper to send out announcements of a wedding to take place at a certain time and place, these announcements not to be in the form of invitations?

The wedding party is to consist of just the bride's family and the groom's family. The groom has a great many friends whom he would like to inform of the approaching wedding, but he does not intend to invite anyone, his idea being that if they care to, they can go to the church to see him married. M.

Such an invitation is not in good form. If the bride-to-be and the groom-to-be have this idea of having people come to the wedding without being invited by the usual form of invitation, I suggest that they extend these informal invitations by word of mouth or by informal note.

Household Hints

Empty the carpet sweeper on a damp newspaper to prevent dust from flying.

Wax the bottoms of your rockers and they will not make marks on the hardwood floors.

Those spots on the light felt hats will usually disappear if rubbed gently with fine emery paper.

-:- A Fair Start in Life -:-

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

We were talking about all babies being born into this world equal, all starting at scratch, and what success or failure they made of life. Disregarding the later success or trouble, our friend the doctor jumped with a snort at the statement that children are born equal.

It was an interesting, though awesome picture he painted for us—a picture of widespread ignorance on the part of unthinking young men and women who maintained that what they do is their "own business" and no one's else. Well, it isn't the business of anyone else so long as what they do doesn't hurt someone else; but the unfortunate part is that those who get hurt the worst aren't yet where they can say anything in protest, for they are the unborn children of the unthinking young men and women.

"The pre-natal period is too late to begin building the child," said the doctor. "A mother can improve the child's physical being then to some extent, yet; but she can't do it all. It is the father's responsibility, too, to see that his child gets an even break through a sound body, and every normal young man on earth right now is a potential father."

Every young man and young woman right now, even though they have no thought of marriage for some time to come, can begin building so that the race yet unborn will inherit its birthright of clean, sound bodies.

The food you young people eat, your exercise, your knowledge of hygiene, your conduct regarding physical relationships not only concerns yourselves; it concerns your obligation to keep yourselves fit.

Upon your cleanliness of body and thought depends not only the future happiness and health of your children, but your own joy, or your sorrow, often terrible, over the tragedy of a crippled, blind, mentally impaired little being to whom you will desire with all your heart to give a fair chance in life.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Missing a Two-Bid

When a player holds a two-bid and fails to make it, it generally results in his partner being trapped on the bidding at some future date. Two-bids are rare. The occasion to make them does not occur very often. When it does occur, therefore, full advantage should be taken of the opportunity, and a player should not hesitate to make the game-Forcing bid as long as he is not obliged to shade the requirements.

The following hand was bid recently by the South player in such a way that he and his partner failed to reach a lay-down Slam; and while undoubtedly some of the blame should be given to the holder of the North hand, on the whole it was South's error on the Opening bid that caused the loss.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South—part-score 35.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1◇ (1)	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♡ (2)	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♣ (3)	Pass	3♠ (4)	Pass
3NT (5)	Pass	4♠ (6)	Pass
Pass (7)	Pass

1—The hand is too strong to open with a one-bid. South considered opening it at two, but decided that, with the part-score, North would not pass, no matter what he held, and, of course, he wanted to be able to bid his three suits at low levels.

2—Now that partner has responded once, the two-heart bid is an inferential Force. There is no danger of its being passed.

3—Same as 2.

4—So far North has made nothing but minimum responses — his hand does not warrant any stronger bidding as yet.

5—I am inclined to think that this is the wrong bid. Unquestionably, South should bid something, but three notrump conveys no real additional information. After considerable study, I have come to the conclusion that the proper bid in this situation is four spades. North has already been told of the distribution in the hand, and will know that a four-spade bid is made on a void in the suit and tremendous top-card strength outside. Three notrump might be interpreted as trying to improve the bid rather than a Slam try.

6—Here I think that North must be given some share of the blame. He should interpret the three notrump as a Slam try, and, holding practically solid spades, should make one effort to tell partner about it. However, he decided on the more conservative course and closed the bidding with four spades.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

7—At this point, South, having trapped his partner in the beginning, must now pass, as North's holding might very easily be seven spades to the Ace-Knave-Ten, with nothing outside, in which case, there is no Slam.

Note how differently the bidding would have gone had South opened with the correct bid of two diamonds; North would have responded with two spades, and South would have bid three hearts. Opposite an Opening two-bid, North's playing strength is tremendous. He would therefore bid four spades—one over game—to invite further bidding. South would then bid either five or six clubs, and an eventual contract of six spades would be reached easily. This hand is one on which minimum bidders are bound to go wrong.

TODAY'S QUESTION

East bid one diamond, and South and West passed in turn. Should North bid one spade with the following:

♠A10976 ♡K64 ◇A3 ♣J97

Answer: Yes. The hand is amply strong enough for an Overcall, and the only possible reason for not making it would be the danger of reopening the bidding and giving the opponents an opportunity to reach a game contract.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Poorly Fitted Shoes Cause Foot Ills

It is common to hear about persons who suffer from ingrown toenail, and if you have ever had one yourself, you can appreciate the terrible pain and discomfort associated with this ailment.

Dr. Copeland

The trouble is most likely to affect the nail of the big toe. The edge of the nail grows too close to the skin and irritates the the skin, breaking the tissues, which may become infected. The disability continues as long as the irritating nail continues to rub against the inflamed skin.

Ingrown toenail is often traced to the wearing of poorly fitted shoes, but it may come from improper care of the nails. In a few cases, overzealous attention to the nails may be the cause.

If the nail is trimmed too closely and a sharp or rough edge left to rub against the skin, inflammation and infection may result. In triming the nails, always remember that the skin along the edge of the nail is tender, and avoid leaving sharp or rough edges.

When this trouble exists, marked pain and discomfort are experienced when walking or standing. Cutting away the upper part of the shoe removes the pressure and relieves the pain. But this is not a cure.

In mild cases, the pain may be relieved by pressing the flesh away from the edge of the nail and placing a small piece of absorbent cotton under the nail. The cotton should be moistened with an astringent solution, preferably one that has some antiseptic value. A clean and moist dressing should be applied every day, and the cotton should be kept under the edge of the nail until the nail has grown out to the end of the toe. Then the nail should be smoothly trimmed.

Paring the nail away gives only temporary relief. Sometimes severe and infected ingrown toenails can be cured only by complete removal of the nail and the matrix of the nail, as well. This is a simple operation and can be performed in the office of the doctor or pediatrist.

The operation is done under local anesthesia, and causes little pain or discomfort. After the removal of the nail, it is necessary to report for dressings and removal of the stitches. The wound heals within 10 days. By this time the ulcer has been healed, the infection cleared up and the new nail begins to grow.

Never neglect an infected toenail. Negligence may result in damage to the deep tissues, and in severe cases the bony structure of the foot may become involved. Do not resort to home remedies. Most cases of ingrown toenail require surgical care, and home remedies are of little value.

Answers to Health Queries

J. B. N. Q.—Is a man likely to grow after the age of 19? 2—Can growth be encouraged in any way after the age of 19?

A.—He may grow until the age of 21. 2—No.

S. R. Q.—Would the consumption of stale breadstuffs refreshened with hot water be apt to have any more to do with indigestion than if I were eating breadstuffs that were not stale?

A.—Bread that is a day or so old is more easily digested than fresh bread. For full particulars in regard to indigestion restate your question and send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

With hats as they are, showing up the coiffure front or rear or sides, a woman is out of form if she doesn't sport a beautiful coiffure. The weekly finger wave may be a burdensome chore, but it is a necessity. Nothing dates a woman like a dowdy hairdress. Coiffures this season have assumed such charm of undulation and pattern that any woman should be grateful to have outlined the day of stuffed pompadours, switches, braids and hirsute what-nots.

There's nothing like perspiration for cleaning the pores of the skin. So if you have been forced to do the family washing, console yourself. You may get a backache, but your complexion will improve.

One way to tighten up sagging abdominal muscles, reducing the waist measurement, slithering down hips that are hippier than they should be is to place the face on the knees, keeping the legs straight. Try it. You'll have a good laugh at yourself if you're muscle bound; won't make it by six inches. Sit down on the floor, legs rigid, touch toes with fingers, touch knees with the nose.

Is there a hump forming on the back of the royal neck? Don't let it get a start. It can be rolled away. Anoint with a heavy cream, so that the flesh will not be bruised, grasp tissues in the palms of the hands, iron vigorously. Fat can't stand much pummeling. It will look for lodgings elsewhere.

Misguided members of the feminine contingent seem to take it for granted that any mouth is all right as long as the lipstick holds out. Put on enough red tulip pigment and nothing else matters. That's not beauty logic. Lips should be smooth, corners should be lifted. A smiling expression means that a woman is insured against taking on hard jaw lines. The mouth is pretty much what a woman makes it. It can assume indications of discontent casting a cloud over the most beautiful countenance. It can become supercilious, which doesn't add to the sum total of pulchritude. Wise gals are mouth conscious. Never let lips relax—that habit is a beauty wrecker.

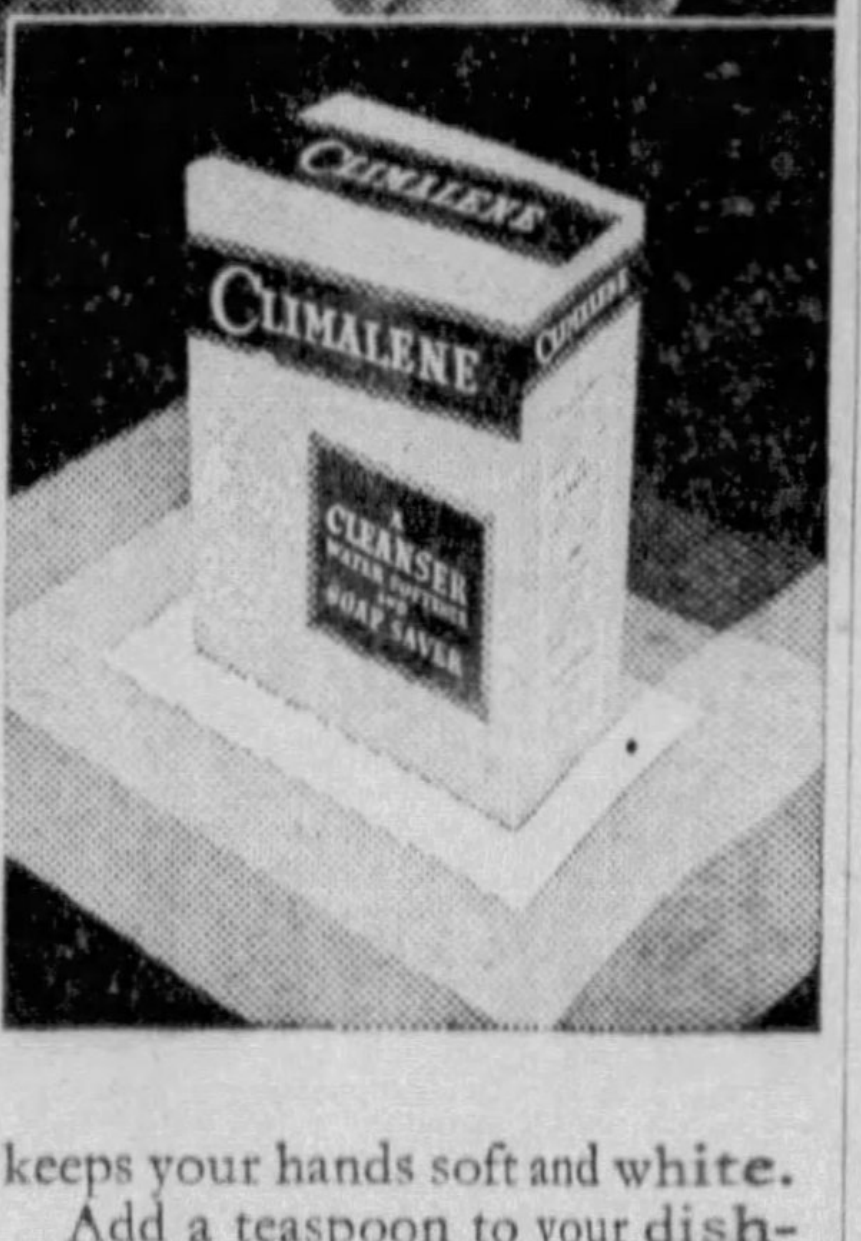
DINGY GRAY WASHINGS



CLIMALENE
A CLEANSER WATER SOFTENER AND SOAP SAVER

HAVE you heard about the new way to wash clothes that stops "fading" and "streaking"? A way that puts an end to that "dingy gray" look clothes so often have?

All you do is add two tablespoons of Climalene to your washing water—tub or washing machine . . . and ¼ the usual amount of soap or soap flakes. Clothes emerge softer, cleaner and whiter than ever before.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly changes hard water to rain soft water. It dissolves grease, dirt and stains instantly and thus cuts your working time ½ or more, and keeps your hands soft and white.

Add a teaspoon to your dishwater. It makes dishes gleam and sparkle in ½ the time.

Try Climalene today for any cleaning job where you use water, in kitchen, laundry and bathroom. Your grocer has it in a bright, shiny, blue box, 12 ounces for 10c, and 32 ounces for 25c. The Climalene Co., Canton, Ohio.

• It costs only 10c now to make closet bowls sparkling white . . . absolutely odorless. You do it with Bowlene. Your grocer has it.

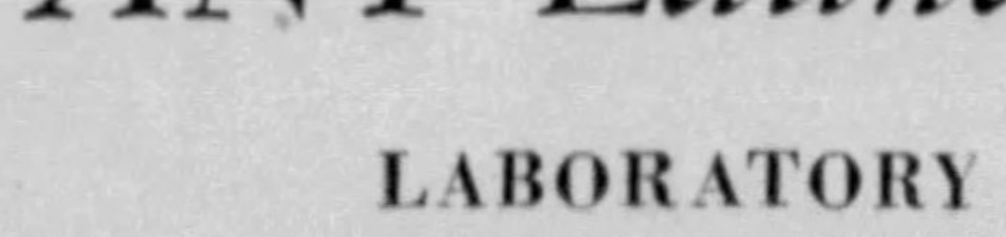
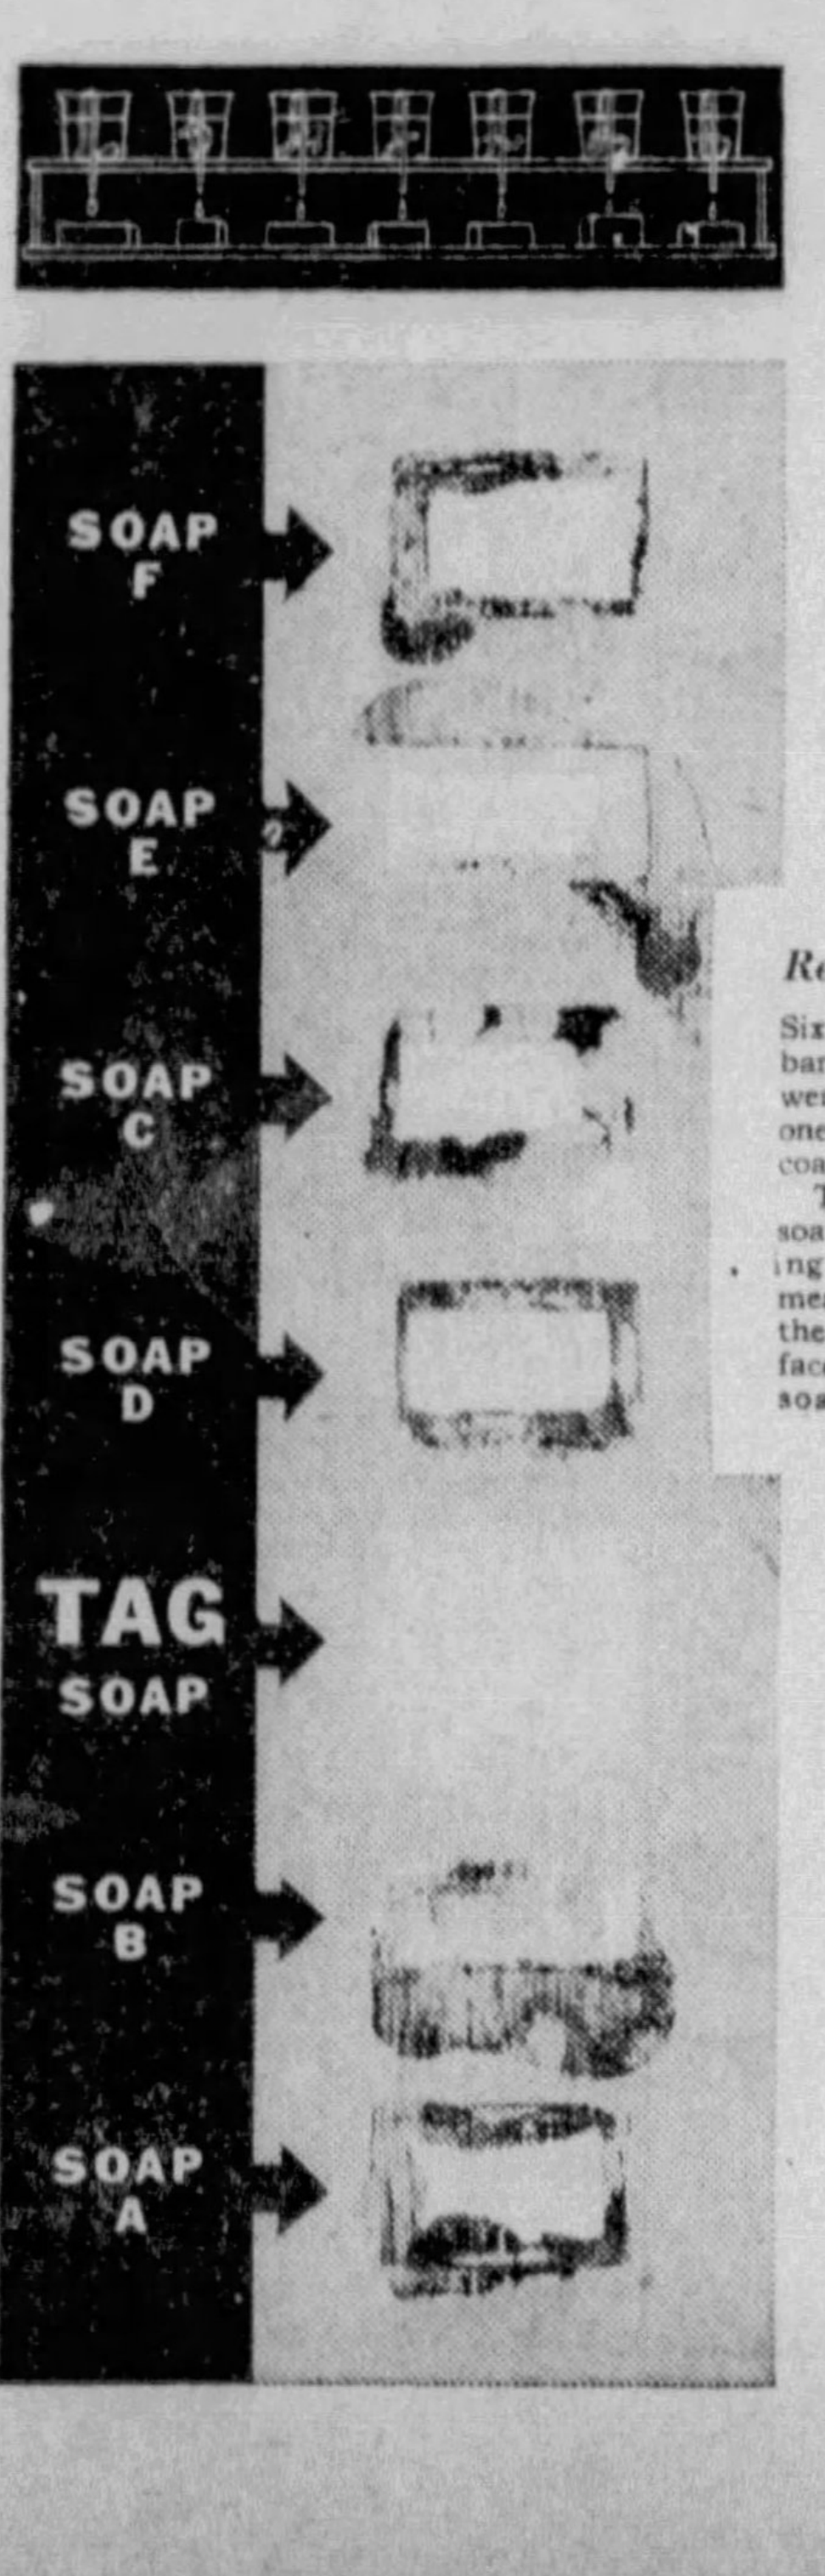
LABORATORY TEST PROVED SOME HARSH ENOUGH TO TAKE OFF PAINT





Look at the photograph to the left and draw your own conclusions. It shows the results of a test by a famous laboratory—how six popular laundry soaps ate through a triple coat of paint and enamel. TAG was the only soap that did not.

This is because TAG is all pure soap—every grain of it. It contains no fillers, adulterants, caustics or chemicals. Thus, it's utterly safe for clothes and harmless to your hands.

Buy a few bars of TAG and compare it with the soap you're now using. Compare its great economy. If you're like most women, you'll say TAG is by far the most satisfactory soap you've ever used.

Read This Report of The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory

Six well known, nationally advertised bar soaps and a bar of "TAG" Soap were used. A board was prepared with one coat of white, flat paint and two coats of high-grade, white enamel.

The test consisted of placing the soaps on the painted surface and keeping the bars wet continuously by means of a wick drip. After 18 hours the soaps were removed and the surface of the board washed clean. All six soaps tested in comparison with "TAG," removed the paint more or less completely. The bar of "TAG" Soap, although showing some effect on the paint, did not cut through to the wood at any point.

MADE FOR 100 YEARS WITHOUT AN OUNCE OF ADULTERANTS

THE M. WERK COMPANY, CINCINNATI, OHIO

Yes, Madam!

Washing dishes has always been hard on hands

BUT see how kind the quick New Oxydol is!

• Now you needn't dread putting your hands into dishwater three times a day. There's a new soap that does the work in double-quick time and still is kind to hands!

Sprinkle the New Oxydol in your dishpan, turn on the water—and you'll see why this soap does so much!

You've never had such gorgeous suds—rich, thick, lasting suds—50% more suds. Suds that do the work for you so fast your hands are hardly in the dishpan at all. Suds that cut the grease like lightning and rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean before you know it. Every particle of New Oxydol dissolves instantly into thick, long-lasting suds so there are no gummy balls of soap floating around—so water doesn't get greasy—so there's no scum left in the pan.

Try Oxydol for clothes too—see how fast those extra, long-lived suds soak clothes snowy white without rubbing—how clean and sweet-smelling your clothes come out.

And remember that it makes rich suds in any water—and all water turns hard when you put in dirty dishes or clothes. Ask your grocer today for the big bull's-eye package—you'll bless the day you learned its name.

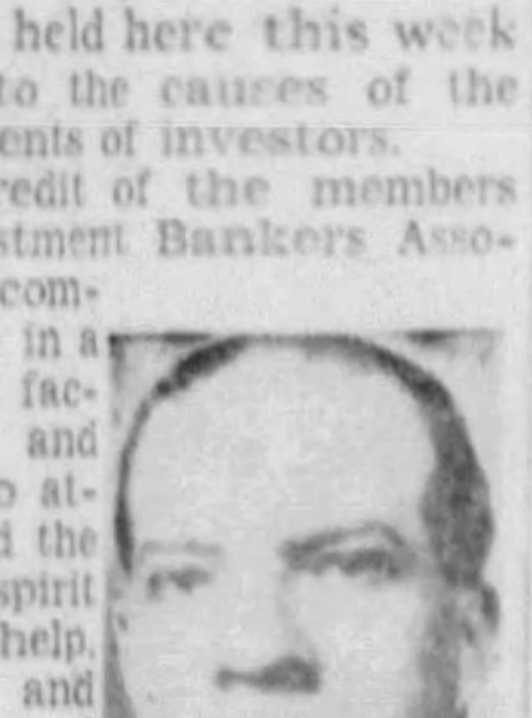
BANKERS SCAN BOOM ERA ABUSES

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 28.—The sponsors of the billions of outstanding stocks and bonds, some of which have gone sour during the depression, sought at their twenty-first annual convention held here this week to delve into the causes of the disappointments of investors.



Mr. Rukeyser

To the credit of the members of the Investment Bankers Association, its committees were in a realistic fact facing mood, and there was no attempt to gild the lily. In the spirit of mutual help, the makers and fashioners of securities, in a chastened mood, sought to formulate the mistakes of the last boom, and to avoid repeating them in the future. With this idea, they foreswore high pressure sales and merchandising methods, and indicated that in the future they would seek to render individual professional investment service to each customer. They also recognized abuses in competitive bidding for new issues, especially foreign ones. Perhaps there will be a very human tendency to deviate from this austere standard and to seek to find sound mass methods when the lay investors, now dormant, again develop an appetite for new issues other than those of the very highest grade.

FOOLED BY 'NEW ERA'

When the record of defaults, actual and threatened, is scanned, the impartial appraiser wonders whether security originators were knaves. Mistakes galore of course were made, as the bankers, like others, were caught in a maelstrom of speculative excitement and easy profits. To the extent they erred, the financier's fault lay in failing to stand aside from mob psychology, and appraise risks calmly. In not a few instances, investment bankers, like their customers, were taken in by the former "new era" psychology.

Now after the day of reckoning has come, the bankers, as they look at the wreckage, wonder what was wrong. Though at the convention this week a few specific abuses were uncovered, it seems to me that the assembled financiers neglected to emphasize the basic cause of the collapse.

WISE ARE DEBT FREE

In sponsoring new issues, especially of bonds and preferred stocks, the issuing houses in their general thinking and sales presentation presupposed greater economic stability at home and abroad than was actually realized in the last three years. With the benefit of hindsight we all know now that we are living in a highly erratic, widely fluctuating and speculative economy society, and that under such conditions of tumultous flux only the nimble speculator, who has been adroit in shifting his position, has been able to maintain or augment his relative position. Behind a multitude of individual defaults and troubles lays the collapse of the international price level, and the changing real worth of the dollar and other units of gold currency.

In other words, bond issues and other loan contracts were expressed in money units of inconstant real value, with the result that the burden of debts has risen remarkably in the last three years as the purchasing power, or real value, of gold monetary units has risen.

In the light of what has happened in these last three years, it is now apparent that the wisest corporations were those which used the boom as an occasion for getting out of debt.

BRITAIN PLANS COPPER DUTY

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, announced in the House of Commons that the government proposes to establish a virtually prohibitive duty on foreign raw copper.

The purpose of this duty, he said, is to build up the empire supply. It would be 2 pence (about 3 cents American) a pound. He continued:

"The duty is almost prohibitive, because it is realized that there are sufficient supplies of empire copper to meet the British needs."

He made this announcement during debate on the bill giving effect to the trade agreements reached at last summer's imperial conference at Ottawa. The bill was given second reading by a vote of 423 to 77.

Mr. Runciman also informed the House that Canadian wheat shipped through United States ports will get the new imperial preference in the United Kingdom if consigned from Canada originally.

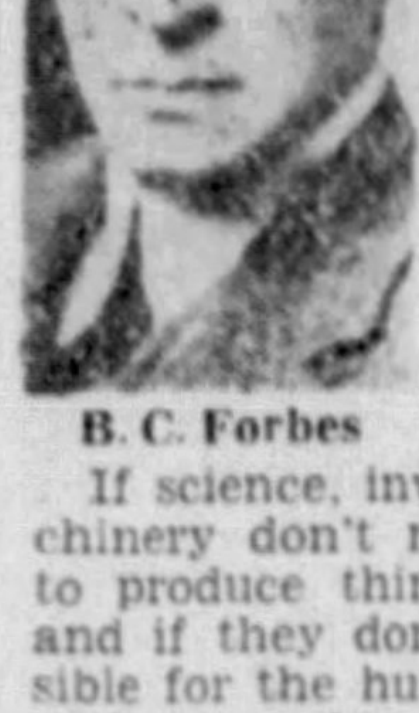
Shrinkage Is General, But Change Sure

By B. C. FORBES



B. C. Forbes

REMEMBER THAT wheat can be produced more economically now than in the days of Queen Elizabeth. Maybe, therefore, it is not altogether astonishing that wheat prices are now where they were then. After all, is it illogical for wheat and almost every other agricultural commodity to sink in price as machinery for producing them advances?

If science, invention and machinery don't make it possible to produce things at less cost, and if they don't make it possible for the human race to live without working as many hours as formerly, of what actual benefit are they?

The truth is that there is hardly a single commodity or raw material which cannot be provided today on a larger scale and at less cost than at the opening of this century. Our aptitude for unprecedented production has developed more rapidly than our ability to so manage things that the people can enjoy their use to the maximum extent.

THIS OLD world has solved problems more difficult than this present and pressing one.

Necessity is once again proving the mother of invention. The influentially-sponsored "share-the-work" movement is making genuine progress.

Manifestly, if there be—as there is today—a limit to the nation's total pay envelope, it is preferable that as many breadwinners as possible share in it rather than that some should get a generous participation and others receive nothing.

Admittedly, this means that the working classes carry a heavy part of the depression burden.

BUT PRACTICALLY all classes are paying part of the cost. Consider what is happening to investors.

Owners of billions of dollars of British government bonds have given up a 5 per cent return for a 3½ per cent return. The French government has embarked on a similar program of reducing the "wages" of its bond owners.

At home those who lend our Treasury money for short periods receive a return of approximately one-eighth of 1 per cent a year, and obligations running for a longer period also offer relatively small income to purchasers.

The owners of one American railway obligation which became due received, not 100 cents cash on the dollar, but 50 cents cash and the balance in securities. Another railroad offers owners of a maturing obligation 25 cents in cash and the rest in notes.

Moreover, a number of industrial and utility corporations have also scaled down their capitalization, some by giving stockholders only one share in place of several, others by drastically reducing the par value, still others by writing down their "assets" by millions—in one instance by more than $400,000,000. A good many banks and other institutions have also cut their capital structures.

Note, too, how many dividends have been either omitted entirely or severely reduced.

What has happened to salaries and wage rates is only too well known.

In short, the "shrinkage" process has become and is becoming general.

AMERICA AND Americans have been so accustomed to expansion, expansion, expansion that the ordeal now being undergone is peculiarly distasteful and painful. Indeed, it has generated an amount of pessimism not warranted by the long-range view.

The shrinking process will run its course and be followed by fresh expansion and prosperity.

Just how soon the more pleasant process will become pronounced no human can foretell. Some hopefully predict, "after election." Others expect no notable improvement until "after March 4." Pessmists cannot foresee any turning-point.

THE TRUTH is that at least a turning-point was reached around mid-year. Whether this will prove the turning-point remains to be seen. So far, recovery has, on the whole, persisted in a modest way.

STEEL DUMPING BAN ASKED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Benjamin Schwartz, director of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, of New York, testified today at a customs bureau hearing, that "dumping" of steel into the United States has hampered recovery of the industry.

Speaking for the organization of wholesale collectors and distributors of scrap iron, which he said represents over 90 per cent of the tonnage handled by the scrap trade, Schwartz said scrap iron and steel are today the principal raw materials used by the industry.

Steel importation in 1931 and 1932, he said, prevented use of 400,000 tons of scrap iron and steel by mills and foundries in the United States. He continued:

"This represented a loss of one week's work for approximately 50,000 men engaged in the collection, sorting and preparation of scrap, in addition to the loss of freight revenue to the railroads of over $800,000."

Seeking invocation of an "anti-dumping order," he said conservation of natural resources was also involved.

Importation of pig iron from Holland, India and other countries, was said by him to have practically destroyed the domestic market for low grade scrap iron used in blast furnaces.

LESS MONEY IN CIRCULATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending October 26, as reported by the Federal Reserve Banks, was $2,219,000,000, a decrease of $16,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $13,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

On October 26 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,221,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000 for the week. An increase of $86,000,000 in member bank reserve balances was approximately offset by increases of $30,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $7,000,000 in Treasury currency, adjusted, and decreases of $37,000,000 in money in circulation and $11,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc.

Holdings of discounted bills increased $10,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and $8,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $12,000,000 while holdings of Treasury certificates and bills decreased by the same amount.

NATION'S GOLD AT LEVEL OF YEAR AGO

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—American monetary gold stocks October 26 were virtually on the same level as a year earlier, the Federal Reserve Board announced today.

With a gain of $30,000,000 during the past week, stocks were increased to $4,257,000,000, a gain of $348,000,000 since the low point reached June 15, a time when fears were expressed in some quarters that the gold standard could not be maintained. Stocks were only $31,000,000 under October 28, 1931.

At the end of October, 1931, was terminated the heavy outward movement of gold that followed the financial breakdown in Europe and abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain. Another serious movement of gold away from the United States stopped June 15.

HOARDING REDUCED

Another sharp decrease of $37,000,000 in money circulation occurred during the week of October 26, at a time when circulation normally would increase. The volume of money outside of the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks has declined $191,000,000 since the high point July 6. Circulation is now but $103,000,000 higher than last year, while July 6 it was $939,000,000 higher.

By reason of restored confidence in the banking structure it was estimated that close to $300,000,000 in cash has been taken from hoard and replaced it in the banks from which it found its way back to the reserve banks and the Treasury.

BANKS' RESERVES UP

Eligible commercial paper held against federal reserve notes showed a gain of $8,491,000 during the week ended October 26, after a steady decline for some time. A total of $306,283,000 in this paper was behind the reserve notes, while $451,200,000 in government securities was so pledged, a decrease of $13,300,000.

Member banks increased their reserve balances to $2,412,000,000, a gain of $86,000,000 in a week and $183,000,000 higher than a year ago. The total volume of outstanding reserve bank credit amounted to $2,221,000,000, a gain of $2,000,000 in a week and $10,000,000 in a year. The banks maintained their holdings of $1,851,000,000 in government securities, with no appreciable change in several weeks.

The Borough of North Braddock reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

J. O. JONES,
Borough Secretary.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The stock market continued its slow horizontal movement for the sixth successive session today.

Prices pushed up a point or two here and there during the morning, but slid back in the middle of the day, as professional traders found they were attracting no following. Such speculative interest as there was seemed to center in the rails.

Wall street found the weekly Federal Reserve reports, indicating a further piling up of excess reserves of member banks, return of currency from hoarding and continued inflow of gold, decidedly encouraging as to basic financial conditions, but stock market quarters were imbued with the feeling that the autumn upturn in general business might be reaching its seasonal peak, and were uncertain as to the trend of the market over the remainder of the year. There was some talk in brokerage quarters, however, of probable increased technical strength of the market, as a result of the sharp reduction in brokers' loans, and increased short selling recently.

The weekly mercantile reviews indicated that retail trade had felt the effects of adverse weather conditions during the past week, and that wholesale business was feeling the lull of a between-seasons period, but pointed to encouraging indications of further gradual gains in manufacturing activity, and increases in employment.

SALES WEAKEN COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Cotton futures opened steady, 4 to 9 points lower under Southern selling and favorable weather in the South. December, 6.35; January, 6.37; March, 6.45; May, 6.55; July, 6.63.

Active months sold about 7 to 9 points net lower under pressure with December easing off to 6.28c and March to 6.43c, but offerings were not heavy and prices held fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

The early decline of about 9 to 10 points was followed by a quiet and fairly steady market later in the morning. Prices at midday held about 5 to 6 points below yesterday's closing quotations on active months.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS HELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Weekly mercantile reviews today indicated that the recent upward trend of general business volume had shown some signs of flattening out, although recent gains had been well maintained, and further signs of increased stability were apparent. Bradstreet's said:

"General business has shown a leveling off, reports from 55 leading cities indicate a tendency in retail trade to slow down, due to unfavorable weather conditions. While basic industries are still slow to show any real activity, their pulse has been gradually quickening."

R. G. Dun and Company also remarked that adverse weather had halted the upward movement in retail trade, but found 'further indications of a greater degree of stability in general business were still in evidence this week, reports of fresh gains coming from some parts of the country, while in other sections, previous advances were almost entirely maintained."

LOANS DECLINE $81,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City decreased $81,000,000 during the week ended October 26 to $352,000,000. This compares with $433,000,000 in the preceding week, the high record of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

Change in Chrysler Par Value Approved

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—Stockholders of the Chrysler Corporation, at a special meeting today, approved a recommendation of directors to change the stated value of the corporation's capital stock from no par value to par value of $5 per share.

$81,000,000 Drop in Loans Laid to Government Bond Financing

The drop of $81,000,000 in brokers' loans, the heaviest for any week in over a year, or since October 7, 1931, when a similar decrease was shown, proved quite unexpected. It was plain the change was not accounted for by the turn of events in stocks which were dull and in a narrow range through the period. Liquidation of loans by dealers in governments made possible presumably by the sale of the four and one-half year 3s issue October 15, undoubtedly was involved. The bulk of the drop, $79,000,000, was recorded in advances made by local banks, this shrinkage in loans corresponding exactly to an increase of $79,000,000 reported in holdings of United States government securities. Dealers in governments, it will be recalled, were credited with accounting for sharp expansion in loans a short while back.

Evidently so-called brokers' loans are not being governed so much at the moment by the operations of stock brokers as by the ebb and flow of borrowings of investment dealers. It is rather widely recognized that for weeks past the change in brokers' borrowings from day to day has been purely nominal. During the period covered by the loan figures just released, stocks trading was the dullest since early July and the movement of values slight, amounting to a drop of 2.9 points in the standard statistics index of 90 stocks. Under the circumstances it is hardly possible ordinary brokers' commitments could have accounted for the drop in loans. In the preceding week when stocks advanced 2 points in the index, the total of loans remained unchanged.

The Lackawanna Railroad Company has ordered 4,000 tons of 130-pound steel rails for January delivery. This is the second small rail order placed since steel companies reduced the price of rails, the first, amounting to 6,000 tons, having come from Illinois Central Railroad. When the steel producers last week lowered their price to $40 a ton from $43, it was expected that some good sized rail orders would be placed by the carriers.

Foreign visible consumption of copper is still increasing slightly, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, with monthly average for the principal consuming countries other than Canada averaging 61,539 short tons for the last three months, compared with the three months' average of 61,240 tons one month ago; 59,692 tons two months ago, and 59,385 tons three months ago.

A buoyant tone in Baltimore and Ohio bonds, with the convertible 4½s, due next March, scoring a rise of some 6 points, featured a day of general strength in the market for rail investments. The sharp advance in that issue, coincided with reports that announcement will be made soon of favorable disposition of the application made by the road to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of $31,625,000 to meet half the principal of that issue at maturity. Inasmuch as there was no pressing need for the loan sought action on it was deferred some weeks ago, but the understanding now is that definite and favorable news will be forthcoming probably before the middle of next month.

While the stock market by its actions does not indicate that traders are keeping close watch on wheat fluctuations, the fact remains that the floor members of a number of firms, which are interested in commodities, keep calling constantly for data on the movement of grain. In short, while the average board room trader, who relies almost wholly on the tape, may not evince any appreciable interest in wheat at the moment, the experience of those observers who keep particularly close watch on the situation, particularly since the grain broke to new low levels, indicates clearly that the floor element is watching wheat sharply.

Steel Companies Show Increased Losses For Quarter

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

WITH ONLY ONE exception the principal steel companies reported less satisfactory results for the third quarter of the year than for the second quarter. Such results were generally expected in view of the low rate of steel mill operations which prevailed during the three months ended September 30.

It will be recalled that steel activity reached its low point in July, and that the autumn recovery did not get under way to a substantial extent until the latter part of September. Accordingly results for the quarter reflected the depression lows in industrial activity, with only a few weeks of recovery to act as a compensating influence. Under such circumstances, the income accounts for the three months were not surprising. In view of the recovery which has taken place since that time, and which has not had a chance to show itself in steel company accounting, the statements published during the past week should not be interpreted as adverse business indications.

Jones & Laughlin Reports Improvement

JONES & LAUGHLIN Steel Company was the single organization of the major steel producers which have reported results for the third quarter to show improvement over the second quarter. As a result of strict economies in operations this company reported a deficit after oll charges of $1,682,919. This compared with a loss of $2,110,851 in the second quarter. Other companies went deeper into the red during the third quarter with the exception of a single major steel producer, which has been able to keep in black ink throughout the business depression. Even this organization, however, earned less in the last three months than in the previous period.

National Steel Corporation, which still holds the distinction of being the only money maker of the major steel companies, reported net profit of $155,075, or seven cents a share on its capital stock for the third quarter. This compared with net profit of $560,999, or 26 cents a share in the second quarter.

National enjoys exceptionally low costs through the strategical location of its plants and through the fact that it has fully integrated operations without wasteful expenses for the movement of semi-finished materials between plants. The company's operations are concentrated in the vicinity of Weirton, W. Va., and Detroit, Mich., where major steel markets are found. The Weirton plants enjoy the use of low cost river transportation for the receipt of coal and for the shipment of finished products.

Steel's Net Results Exceed Expectations

IN VIEW OF THE low rate of mill operations during the summer, the results shown by the United States Steel Corporation and other producers were far from disappointing. The fact that the increases in losses were small indicated that the managements of steel companies have expenses well under control and that when a genuine recovery takes place, the industry will be able to show a profit on a relatively low rate of production and with prices considerably below previous levels.

For the quarter ended September 30, Bethlehem Steel Corporation and subsidiaries report net loss of $5,425,724, after interest, taxes, depreciation and depletion. This compares with net loss of $4,671,266 in preceding quarter and net loss of $1,502,002 in the September quarter of 1931.

GRAIN VALUES RULE STEADY

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Unusual steadiness characterized grain values early today. A reason given was that Liverpool wheat quotations showed fair strength, and that cables reported scarcity of nearby deliveries of wheat in Great Britain. Opening at ¼ off to ⅛ up, Chicago wheat futures held near afterward to the initial limits. Corn started at a shade decline to ¼ advance and subsequently varied but little.

Sagging tendencies which developed later in Chicago wheat values were accounted for as due more to dearth of purchase orders than to an increase of selling pressure. Corn and oats receded with wheat.

Provisions reflected downturns of hog values.

Chile and France Sign Nitrate Pact

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The Chilean ambassador at London and the French government have signed an agreement under which 40 per cent of the amount due c. i. f. on whatever allotment may be fixed for the importation of Chilean nitrate into France during the coming year shall be paid in pesos with a view to liquidating frozen commercial credits of France in Chile. The allotment has not yet been fixed, but 130,000 tons has been mentioned.

ARGENTINE TRADE

Argentine exports for the first nine months of 1932 amounted to $269,246,500 against $280,394,550 last year, representing a 6.8 per cent reduction in quantity, but a 4 per cent reduction in values. This was due to a steady improvement in average price levels. While import figures for the period are not yet available, Argentina had an export balance amounting to $104,057,350 in the first eight months of this year.

BUSINESS MACHINES

International Business Machine Corporation's total sales by all divisions in September produced the largest volume since September, 1931.

LOCAL BREWING LIST HOLDS STEADY

Securities maintained a steady tone in a quiet market on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Business was in light volume and trading was confined to a comparatively few issues, with most of the individual transactions being of the odd-lot variety.

At the start of business a few hundred shares of Pittsburgh Plate Glass came out at a small fraction under the stock's previous closing level, but trading in the issue quieted down before the end of the first hour. The fuels were dull and practically unchanged. Miscellaneous industrials held at their previous figures.

Brewing stocks held at their recently attained levels although volume of trading here was also very light. A slight fractional advance was recorded in Pittsburgh Brewing preferred early in the day.

'LEGION' NAME CONTESTED

Attorney Joseph I. Winslow has filed a petition in Common Pleas Court asking that the application of Felix A. Petrone and others for a charter for the Roosevelt Civic Legion be dismissed, because a Delaware charter has been granted to the Roosevelt Civic Legion with headquarters in the McGeagh Building. Winslow says politics is behind the Petrone application, declaring Petrone caused the defeat of Donald D. Mangone, original governor of the Roosevelt organization, at a recent election.

In the petition the Mangone followers say their organization obtained a charter May 29, 1929, and changed the name to the Roosevelt Civic Legion, Inc., December 31, 1931. They assert Petrone and his followers have not pre-empted the name of the Roosevelt Civic Legion and have no right to it. They declare the group Magone headed was organized not to maintain a social club, but to educate Americans in the ideals of Theodore Roosevelt.

ROTARIANS EAT 'RELIEF' MEAL

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 28. —Demonstrating to the Rotary Club what a family gets to eat when it is supplied necessities of life by the Connellsville Relief Association, 30 members were served the weekly luncheon yesterday at a total cost of 95 cents.

When all had eaten as much as they desired there remained on the tables a considerable quantity.

Each member paid the regular dinner fee and the difference in cost was turned over to the Salvation Army. The meal consisted of roast potatoes, sliced onions, bread and black coffee.

Officer to Appeal Dismissal Charges

DOVER, O., Oct. 28.—Traffic Officer Robert E. Baker, dismissed from the Dover police force on the allegation that he cussed his superiors when found in an alleged speakeasy, will appeal, he said today.

Benefit For Jobless In Forest Hills

"Hard Times," a benefit comedy-drama for Forest Hills unemployed, at which food, clothing and donations will be acceptable for admission, will be held tonight in the Atlantic Avenue High School auditorium.

The benefit, sponsored by the Edgewood Acres Men's Club, will be featured by a movie, magic acts by George Sands and William McCaffrey, members of the Pittsburgh Association of Magicians, and two short plays.

Jobless Party Gets Papers For Watchers

The Jobless Party, through Attorney Austin Staley, national chairman, has obtained 2,900 watcher certificates from the County Commissioners which will be given volunteer watchers at the pools November 8.

Although Father James R. Cox, the party's choice for president, has withdrawn in favor of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, it still has several candidates for Congress and the Legislature.

Rainfall Benefits Hunting Conditions

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 28.—Rainfall of 73-100ths of an inch, greatest in any six-hour period this season, assured first rate hunting for November 1, and paved the way for cold weather, which has arrived. The Allegheny River, for the first in weeks, is rising.

Commercial Planes Barred From Field

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 28.—Burgess Field, the Army airport near here, has been closed to commercial planes, War Department officials announced today. It was said operators of a commercial field nearby complained about short passenger flights by a tri-motored plane from Burgess Field.

Spare Ribs in Girl Startle Physicians

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 28.—(INS.) —Examining Miss Rosa Lee Lewis, 23, of Atlanta, physicians were startled to find that she had two extra ribs—14 instead of the normal 12.

Miss Lewis complained of extreme nervousness, and physicians will operate to remove the spare ribs and restore her to normalcy.

G. O. P. Radio League Names Four Officers

Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the Republican Radio League of Allegheny County, today announced the naming of four additional vice presidents who will have charge of the various legislative districts.

President of Council John S. Herron heads the Fifth Legislative District group; Burgess Charles Chamberlain, of Dormont, the Twelfth; Robert Murray, secretary to the County Board of Viewers, the Seventh, and George Munro, former Wilmerding burgess, has been named to lead the Tenth.

Victim Identifies Suspect in Holdup

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 28.—Identified by Paul Mahon, 21, of Bellstown, as one of two men who held him up, Edward Concelman, Rochester youth, was committed to jail by Justice of the Peace W. B. Brown on charges of highway robbery, while police continued an investigation of his record. Lawrence Crudden, Rochester, held as a suspect, was committed for investigation.

MORE DRY, TAX VIEWS GIVEN BY CANDIDATES

The questions and their answers follow:

"Do you favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment?"

"Do you favor the sales tax?"

Twenty-third District—Frederick B. Kerr, Democrat, Clearfield, favors the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but has reached no decision on the sales tax, saying:

"I stand squarely on the Democratic platform with respect to prohibition and will keep an open mind on the sales tax. I am opposed to new taxes if they can be avoided, and believe instead the cost of government must be substantially reduced."

FAVORS SALES TAX

Twenty-ninth District—Milton W. Shreve, Republican, Erie, says:

"Am standing squarely on the Republican platform. Am in favor of a manufacturers' sales tax."

Congressman Shreve's answer is construed to oppose repeal and favor the general sales tax, such as was defeated at the last session of Congress.

Twenty-ninth District—Edmund F. Erk, favors both repeal of the amendment and the sales tax. He voted for the sales tax during the last session of Congress, and was one of the three congressmen who drafted the beer bill in the last session.

The votes so far follow:

WILD CARGO

By FRANK BUCK
With EDWARD ANTHONY

be deflected from the plaything he had found, but would stick to it until he had done enough damage to that briefcase to make the diplomat-author feel that my home at Katong was no place for him to live. I was sure that Toto was in good form, for only a short time before Ah Kee had caught him rummaging through the linen closet, where he had already pulled from the shelves dozens of sheets, pillowcases and napkins.

JOB WELL DONE

Toto did not disappoint me. In fact he so far outdid my wildest expectations that I could only gasp as Kinkley and I returned, arm in arm from our half-hour in the compound. As we rounded the corner of the house, the broad front lawn caught my eye. It looked as if a sudden snowstorm had visited it. The entire length and breadth of it, between the wire fences on either side, was white with sheets of paper which the gentle afternoon breezes were blowing hither and yon with gleeful abandon. Flower beds and bushes were decorated with paper. And in the center of everything was Toto, still scurrying about, chasing little bits of fluttering foolscap, or creating miniature whirlwinds of paper as he somersaulted gayly here and there amidst the devastation he had wrought. The remains of the briefcase lay in the gravel path, its leather flap showing an irregular design where Toto's white teeth had tested its desirability as food.

Kinkley paused in the middle of a long sentence about the pleasure which was in store for me when he began reading me the recently completed chapters of his memoirs, dealing with the climate and natural history of Aden and Addis-Ababa.

His mouth suddenly flew open as if he were preparing to swallow a football. Blood rushed to his head until his face went through all the gradations of color from his normal pink to a flaming red and a violent purple. His hands flew up over his head like those of a drowning man clutching spasmodically at the air for support.

"My book! My book!" he finally gasped, still too stunned to move from the place where he stood.

There was a long pause while Kinkley choked, seeking for breath.

"Somebody's going to answer for this!" he said fiercely, as he began picking up the nearest sheets of his life work.

I routed out Ah Kee and sent him to fetch all the servants, including the caboon and Ali, my No. 1 animal boy. Soon we were all busy gathering up the pages of Kinkley's masterpiece. I had contrived to smuggle Toto into the arms of the caboon's wife, with the instructions to let him play with the baby in some out-of-the-way place for a while.

I can still hear Kinkley's agonized falsetto as he directed the rescue of his masterpiece.

Incoherent sentences reached my ears in which I caught threats of reprisal . . . hints that the United States government would hear of the outrage . . . bitter references to my carelessness in permitting vandalistic creatures to roam at large . . . all the indications that Mr. Kinkley was nettled.

It was a shame, I replied. I always felt badly when a strange briefcase got itself all chewed up on my premises—especially one full of memoirs. But visitors to an animal collector's headquarters should take care not to leave valuables lying around. The owner always did so at his own risk.

Kinkley thought that over for a time, while we all continued to pick up the scribbled foolscap pages from bush and shrub.

"Well," he said finally, with splendid repression, "this settles any chance you ever had, Buck, of getting me to live with you out here."

I glanced up at him. "I'm sorry," I said. "But of course I understand, and I won't insist."

FEIGNS ANGER

To seem properly indignant about what had taken place, I cussed out the unknown animal who had done this deed—Kinkley apparently had not seen Toto—and I pretended to be in a rage as I commanded the uncomprehending caboon in English (of which he understood not a word) to find and punish the fiendish brute.

Kinkley collected every sheet and fragment of paper, thrust them into the tattered remains of his briefcase. Then he excused himself from staying to dinner, explaining that he must return to his rooms at once and spend the evening and night in arranging his manuscript and ascertaining whether any of it was missing.

Toto had saved the day. He sat in Kinkley's chair at dinner that night, and had a special meal of sweet biscuits and bonbons. He had not only saved the day, but also the night. For I had had gloomy forebodings of spending the hours after dinner listening to Kinkley, manuscript in hand, reading his precious memoirs to me until the wee small hours.

Toto's place of honor in the household was preserved until I left on my next trip to America. Then I gave him to an old friend of mine in Manila, an American who had a particular hate for Kinkley.

He had developed a great fondness for the little bear the first time he heard the story of Toto's service to humanity in the matter of Kinkley's memoirs. The gay little mischief-maker is still a member of his household.

DR. GOLDSTEIN RALLY SPEAKER

Dr. Philip Goldstein, of the New York Jewish Welfare Board, is to speak at a luncheon rally of workers in the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association's campaign for maintenance funds, at 12:30 p. m. in the Hotel Henry today.

With more than half of the needed $60,000 subscribed, Edgar J. Kaufmann, general chairman of the drive, has stated the campaign will be carried beyond the originally announced last day, tomorrow, if necessary, to raise the full quota. The association will close if the money is not subscribed, according to officials.

W. Va. Pardons Man Jailed as Cow Thief

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Gov. Conley has issued a conditional pardon to Earl Cooper, of McGee, who was sentenced to five years' imprisonment at Weston in February for theft of a cow. Signing of the conditional pardon was made known by Attorney Albert G. Jenkins.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

"THIS lion hunting is quite all right in its way," quoth the Epicure. "But my dear Rajah, when you want to see some real lions, come to The Warwick in New York! There, social, literary and dramatic lions gather . . . lured by the famed continental cuisine of The Warwick, the luxurious comfort of the spacious residential suites."

"Incidentally, my dear Rajah, the rates are so modest that you'd best make your reservations quickly. I can promise you a memorable New York visit."

WIDE EDGE SEEN FOR IRISH OVER PITT

YOU CAN'T BE sure about any grid game. Modern football is full of tricks and upsets. Pitt is much better than it was against Ohio State, and may play over its head, where last Saturday it was below par. Notre Dame has had no real test and perhaps is being overrated. The Irish may have looked greater than they actually are because the opposition was weak. But with due allowance for all these possibilities, it looks as though Pitt will be defeated tomorrow in the country's big game of the week, and that the only thing in doubt is the size of the score.

Paul Host

Without figuring playing ability, Notre Dame has an edge on Pitt in size of regulars and number and quality of reserves, with a second team almost as good as the first. And if other things were equal, which they are not, Capt. Paul Host and his mates would have the advantage of experience in the line. Sophomores and former subs cannot by any stretch of the imagination be rated equal to forwards who have played one or two seasons of varsity football. That item alone ought to win for the Irish, without reckoning anything else. The Sutherlands are apt to make a harder fight of it than has been expected, and may score through an aerial attack, but Notre Dame looks like the probable winner by a margin of two or three touchdowns. There appears to be too much experience, power, speed, blocking skill, co-ordination and reserve strength for the Panthers to overcome.

DICK HANLEY, Northwestern coach, doesn't believe in safety-first methods in football or in trying merely to stand off opponents with defensive tactics. Asked what he thought about offense as related to defense, Hanley replied:

"If you have the speed and the power, why not take a chance? Why not open up? Why not try to make offense your best defense? Sometimes you will lose, but you are going to look a great deal better losing than many other teams will look winning."

IT MAY OR may not help Pop Warner shake the jinx that has kept him from getting a decision over Howard Jones and Southern California since 1926, but there is a movement under way to move Stanford's annual game with the Trojans to a later date for future seasons.

The meeting is held to be worthy of a later scheduling. Both teams probably will be stronger in November than in October each year, it is figured, and football men call it regrettable that one of these annually outstanding elevens should be defeated so early.

STRAY BITS FROM the gridiron: Washington State has a captain named Walter Camp. Ben Ticknor, former all-America center at Harvard, is taking a finance course at New York U. Duke University has seven coaches instructing the line. St. Mary's has a halfback named Garbo, but he's not related to Greta. Bill Nicolet, of Shurtleff College, is a football fullback, basketball guard, baseball slugger, track man, discus hurler and crack tennis player. Lone Star Dietz, who played under Pop Warner at Carlisle, has since coached at Stanford, Washington State, Wyoming, Louisiana Poly and Haskell. A number of the Army players sing in the Cadet choir, and the regular backfield includes a tenor, baritone, lead and bass.

Paul Moss

IN THE FOUR games played by Purdue to date, Paul Moss, punting end, has averaged almost 40 yards per kick from the line of scrimmage. To be exact, Moss has booted the ball 37 times for a total yardage of 1,453, an average of 39.2 yards.

On many of his punts, Moss made no attempt for distance, for he excels as a sharpshooter in sending the ball out of bounds in the coffin corner. Against Kansas State he sent four successive kicks out of bounds inside the six-yard line. Purdue's other booting expert, Quarterback Paul Pardonner, has drop-kicked 16 goals after touchdowns in 17 attempts.

NO PLAYER HAS been the central figure in more dramatic moments than Charley Broshous, the unsung hero of the Army team, and yet, in three seasons, he has never played a minute of football at West Point. All he does is to try to dropkick goals for the extra point after touchdown, and time is out while that is going on.

For three years Broshous has sat wrapped in a black blanket at the end of the Army bench, waiting for his fellow Cadets to make a touchdown. When that happens, Charley drops his blanket, trots bareheaded onto the field, orders some regular to the sideline, punches a dropkick at the crossbar and plods back to his place among the subs.

BROSHOUS, WHO PLAYED two years at Kansas, was a member of the Plebe team at the Point and this is his third year on the regular squad, yet he never has been favored with a varsity or plebe award. So far, none of his successful kicks has affected the result of a game, but usually his failures have cost a tie or a victory, as against Notre Dame in 1930 and against Yale last year. But he still has a few games left, and the law of averages may yet crown him the hero of some big battle. In this connection, a well-known coach suggests that if Army at any time wanted to make dead sure of an extra point all it would need to do would be to have Charley fake his dropkicking specialty and run for the end zone. There would be no danger of his getting hurt, it is added, because the opposition, expecting nothing but a kick, would never wake up in time to get anywhere near him.

TWO OLD PLAYING rivals of the misty past were opposing coaches in the game between Holy Cross and Detroit this season. Capt. John McEwan, head coach at Holy Cross, was playing center for the Army when Gus Dorais, Detroit mentor, was at quarterback for Notre Dame and throwing passes to the late Knute Rockne.

Way back in 1913, Dorais was captain of the South Bend team that defeated the Cadets, 35 to 13. McEwan was at center for Army, and Dorais found him so hard to get by that he abandoned line play for the most part and concentrated on an aerial attack.

THE OLDEST SCOUT in baseball has passed out through the action of the Brooklyn club in retiring Larry Sutton on pension. Sutton is 74 and has been scouting for 25 years.

Sutton was the first to see signs of future greatness in Dots Miller, before the latter came to the Pirates to play second base in 1909. He also recommended the purchase of Gus Getz, of Etna, before McKeesport sold that third baseman to the Boston Nationals. Among other players discovered by Larry were Nick Altrock, Bill Bradley, Zack Wheat, Hi Myers, Casey Stengel, Dazzy Vance, Jake Daubert, George Cutshaw, Howard Ehmke, Jimmy Ring and Rube Bressler.

Jack Hurley

WHEN BILLY PETROLLE started training for his lightweight title fight with Tony Canzoneri he weighed 143 pounds, meaning that he had to take off eight pounds before 2 p. m. on November 4. Jack Hurley, who really trains as well as manages the Fargo Express, shares Petrolle's view that it can be done without any weakening effects. "Billy normally is a 138-pounder," Hurley says. "That's what he weighs when he makes no effort to reach a certain figure. So he has only to reduce from 138 to 135. A little change in his diet and a few dry rubs the final two days will do the trick without hurting him."

SMALL SCHOOLS ASK FOR, GET DRUBBINGS

By HEARTLY W. (Hunk) ANDERSON,
Notre Dame Football Coach

It is a good thing that most college football coaches played the game as students and learned to absorb the bumps that this hardy American sport is bound to give them. I know of no other sport in which coaches are subject to so much criticism and regulations by outsiders as football.

Hunk Anderson

The latest cry which has come to my ears has been regarding the large scores we rolled up against Haskell and Drake. I am not writing a defense of myself nor of Notre Dame in particular because the same fuss is stirred up every time a strong team rolls up a score against a small school. This, therefore, is meant to be more of a defense for the action of the larger schools.

I think I can truthfully say that the responsibility for this unsatisfactory practice lies with the athletic officials of the small schools. They are continually trying to get games with stronger teams because of the opportunity that a good drawing card gives them to make a little money.

ASK FOR WHAT THEY GET

There is no necessity of a major team approaching a small school for a game because a school that has a strong team can always fill its schedule without trouble. Furthermore, I know of no instance where a small team has been forced to play a stronger team. They enter into free contracts with their eyes open and it is up to them to furnish a contest if they can.

I have had no word of criticism from either Haskell or Drake officials about the large scores we made against them this year. The game with Haskell was scheduled by the late Knute Rockne out of friendship for Coach Lone Star Dietz several years ago when Haskell had top-notch teams.

As for the Drake rivalry, Drake has given us hard games every year up until last season. They led the National Champions of 1928, 7 to 6, at the half before losing by two touchdowns. As soon as we discovered that we were becoming too powerful for Drake, we arranged without any hard feeling, to discontinue this series for the present. Next year, Indiana and Purdue will replace Drake and Haskell on the Notre Dame schedule which otherwise remains the same as this year.

NOT PLEASANT SIGHT

It was by no means pleasant for me to sit on the sidelines and see our boys run up scores against these teams. Against Haskell, out of fairness to all concerned, including the spectators, I left the varsity in for 22 minutes, while the second team played 20 and the third team 18 minutes. This resulted in a 73-to-0 score and a flood of indignant letters.

The next week, against Drake, the varsity played only 10 minutes, but the score was 62 to 0. It is impossible to please both the spectators and the critics by either of these methods.

I think that a fair-minded investigation will show, however, that the critics are not to be found among the players or officials of these small schools because they are anxious to get games with strong teams. As is usually the case, the reformers are those who know little or nothing of the true facts of the situation.

Stagg Petitions Before President

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Petitions asking the retention of A. A. Stagg as head football coach at the University of Chicago, bearing more than 300 signatures, were up for consideration by President Robert Maynard Hutchins, and the board of trustees today.

Start Early For Game, Pitt Asks

Start early for the game.

Get into your seats as soon as possible.

These were two requests issued today by the athletic authorities of the University of Pittsburgh in connection with tomorrow's Pitt-Notre Dame football battle, which promises to be a sellout of the capacity of the Stadium.

Kickoff will be promptly at 2 o'clock, and it is the desire of the management to have as many of its patrons seated at that time as possible, in order to prevent last-minute confusion.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: BETTER SPEED AGAINST THE WIND—Paradoxical as it may seem, a huge ocean liner actually makes faster speed heading into a strong wind than if the wind is with the vessel, because of the "slippage" of the waves. When the wind is with the ship the crests of the waves fall forward and the body of the waves slip back, with a tendency to drag the ship with them. But, when the wind is against the vessel, the wave-crests fall forward into the bow of the ship and the body of the waves recedes in the direction in which the ship is traveling, increasing its speed. With the speed of the motors constant, the "slippage" overcomes the increased wind resistance. A GEOGRAPHICAL PARADOX—Gibson Station, a little settlement in the extreme southwest corner of Virginia, is actually closer to the capitals of Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee than it is to Richmond, the capital of its own state.

PITT LINEUP RIDDLED BY INJURIES

have to start, with Leslie Wilkins as relief.

Coach Hunk Anderson, of the Irish, announced upon his arrival today that he was ready to send his entire first team into the game at the starting gun. He said:

"I'm not luring myself into any false sense of security. You can't afford to trifle with any Pitt team. Regardless of what anyone else thinks, I look for a hard battle, and my best men will be in there at the start and will travel the entire 60 minutes if they can and are needed."

CROWD GREETS IRISH

A milling crowd of several thousand admirers swarmed around the Pennsylvania Station to greet the Irish players upon their arrival at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The squad was driven to St. Paul's Cathedral for mass and went from there to the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, where headquarters were established. This afternoon a light workout was held on the Stadium field, following luncheon at the Longue Vue Country Club.

Announcement was made at noon today by W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, that all of the $1.65 seats for the game were sold. There remained, however, he said, approximately 10,000 seats at $3.30 in the less preferred sections around the goal line, which were selling fast, giving every indication of a complete sellout of the 61,000 seating capacity of the bowl. He said no bleacher seats would be erected, as has been done in the past.

BIG SQUAD HERE

Included on the Rambler squad were six ends, Capt. Host, Kosky, Canale, Vairo, Rascher and Devore; half a dozen tackles, Krause, Kurth, Pfefferle, Leding, Roach and Barstow; six guards, Harris, Wunsch, Schiralli, Greeney, Flynn and Pivarnik; a quarter of centers, Alexander, Gorman, Bobinson and Witucki; four quarterbacks, Jaskwich, Vejar, Murphy and Boland; eight halfbacks, Lukats, Koken, McGuff, LaBorne, Brancheau, Sheeketski, Tobin and Costello and a trio of fullbacks in Melinkovich, Banas and Leonard.

It's the greatest Notre Dame team that ever struck this town, which means it's just about the best that ever trod our soil. What a nice job ahead for the Pitts . . . stopping, or trying to stop, such an array of ball players. The Irish have been installed favorites at 3½ to 1 or better.

The Tipoff

For the first time since 1922 the Notre Dame band will come to Pittsburgh. The Irish musicians (not a harp in the outfit, either) are due in tomorrow morning, on a special choo-choo being run over by the P. R. R. bearing the South Bend and Chicago rooters.

A right celebrated collection of sports writers from various points of the compass have reservations booked in the press box, where they will consume free coffee and hot dogs and expert as only scribes can expert, all afternoon. Prominent members of the Second Guessers' Club who'll attend the fray will include:

LOCAL POLICE AWAIT JAM

The Irish of Notre Dame and the Pitt Panther were not the only ones girding their loins, today for that annual football spectacle at the Stadium.

The police department also is to have its workout with the crowds tomorrow afternoon. Today a squad of 220 officers were slated for duty when the police line up against the 61,000 fans expected at the Stadium.

The police detail will consist of 100 traffic patrolmen under Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey; 100 foot patrolmen under Assistant Supt. Benjamin R. Marshall, and 20 detectives. The detectives will be on the lookout for pickpockets within the Stadium and ticket scalpers on the outside.

Dorsey today gave the following parking instructions:

No parking on Terrace, Lathrop, Robinson, DeSota, Fifth from Bellefield to Craft and Bouquet from O'Hara to Fifth; one-way parking on O'Hara from Bigelow boulevard to the stadium and on Buffalo and Aliquippa streets.

Temporary no parking signs will be posted tomorrow morning. Motorists must have their machines removed from the restricted streets by 10 a. m. or they will be tagged. Cars must be taken from all drives to the Stadium before 1:30 p. m. Dorsey said motorists may park at the entrance to Schenley Park near Forbes Field, where a motorcycle squad will direct them.

BOXERS SCORE K. O. WINS

Knockout wallops were somewhat scarce at the all-star amateur boxing show staged at the Palisades Ring, McKeesport, last night, only three of the dozen bouts failing to go the limit of three rounds. Two of the three knockouts were first round affairs.

Sammy Shaw, a 136-pounder, of Bryn Mawr, stopped Frank Mayerski, of McKeesport, weighing 146 pounds, in the first round. Andy Conrad, a 149-pounder, of the McKeesport A. C., put Al Somonosky, of the Burke A. C., away in the first round. Eddie Shaffer, of McKeesport, 156½ pounds, won by a technical knockout over Jim Brown, of the Point Breeze A. C., in the third round.

John Bodnar, Dan Billick Club, 136½, defeated Frankie McLaughlin, McKeesport A. C., 141¼, 3 rounds; Eddie Sago, McKeesport A. C., 218¼, defeated Johnny Petro, Mon Valley A. C., 179, 3 rounds; Teddy Movan, McKeesport A. C., 144½, defeated Anson Grieves, Dan Billick A. C., 145¼, 3 rounds; Shorty Wasko, Dan Billick A. C., 125¾, defeated Onslow Watson, 130¼, 3 rounds.

McNamee, Kaufman To Broadcast Game

The two ace football announcers of the broadcasting chains will be in Pittsburgh tomorrow for the Pitt-Notre Dame game at the Pitt Stadium.

Graham McNamee will handle the contest for the NBC hookup, with WCAE as its outlet, while Ted Husing will broadcast for the Columbia chain, represented in Pittsburgh by WJAS. Louis L. Kaufman, the Sun-Tele Globe-Trotter, will work with McNamee.

Both broadcasts will begin at 1:45 o'clock, 15 minutes before game time.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Don't let anyone tell you any different . . . Pittsburgh will be the center of the football world tomorrow . . . There may be other big games in other sectors, but none that will attract the great general attention that will be lavished upon the meeting between Pitt and Notre Dame . . . Newspaper correspondents from East, West, North and South will jam the enlarged press box facilities at the Stadium here, and the game will be broadcast over both the NBC and Columbia national hookups . . . Thus in one fell swoop a football game advertises the fair name of Pittsburgh nation-wide to millions of newspaper readers and radio listeners.

What are Pitt's chances? . . . Well, what do you think? . . . Your guess is as good as any other person's guess . . . Anybody who says Pitt has an even chance before the game is goofy, on the face of conditions, yet it seems there have been such things as upsets in the realm of football . . . It has been hinted that one of those things cropped out last Saturday, when Pitt was touted to take Ohio State in a romp, but was glad to come away with a scoreless draw at the finish.

Throw out that Ohio State game, and there would be a lot of predicting that Pitt will win, for hadn't Pitt run roughshod over three foes before, beating the Army at West Point in spectacular fashion prior to that physical and mental letdown of last week? . . . But, somehow, the memory of the slothful play against the Buckeyes remains, as if to bear out to admonitions of the Panther coaches who have been crying down praise of the team on the ground that it has been overrated . . . And, in view of this, the zero hour for the fray with the vaunted Irish of Notre Dame is awaited by the fans with something akin to fear and trembling.

Here are the conditions that enter into the doping of the game . . . First of all, Notre Dame is supposed to be hotter this year than last, when it defeated both Pitt and Carnegie Tech . . . Its 42-0 victory over Tech last Saturday, while Pitt was floundering, speaks volumes for its power . . . Secondly, be it known to all and sundry that the new Pitt line has not stood any too well the bumping around it got in the successive games with the Army and Ohio State and is in anything but top form. . . . Joe Tormey's ability to play any considerable length of time at center is questionable, due to injuries . . . Capt. Paul Reider hasn't been himself since being injured in the first game . . . There hasn't been any real plunging fullbacking on tap all season. . . . And line replacements are a problem . . . Put this all together and it spells something or other . . . At least it holds out little hope for victory.

However, and if, and but, and nevertheless. While there's life there's hope, or soap, or perhaps it's dope . . . And the dope in this case says that more hopeless causes than Pitt's have come through . . . Back in 1926, Carnegie Tech had lost to both W. & J. and New York University, and came on to knock Notre Dame out of the national championship with a surprising 19-0 victory in the closing game . . . Pitt teams that have been picked to win have lost, and vice versa . . . After the comparative scores of last Saturday involving Pitt and Ohio State and Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech even the most rabid Pitt rooter likely will be satisfied if the home boys hold down the score . . . But

LOOP DIRECTORS IN CONFAB

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The financial difficulties of the International League, particularly those of the Toronto and Jersey City clubs, were to be given a thorough airing today at a special meeting of the board of directors called by Charles H. Knapp, of Baltimore, league president.

The Toronto club is in the hands of receivers and its big new stadium is about to be sold for taxes. Jersey City, rescued from trouble last spring when the Brooklyn National League club took an option on the franchise, has returned to its original status with an announcement from the Dodgers that they will not exercise the option, which expires November 1.

The agreement between Brooklyn and Jersey City was based on the chance that Sam Colacurcio, present owner of the Skeeters, would be able to put the club on a sound basis with the aid of player-reinforcements sent from Brooklyn.

President Knapp said that Albany enjoyed a successful season after the Reading club was moved there late in the season and probably would remain in the International League.

WESTINGHOUSE, SCHENLEY CLASH IN SCHOOL FEATURE

SECTION TITLE AT STAKE IN LOCAL FRAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

The championship of Section I, of the City League, will be up for settlement on the Westinghouse High Field this afternoon when Westinghouse, coached by O. H. (Pro) Burton, present leader, meets its most dangerous rival, Schenley High, coached by Walter Gross.

Last season, Schenley, winner of the Section I title, defeated the Silver Lakers by a 14-0 score, but a different story may be told this afternoon as Westinghouse has one of the best elevens in its history and is clicking on all cylinders.

Westinghouse in three league games so far this season has two victories and one tie, while Schenley, in two league appearances, shows one victory and one deadlock.

BOTH TEAMS IN SHAPE

Both teams are reported in the best physical condition for the contest and the coaches will be able to start their regular lineups.

The battle is the feature contest on the local scholastic football card and is expected to draw a capacity crowd to the Westinghouse Field.

Vieing with the Schenley-Westinghouse contest in appeal with the fans is the South-Peabody game on the Peabody field. Peabody showed signs of coming out of its slump in the battle with Allderdice last Friday and if the East Enders flash the same form this afternoon South is going to be in for a busy afternoon. South, however, is capable of playing fine football and will give Peabody quite an argument.

Only one game is carded in Section II, Perry playing at Oliver Field. Oliver is setting the pace in this group, but Perry looms as a real obstacle, despite the fact it bowed to South Hills in the opening game of the season. Perry furnished one of the big upsets of the season by defeating Allegheny.

THREE NIGHT DUELS

Three important night duels are slated for the scholastic fans in Western Pennsylvania. They are California and Charleroi at Charleroi, Norwin and Scott High at North Braddock and Duquesne and Homestead at Homestead. All schools involved are keen rivals and followers of the teams are anticipating some grueling struggles.

Allegheny and South Hills battled to a scoreless tie on the Langley Field gridiron yesterday afternoon. South Hills reached the Allegheny 11-yard mark in the first period and Allegheny's attack penetrated to the South Hills five-yard stripe in the second quarter. Allegheny's aerial attack threw a scare into the Blue and White ranks in the last quarter. The lineup:

JIM AND BUCK BOX AGAIN

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Buck McTiernan discovers tonight whether he's been right or wrong all along in his contention that he can beat Jimmy Belmont in their neighborhood squabble which has reached across several years, having had its inception when both were battling as amateurs.

Buck, who hails from Swissvale, could beat Belmont, whose home is in Braddock, before they invaded the professional ranks. However, when they met twice for money, during the summer of last year, at the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, Belmont was the winner by a knockout on each occasion.

McTIERNAN TRIES AGAIN

McTiernan got off in the lead in both of the fights, but forgot to duck out of the way of left hooks that stowed him among the sweet peas. He says he tired in their second fight and had to turn from boxing to slugging in a desperate effort to hold off Belmont, and couldn't match punches with the latter. At around 160 pounds now, he says he is at his best, and is confident he will be able to beat Jimmy this time.

In other words, his motto would appear to be:

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

As for Belmont, he has been sawing wood and saying nothing. He's two up on Buck and can afford to sit back and let happen what will. McTiernan is on the proving spot, where Jimmy was roosted before their first meeting, when almost everyone was agreed in advance that McTiernan would demonstrate himself the better man.

LYLE BOXES WILSON

Ray Lyle, of Akron, and Jack Wilson, of the North Side, hard-hitting middleweights, box the eight-round semi-final, with the memory of Lyle's sensational fight with Anson Green in the same ring two weeks ago still fresh in the minds of the fans.

Red Bush, of Cumberland, meets Ray Jennings, Negro light-heavyweight, of Homestead, in the second bout, and Bill Nichy, of the North Side, and Johnny Riske, of the South Hills, middleweights just out of the amateur ranks, box the opener, at 8:30 o'clock.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

NO. 5—SOLD TO KANSAS CITY

Glenn Wright's brilliance, as mentioned in a previous chapter, was one of the big reasons why Joe Cronin did not get a real opportunity to play shortstop for the Pittsburgh club. This point should be cleared up in consideration of Joe and also of the managers who were concerned in the matter.

Joe Cronin

Wright at the time Cronin was making his bid for fame was the best short fielder Pittsburgh had seen since the one and only Flying Dutchman had turned in his uniform, and it is timely to note here that Honus Wagner could do more things better than any other shortstop in the sport's history.

Wright's punch, his size and his remarkable fielding ability would have kept any contemporary shortstop on the bench, so young Cronin had to look on. Perhaps it may be news for many to hear that Joe played only 12 games for Pittsburgh at short in the regular season. He had performed at second in 1926 and in 1927 was used only on rare occasions. Thus the whole season of 1927 was practically a wasted effort for the energetic boy.

The Pittsburgh club faced a problem with regard to Cronin in the spring of 1928. Joe had been farmed out twice and could not be optioned a third time under the then existing laws of the game.

Wright still was the Pirate shortstop in the 1928 season, so Cronin had little to do in the spring training period. Among those who refused to weaken on Cronin was Joe himself. His fighting side had asserted itself quite dramatically in the middle of the previous season while the Pirates were scrapping for a flag which they eventually won.

WILD WHEN GIVEN CHANCE

Wright was out of action for a spell and the Buccos were mixing with the Reds, their lead being no more than a full game. Cronin was pressed into service and the kid shortstop proceeded to make the spectators back of first base act like African dodgers. Pie Traynor, great third sacker of the Pirates, put on a similar act with the Bucs at the Polo Grounds when he was breaking in.

Well, Cronin was yanked, but, instead of showing discouragement, he set his jaw firmer. He was determined to be a big leaguer and bided his time.

The Buccos were barnstorming in Los Angeles in the spring of 1928 when the club negotiated with Kansas City for the sale of Joe. The price was reported as $7,500. The club intended to give out the story the same evening, but Joe beat them to it. He asked the newspapermen if they had the story, and, when they replied in the negative, he declared:

"I'm leaving for Kansas City in the morning and you can print it. But before I agreed to go I had an understanding that there were no strings on the deal. There's no room for me on this ball club, so it's up to me to make good on another big league team. You don't have to wait for the official news. Go ahead and use it."

BEFRIENDED BY FRASER

Scout Chick Fraser, of the Pirates, who acted like a father to Cronin, gave Joe some good advice. Kansas City wanted an infielder badly. Chick told Cronin to throw his glove up in the infield and play wherever it came down, if necessary. In a few days Joe was hustling at third base for the Blues.

Cronin had not hit a fast string for Kansas City by midseason, but Fraser apparently had seen him once or twice as he scouted for other Buccos. Chick still believed in him. About that time the Washington club of the American League sent out Scout Joe Engle with orders to bring in a shortstop. Joe was changing trains at Omaha for some obscure point when he ran into Fraser. He asked:

"Where are you going, Joe?"

Engle told him.

Fraser replied:

"I have to go to Kansas City."

"You say you want a good shortstop. Come over with me —there's a boy over there I want you to see."

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

BRAVES' PILOT BLOCKS DEAL

While he stands ready to negotiate with the New York Giant officials relative to a deal, Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Boston Braves, stated last night he would not swap Outfielder Walter Berger on an even basis for Outfielder Fred Lindstrom.

McKechnie thinks Lindstrom is a great performer, but he intimates the New York owners would have to do better in the way of an exchange if the suggested swap were to be completed.

BEARCATS PLAY THIEL TODAY

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 28.—Two speedy varsity elevens are primed for their clash here this afternoon as the teams of Thiel and St. Vincent meet in their annual clash. The Bearcats are regarded as slight favorites.

So far, the Bearcat eleven has compiled an enviable record, and boasts in its backfield one of the leading scorers of the East in Johnson. The team, with the exception of Steve Furin, crack right halfback, is in the best of physical trim, and has been resting since the game with Geneva two weeks ago.

Coach Gene Edwards has developed a snappy forward-passing aggregation, and has constructed a fine defensive unit.

Thiel will depend on a heavy and hard-charging line to stop the Bearcat running attack.

Pitt Has Chance to Halt Scoring Orgy of Irish

—Harpster

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach, All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928.

The world's best-known and most colorful football team, the Irish of Notre Dame, arrived in Pittsburgh this morning for its game with Pitt tomorrow in the Stadium. After having shown the Carnegie Tech gridders a few of the inside tricks of the manufacturing of touchdowns last week, the Irish tomorrow will do everything in their power to keep up the present rate of production—almost a point a minute.

According to reports, Notre Dame suddenly has gone touchdown crazy, and, if my informant is not incorrect, the South Benders are on a scoring rampage the like of which we never have seen. Coach Anderson has been quoted in the newspapers as having made the statement that this year his team is playing each game as it comes and is not pointing for any certain one, and that his instructions are to run up the largest possible score against each opponent.

Mr. Harpster

WEALTH OF MATERIAL

Notre Dame started off with a 72-0 victory over the Haskell Indians, followed up with a 62-0 win over Drake, and last week breezed through Carnegie Tech, 42-0. Tomorrow's game with the Panthers will be the hardest test the Irish have had, and the degree of greatness to be stamped on them depends upon the outcome.

After such an auspicious start, any ordinary team might enter its fourth game with a slight touch of over-confidence, but this hardly will be the case tomorrow. When the regulars are pressed to the limit to hold their positions from at least 22 other players, such as they are at Notre Dame, there is little time for said regulars to think of being overconfident. Anyway, who ever heard of any team entering a game with Pitt in such a condition?

Remembering the scare Pitt caused them last year, and realizing that the eyes of the nation are focused upon them in this game, the Notre Dame players will flash their best form. It was because two long passes went through for touchdowns in the game last fall that Notre Dame was able to win from the Panthers, and for at least half of the game Pitt looked like the better team.

PITT IN GOOD SPOT

Psychologically, Pitt is in a very good spot for the game, for no one expects the Panthers to win. Barely nosing out the Army two weeks ago, after coming from behind, and held last week to a scoreless tie by Ohio State when the pre-game dope had the Panthers an easy winner, the Pitt team can forget its fine early-season record and settle down and play the type of ball of which it is capable. If the Pitt players are steamed up, and they certainly should be steamed for this game, I believe they will give Notre Dame a real run for its money.

With Weinstock plunging up through the middle to keep the Irish defense more than a little concentrated on that point, and Heller, Reider and Sebastian passing and running off tackle and outside, the Pitt boys will show the fans some offensive ability of their own. The Notre Dame defense will have to be as good as the three goose eggs handed their first three opponents indicate, or by tomorrow night the Irish goal will be crossed, perhaps more than once.

Walker May Box Risko or Baer

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The Chicago Stadium's proposed 10-round bout between Mickey Walker and King Levinsky may turn out to be a meeting of Walker and either Johnny Risko or Max Baer.

Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, says as his man already has defeated Levinsky, they would rather try it over with Risko, who won the decision over Walker in their last meeting. Baer, whom Walker has not met, also would be acceptable for November 11.

Between Rounds

Tony Marino is training in Willie Davies' camp in the mountains for his battle with Johnny Edwards, at Youngstown, next Tuesday night. Lefty Gwynn, Canadian bantamweight, of Toronto, also is conditioning himself there.

Paul Delaney, of New York, has been signed to box Frankie Goosby, local Negro puncher, in a 10-round co-feature bout at the Arena next Friday night, under the Tony Falco-Johnny Datto pairing. The Joe Marcus-Phil Zwick bout, originally planned as the first 10-rounder, is out. Delaney has boxed Chick Devlin, Willard and Madison Dix, Herman Retzlaff, Young Harry Wills and Young Sam Langford, among others, and went to New York from California.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Officials: Referee—W. H. Friesell, Princeton. Umpire—C. G. Eckles, W. & J. Linesman—H. J. O'Brien, Tufts. Field judge—J. T. Degnan, George Washington.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell, Carnegie Tech's football bosses, this afternoon decided to start Hooks Sample, their injured guard and co-captain, against Temple tonight. Sample was hurt in the Western Reserve game, was in for two plays against W. & J. and sat on the bench all through the Notre Dame battle. He still walks with a pronounced limp, but sensing the importance of tonight's game, which Temple is frantic to win, the Tartan coaches have listened to Sample's pleas.

Heinzer probably will go to the sidelines, with Burzio holding down right guard. Sample will hardly last the entire game, and Heinzer will be his reserve.

Temple also announced a change in her original starting lineup, with Testa, a sophomore, going to quarterback in place of Capt. Leon Whittock, who has been hurt.

South High Girls Win Swim Title

In the eleventh grade competition, the South girls won, with 19 points, with Peabody second with 10½ and Schenley third, with nine.

The South lassies scored 32 points in the twelfth grade events, Peabody finishing second, with 18½ and Westinghouse third, with 11.

Fight Results

At Philadelphia—Vincent Forgione and Popper Stopper drew, 8 rounds; Jack Moran won by a technical knockout over Mike Sullivan, 3 rounds; Al Evans defeated Mike Loughran, 6 rounds; Benny Schwartz defeated Joey Williams, 6 rounds; Wally Sears won by a technical knockout over Joe Brody, 3 rounds.

CRACK SANDLOT FRAYS ON TAP FOR SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS

The heavy rains of the past week have made possible an interesting sandlot football card for Sunday, with the East Liberty Papales and West View elevens meeting on the Washington boulevard gridiron in a West Penn Conference battle, the feature engagement in the city for the day.

With Hymie Goldberg on the sick list, Charley Papale, the East End owner, went to Washington to sign Ernie Kaiser, former Wash-Jeff star, to bolster his backfield.

Tony Sweet, former Carnegie Tech star, has taken over the coaching duties of the club, and some of the intricate plays of the Tartan system are now part of the East Liberty offensive.

WEST VIEW SET

Manager Bill Schulthies, of West View, will try and improve on that scoreless tie the clubs played on the occasion of their last meeting. Sprock, Sabola and Chappie Johnson, all former McChesneytown stars, will be in the West View lineup. Johnson is one of the greatest ball carriers in the district.

With the championship of the Tube City at stake, the Olympic and Christy Park gridders are all pepped up for the battle at Olympia Park. Tube City fans are agog over the game. Christy Park feels that it has a chance to beat the Olympics.

At Bellaire, Ohio Valley fans will get their first opportunity to see one of the greatest sandlot clubs ever banded together in the tri-state district when the Rooneys, twice West Penn Conference champions, step on the field to meet the Bellaire Eagles.

RANGERS VICTORS

In a game played in a driving rain last night, the Rox Rangers defeated the Tarentum Firemen under the lights at Tarentum, 6-0, in a Lightweight Conference tilt. The teams battled to a scoreless tie earlier in the season.

The Rangers won when Petrosky plunged over for a touchdown in the third quarter. The lineup:

Rangers—6.		Firemen—0.
Zytroll	L. E.	Falcon

PITT, TARTAN RUNNERS BUSY

Tomorrow the Pitt cross-country team will be out for revenge when it clashes with Penn State over the Schenley Park course. Last year the boys from State handed the local lads a lacing, but the conditions this year are somewhat changed and Pitt will be the favorites.

Track Coach Olson has brought a complete change in the cross-country division at Pitt, winning two meets out of three so far this season. Victories have been won over Westminster and West Virginia with Army the only team to beat the Panthers.

Carnegie Tech's team will be in competition tomorrow, opposing the Geneva College harriers over the Schenley Park course.

the boys will be trying for something better than that. They'll be giving the capacity crowd a good old "college try," and, somehow, it is from the old "college try" that upset victories and amazing ties sprout.

No, this is not a prediction of such an eventuality, but merely an expression of confidence in the wounded Panther to put up a battle that will be worthy of its past glory—HARRY KECK.

Process Servers Seek Red Grange

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Process servers today looked for Harold (Red) Grange, to hand him notice of garnishment of his salary as a member of the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football League.

The garnishment grew out of a judgment for $20,278 obtained by the defunct Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Champaign, Ill., from which Grange and his former manager, C. C. Pyle, made loans.

TRIALS END TODAY

SAXONBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—The Central Beagle Club field trials, which opened here Monday, will be concluded today with a varied program of events. Large crowds has been attending the trials and bench show.

CADDIES ENTERTAINED

Caddies of the Churchill Valley Country Club were entertained at the annual banquet held for them by the officials and members of the club last night. The boys were lauded for their splendid work during the past season.

GRINS From the GRID

—By O. W. (Red) Severence—

Southern Football Official.
Written for Associated Press.

NO. 16.

To put it mildly, Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, was disgusted.

Instead of a "breather" he had counted upon to break the strain of a terrific schedule, the University of California at Los Angeles had played the Northwestern second team off its feet in the first quarter and forced him to rush his varsity into the game.

After breaking up a U. C. L. A. drive on the seven-yard line the varsity had swept down the field for a touchdown and immediately had started playing half-hearted, "saving ourselves" football.

Apparently convinced a 7-0 lead never could be overtaken, the team was growing more careless with every play. Ball-carriers were being stopped by their own interference.

And, like a sore thumb, Pug Rentner, brilliant Northwestern backfield ace, was standing out as the chief offender. Starting out on end runs like a truck horse, he was being tackled behind the line repeatedly.

Finally, Coach Hanley's patience reached the limit of endurance. Jumping to his feet as Rentner made another blunder, he pointed an angry finger at Luke Fossier, backfield substitute, sitting on the bench, crying:

"Get in there and take that fathead's place."

Headgear in hand, Fossier took a step toward the gridiron, then turned back, asking:

"Say, coach, which fathead?"

COACH SHIFTS ELI LINEUP

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Mal Stevens made several important changes in the Yale lineup yesterday in naming the team to start against Dartmouth.

Two 170-pounders, Deangelis and Converse, were named as starting guards Kimball, at right end, and Sullivan, at quarterback. Because of slight injuries, Dud Parker, former quarterback, will not start at right end.

Eastern Briefs

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Roal Morton brought his broken nose to practice and Al Baldwin returned to left tackle as Dartmouth held its final long practice yesterday before the Yale game. The workout was a light one.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Harvard learned that Jack Crickard, star back, will be able to play against Brown, but Roger Hallowell, regular center, will not. Rain drove the Crimson indoors for a dummy scrimmage on defense yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Capt. Stan Sokolis, Penn's star tackle, who has been out since before the Dartmouth game, returned to practice yesterday and probably will play against Navy.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—After a light workout, the Cornell squad of 33 players left yesterday for New York to meet Columbia. Only two men were not in perfect condition, Harry Shaub, guard, with an injured leg muscle, and Ray Hedden, back, who had a lame shoulder.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—In good spirits, 35 Princeton football players left last night for Ann Arbor, Mich., for tomorrow's game with Michigan. A light signal drill was held before the start. All the Tiger regulars except Mil Draudt, who is still in the infirmary with a contusion of the neck, made the trip.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Jack McDonald, reliable relief back for two seasons, worked out with the New York University varsity yesterday and appeared slated for a starting post against Purdue. The Violets went through a defensive session with coaches making special efforts to speed up the charging of the line.

International Ice Race Opens Nov. 11

The International Hockey League will open its 1932-33 campaign on Friday, November 11, the league schedule, announced today, reveals. Cleveland will appear at Windsor, and Detroit will be the guest of London in opening games on that date.

Buffalo and Syracuse, the other two teams in the loop, will lift the lid at Syracuse on November 13.

With Pittsburgh, a member of the league for the last two years, out of the fold, the circuit will operate with six clubs.

The season will close on March 15.

MARTINS HAVE NEW GIRL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 28.—An eight-pound baby girl was born here yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. John L. (Pepper) Martin. It is their second child. Martin plays for the St. Louis Cardinals.

GAME ARRANGED

South Hills High has been booked for a football game with Beaver Falls at Beaver Falls a week from tomorrow, it was announced by Jim Mates, faculty manager at South Hills.

'Gator Captains Pursued By Tough Jinx

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—It's a possibility that Allegheny College will do away with football captaincies in future years. It seems they elect one, only to lose him for the season somehow. It was announced yesterday that Knighton Waite, Monessen, 190-pound tackle, had been lost for the remainder of the season due to injuries sustained at Springfield, Mass., two weeks ago, and complications that have set in since the return of the team to Meadville.

HOOVER ON AIR ✦ 'March of Time;' Walsh Football Show ✦ PROGRAMS TONIGHT

President and Gov. Ritchie Give Rival Radio Talks From Indianapolis

President Hoover's address at Indianapolis tonight, regarded as being one of the most important of his current campaign for re-election, is scheduled to go on the air over a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Company for an hour beginning at 8:30 p. m. The broadcast is carried locally by WCAE. On Monday night at the same hour, the President, speaking at Madison Square Garden in New York, will be heard over a huge combined network including every station in the United States associated with NBC.

Following Mr. Hoover's speech, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, speaking at a mammoth torchlight celebration staged by the Democrats of Indianapolis, is heard over an extensive NBC-WJZ network, of which KDKA is the Pittsburgh outlet. Gov. Ritchie's address is scheduled from 10:15 to 10:45 p. m.

In the political vein is the "March of Time" presentation on WJAS tonight at 8:30 to 9. Ted di Corsia, portraying the role of President Hoover and William Adams, as Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt engage in a debate over controversial campaign issues, repeating statements made by the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates during their recent auditorium and observation car speeches.

Tonight, on WWSW at 8:30, a play-by-play account of the Tech-Temple University game at Philadelphia by Ed Sprague and Joe Sartory is listed.

Program Pointers

Greta Keller, deep-toned Viennese songbird and one of radio's latest finds, makes the first of a series of appearances as featured soloist with Leo Reisman and his weekly presentation over NBC-WCAE tonight at 9:30. Co-starred on tonight's program with Miss Keller is Lee Wiley, popular young American blues singer frequently heard with Reisman. The Viennese star was brought to this country for the "Fourth Little Show," which never reached Broadway. Originally a dramatic actress, she was appearing in the Berlin production, "Broadway," with Marlene Dietrich, when she started singing for her own amusement, patterning her style after that of some American Negroes who played a jazz band in the show.

Miss Keller

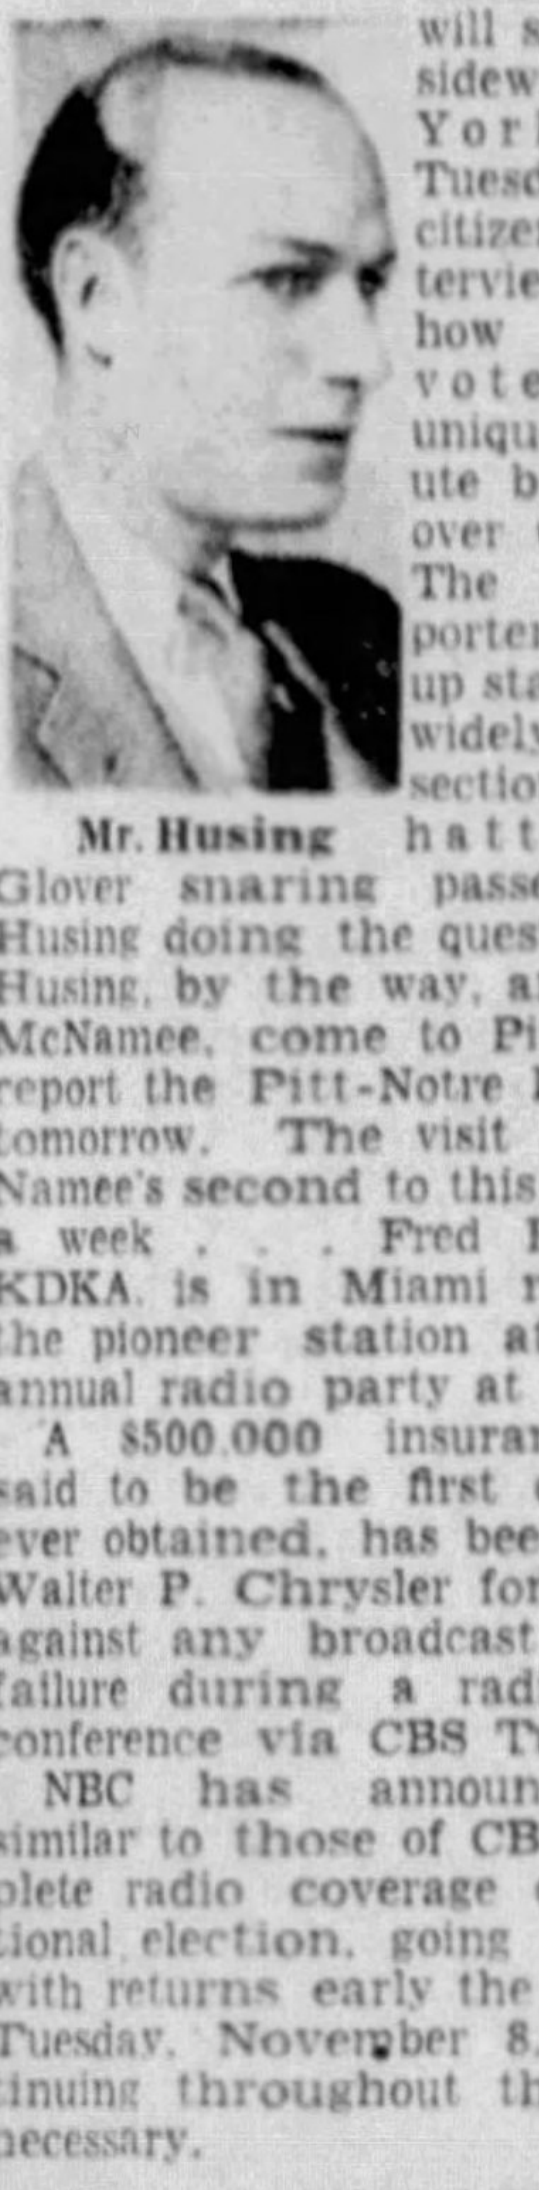
Listening In

'Reporter' Husing.
Rodgers in Miami.
Election Returns.

Utilizing the new lapel microphones—tiny instruments worn on the coat—Ted Husing and Herbert Glover will stroll on the sidewalks of New York all day Tuesday, halting citizens for interviews as to how they will vote in four unique five-minute broadcasts over CBS-WJAS. The roving reporters will take up stands in four widely separated sections of Manhattan, with Glover snaring passers-by and Husing doing the questioning . . . Husing, by the way, and Graham McNamee, come to Pittsburgh to report the Pitt-Notre Dame game tomorrow. The visit marks McNamee's second to this city within a week . . . Fred Rodgers, of KDKA, is in Miami representing the pioneer station at the third annual radio party at WIOD.



Mr. Husing

A $500,000 insurance policy, said to be the first of its kind ever obtained, has been issued to Walter P. Chrysler for protection against any broadcast equipment failure during a radio business conference via CBS Tuesday . . .

NBC has announced plans similar to those of CBS for complete radio coverage of the national election, going on the air with returns early the evening of Tuesday, November 8, and continuing throughout the night if necessary.

Globe-Trotter Describes Pitt-Notre Dame Game With McNamee

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, omits his 2:30 broadcast of news tomorrow to alternate at the microphone with Graham McNamee at the Pitt Stadium during a broadcast over an NBC-WEAF network of the Pitt-Notre Dame contest, heard locally through WCAE, from 1:45 to 4:30 p. m.

Mr. Kaufman's news talks today are heard on their regular schedule—9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, gives an authentic review of happenings in the world of sport during his weekly talk from the studios of WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock.

SAFETY IN THE SKIES

YOUR plane is on the line, eager for the take-off . . . the motors ahead beat an impatient tattoo. Suddenly the grass below flattens to the ground from the propeller-blast. Slowly at first — then as though pushed by a giant spring, you gather blurring speed across the field. Gently the earth drops away; trees turn to bushes. . . .

You're aloft! And relaxed in a comfortable chair, you gaze from the window of your plane. You feel no fear—why should you? As you fly, your pilot receives weather reports every 15 minutes by radio — receives them through 4-pillar tubes.

Great air-lines take no chances. Motor vibration, and the jolts of landing, could easily damage fragile radio tubes. That's why they depend on Eveready Raytheons — rugged 4-pillar tubes which have the strength to protect their vital accuracy! 4-pillar radio tubes are used exclusively by:

Eastern Air Transport, Inc.
Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc.
(The Lindbergh Line)
Western Air Express
and by other famous lines.

In your own radio, you can enjoy the same dependability of reception that helps keep these great ships on schedule in safety. Your dealer will demonstrate 4-pillar tubes to you. Once you hear them, you will want nothing less!

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC.
General Offices: New York, N. Y.
Branches: Chicago New York San Francisco
Unit of Union Carbide UCC and Carbon Corporation

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation, the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only two supports for their elements, and jolts and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

THREE WOMEN -:- A Story of the Conflicting Natures Of Different Generations -:- By FAITH BALDWIN

Mother Decides That Lennox Must Marry Young and Plans Type of Wife

CHAPTER VIII.

"Where have you been?" demanded Mrs. Sheldon.

Her son told her.

"How did you get into the house without ringing?"

Silently, Lennox exhibited the key.

"Where did you procure that?"

"I had it made—"

"You have been—drinking?"

"A little," he admitted. "I am not drunk," he added.

"Who were your companions?"

He told her the names of the boys, of his host.

"There were young women present?"

"Yes."

"And what kind of young women?"

"They were all right," he muttered, childish and sullen.

"Young—ladies of your acquaintance? Chaperoned?"

"No—not exactly—you don't understand."

She pursued, evenly, ignoring him, "Who, then?"

MOTHER DISPLEASED

After a time she had it all from him: models, actresses, girls, as she afterwards put it, of no advertised profession. Then she leaned back in her chair.

"I am very displeased with you," she said in her carefully restrained manner. "Very hurt. Very disappointed."

He argued. "Where's the harm? I'm not a child. I'm a man. I can go out and have a jolly evening, can't I, without being submitted to a cross-examination?"

She stiffened.

"You are not a man. You are 19. A boy. And I am not cross-examining you, as you impertinently term it. I am asking you questions every mother has a right, a duty, to ask her son. I am compelled to be both mother and father to you, Lennox, and I cannot shut my eyes and allow you to take the wrong turning, unwarned, unadmonished."

"'The wrong turning?'" he repeated, dully. He was bewildered, tired. The glow of the wine had died out of him. He felt cold, he knew a return of the old, intolerable depression, which was not physical, yet made him ache.

"'Whose feet take hold on hell'—" she said gravely. She leaned forward, spare in her severe wrapper, the high-necked night gown encircling her unwithered throat, her dark eyes tragic, her hair in a childish, almost pitiful braid over one lean shoulder.

ANOTHER HEART ATTACK

"Drinking — women — these ruined your father morally," said Louisa. "For every tear he cost me, he suffers now. I will not see you walk the same way to destruction. You are my son. Give me your promise that you will never again seek company of this kind."

Lennox answered, sick with shame that she could so speak to him of his father. "But I haven't done anything wrong. I don't see why I should promise." Boyhood's deepest terror spoke in his tones as he added, very low, "Every one will laugh at me."

"Is the ridicule of your fellow fools more terrifying to you than the wrath of your God? she asked him, and instantly he saw her hand flash to her heart, saw how her head fell back, the heavy braid swinging. She gasped faintly, "On the bureau —the drops."

He ran across the room, caught up the vial, measured the dose into the glass which always stood ready, and, returning, held it to her mouth. His hand shook; he almost spilled the medicine. She was livid, blue-lipped.

On his knees beside her, imploring her to open her eyes, to speak to him, to be better, he gave his promise.

FINDS GIRL'S CARD

Much later she lay alone, the terrible pain gone from her. She was weak from it, but she was strong with triumph. She knew what Lennox did not know —that she would never die in these attacks. She had had plain speaking from Dr. Peters, from the specialists. They would not deny the reality of her pain; it existed; it was. Yet it would never kill her. All nerves, nothing organic. She did not know, they had not told her, even if they suspected it, that it was her form of escape.

On the following day, Mrs. Sheldon went to her son's room to look over his clothes, to send things out to the tailor's. She always did this herself, not even Nanna was allowed the duty. She picked up his evening clothes. Powder, very distinct, was on the jacket lapel, the shoulder. She rubbed at it absently. It must have had some sort of cold cream base, for it smeared and clung. And there was about it the ghost of a heavy fragrance. Methodically, she went through his pockets. With his handkerchiefs and some stray coins she found a wisp of cheap lace and embroidery, and a card.

Louisa held it between thumb and forefinger and read it. A card is quite a public thing.

She sat down, on a straight chair, the coat across her lap, Lily's card in her hand.

Lennox was 19. He had called himself a man. He was not a man, his mother told herself, as firmly as she had told him. But he was—sufficiently a man.

Lennox, she thought, must marry young.

A physical pain took her, twisted her heart. She sat quite still, dreading an attack. After a time it passed, she opened her eyes and, sitting there, went on with her thoughts.

He must marry. To be saved.

She thought of him, young, slender, tall, in her eyes more beautiful than any youthful god who ever trod Olympus. A wave of pride dizzied her. He would marry and have sons—sons in whom she could live as she was living in him. He would perpetuate the name, he would assure to her an earthly immortality.

She rose, her mind made up, the entire scheme unrolling as smoothly before her as a bolt of ribbon. She moved about the room, folding garments, laying them aside, correcting the boyish confusion of the bedroom.

The girl must be very young. Very malleable. Of Louisa's choice. She must be healthy, she must have beauty, she must not have money. Good blood must be vital in her veins and she must not be clever. Men disliked clever women, evaded Louisa.

Above all, she must be brought into constant, clever contact with the boy, over a long period of time—a year, two years.

Synopsis

Mrs. Louisa Lennox Sheldon is idolatrous in the love of her son, Lennox, a student at Columbia. His father, who died when the boy was but 9, had been gay spirited, so much so that his puritanical wife became cold to him. She sought to cast the son in an altogether different mold, making a Fauntleroy out of him during his childhood years and keeping him as much as possible from associating with other children. Lennox goes out to a studio party with some fellow-students, meets a gay young showgirl of the prevalent Gibson type, dances with her, has a few drinks, kisses her, tiptoes into his house in the wee sma' hours, but his vigilant mother is waiting for him. She orders him sternly to come into her room.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Pledged to Keep Plot Secret

"Go on!" said Hugh, as I looked up in astonishment from the paper Lee Chow had sent me, recording a conversation between Sam Brixton and Charles Owen which the Chinese had overheard the night before. I took up the paper again and read the rest of the colloquy which Lee Chow had written in the manner of lines for a play. It ran:

"Mr. Brixton—You mean the girl's suspicious?

"Mr. Owen—No, what's worse —indifferent. I thought I had her like that (snapping his fingers) but she's a thousand miles off now. I wouldn't dare broach anything to her. She'd probably spill it to her mother or that (unprintable word again, L. C.) Graham dame, or even to Ronald. I see he and Marion are hugging each other to music again.

"Mr. Brixton—Yes, but I think it will take her quite a while to bring Ronald back to heel. He took quite a beating you know, over you, and the boy's proud. If there'd been any other way, I wouldn't have let you butt in like that, even in pretense. It was pretense, wholly, you swore to me (Doubtful tone here, L. C.)

"Mr. Owen—Of course, you fool. What would I want with a baby like that? I've been many things, but not a cradle robber! (Tone fervently indignant, but did not ring true. L. C.)

CONVERSATION STOPPED

"Mr. Brixton—Keep your shirt on! I'm not accusing you of anything. But we're no nearer getting our hands on the stuff than if you'd never tried this stunt; and I need action. I've been able to keep my head above water so far by paddling violently like a dog, but I can't keep that up indefinitely. What's to be done now?"

"Mr Owen (slowly)—will you leave the whole thing in my hands

Mr. Brixton—You mean what we planned at first? No; there's too much chance of a slip-up somewhere. I won't stand for that.

"Mr. Owen—You ass, do you think I'm such a bungler that I'd take the slightest risk? Look here! But we'll write the rest of this. This room looks safe enough, but—'walls have ears.'"

The conversation ended here, and across the bottom of the page Lee Chow had added: "I tried to find some trace of what they had written, but they were too clever and too careful."

"What do you think about it?" I stammered.

"That those two gentlemen need a bit of watching," he answered.

He hesitated oddly then hurried on.

"And now," he said slowly, "I come to the embarrassing part of my errand. Lee Chow asks you not to show anyone that paper or to tell anyone that he has sent it to you. He does not wish any stranger—anyone save you and me—to know that he eavesdropped."

TO WATCH MEN

I felt that my cheeks were flaming furiously. I had suddenly remembered that comments concerning me made by the wounded Chinese who had been Lee Chow's henchman: "Plitty lady b'long Lee Chow boss-man."

Whatever Lee Chow's reaction to that comment, I was sure that Hugh had no knowledge of it, and, of course, there was but one answer for me to make. I folded the paper and handed it back to him.

"Tell Lee Chow for me that I, of course, shall not betray his confidence; but this makes it impossible for me to initiate any plan for watching the men, if I cannot reveal this information to my husband and to the Underwoods."

"I know," he said comprehendingly, "and that is part of what I have to tell you. As you know, Lee Chow and I have some little experience in espionage. Lee Chow will not be ready to engage in anything actively for another week or two, but I am in fine fettle. Will you trust this matter of watching these two men to me? I assure you they will not dream that there is any watch being put upon them."

"Of course," I said gratefully, and he rose.

"Then I shall not see you again for a week at least," he said. "In the meantime, may I trouble you to keep an eye on The Larches? I shall feel better about Lee Chow if I know that he is under your care."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Witches, hobgoblins, pirates, jockeys, clowns and all the other costumes that go to make a successful Halloween will be the order of the day tomorrow at the 16 theaters where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club members meet for their regular weekly meetings.

Nearly all the theaters will have special prizes for the best costumed boy and girl in addition to other prizes for the games that they will play.

At the Arsenal the meeting tomorrow will be in charge of new officers who were elected last week to serve for the next four weeks: Betty Richards was elected grand jester and the board of governors will consist of Helen Sherry, Thomas Hart, Gresham McGuire, Stanley Kane and Ernie Jenkins.

The Schenley in addition to the Halloween party will have the Stanley Orchestra and a stage show from Jack Barry's Dancing School.

The "Tabs," a group of girls who are all members of the Manor Chapter will have a Halloween party tonight and the following attending: Larry Becker, Isabell Frank, Evelyn Parker, Leonard Fischler, Jean Tennebaum, Lester Berlin, Marcella Rice, Thelma Nathan, Rose Lickstein, Melvin Markman and Ethel Bolnell.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Feel Your Headache Ease In Few Minutes!

"WHAT SHALL I DO? A DINNER ENGAGEMENT WITH MY EMPLOYER; AND THIS TERRIBLE HEADACHE."
"GET BAYER ASPIRIN. IT WILL RELIEVE YOUR HEADACHE ALMOST INSTANTLY DUE TO ITS PECULIAR QUICK DISSOLVING PROPERTY."

Quick Dissolving Property of BAYER ASPIRIN Starts Relief 3 or 4 Minutes After Taking

Due to important, scientific developments in the world-famous Bayer laboratories, almost INSTANT relief from headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains is being afforded millions.

Because of a unique process in making and tableting, Genuine Bayer Aspirin is made to dissolve almost INSTANTLY in the stomach. Hence it starts to work almost instantly. And thus "takes hold" of the average pain or headache in as little as three or four minutes after taking. The fastest, safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Remember, it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which provides this unique, quick-acting property. So be sure you get the Real Article—GENUINE BAYER Aspirin when you buy. Naturally you want the fastest, possible relief—and that's the way to get it.

To identify the genuine, see that any box or bottle of aspirin you buy is clearly marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." And that any tablet you take is stamped clearly with the name "Bayer" in the form of a cross. Remember—Genuine Bayer Aspirin cannot harm the heart.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

But, nevertheless, we see by the papers—

Power Trust Propaganda

The Efforts to Influence School Children Are Well Worth The Senate Committee's Attention.

It is reported that the Senate Utilities Investigating Committee intends to inquire into the efforts made by the Power Trust to influence public opinion in Pennsylvania by surreptitious methods of propaganda.

This offers a rich field for investigation, and one well worth the committee's attention; for there cannot be complete understanding of the utility situation without some knowledge of the tricks to which the Power Trust has resorted in its attempt to persuade the people that it is a benevolent organization. Through unscrupulous propaganda the utilities companies have sought to lull suspicion and ward off questioning of the fairness of rates.

The committee has subpenaed two witnesses who can throw considerable light on one form of the propaganda—the effort to influence the teaching in the public schools.

One of them, J. H. Shearer, of Altoona, president of the Pennsylvania Central Light and Power Company, was asked, in a letter unearthed by the Federal Trade Commission several years ago, to join a concerted movement of Pennsylvania public utility executives to color the instruction given children. The letter was written by J. S. S. Richardson, then director of the Pennsylvania Committee on Public Service Information, who was upset by the discovery that a popular textbook, ''Community Civics,'' the work of R. O. Hughes, a Peabody High School teacher, contained statements that Richardson thought ''cannot but prejudice the mind of the student against corporations, natural monopolies and utilities in general.''

The other witness who can throw light on the propaganda is A. W. Robertson, who as president of the Philadelphia Company, wrote to Richardson:

"The thought occurs to me that the reason why so many educators are more or less hostile to big business in many cases is due to the fact that they themselves are not successful in a business way. There ought to be some way in which educators could be better paid. It would help to cure at least some of their mental bias."

It would be interesting to know how much the utilities paid to carry on their propaganda. No doubt it was one of the items of expense for which the people of Pennsylvania had to pay in high rates.

Resignation of Dr. Day

A Courageous Fighter for Righteousness Is to Leave Pittsburgh.

Several years ago Judge Ben Lindsey came to Pittsburgh to deliver an address in advocacy of a kind of ''free love'' which he called ''companionate marriage.'' To add interest, it was proposed to make a debate of the subject, and several well-known persons were asked to take the rostrum with Judge Lindsey and answer him. They refused. Then the sponsors of the plan approached Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church. He did not like the task, yet felt that Judge Lindsey's doctrine should be challenged, and since no one else was willing to assume the job that it was his duty to assume it. And he did.

The incident gives a pretty good slant on the character of Dr. Day—a man who does disagreeable jobs in the public service because he thinks they ought to be done and no one else is willing to do them.

Dr. Day has fought hard for righteousness and social justice in Pittsburgh.

It is announced that he is going to Baltimore to accept a pastorate there.

Multitudes of Pittsburghers who never were inside Christ Church will regret that he is leaving.

We Need a Town Hall

Indianapolis, With Far Less Population, Has Superior Facilities for Handling Big Crowds.

Indianapolis is to have two big political meetings tonight, one to be addressed by President Hoover, the other by Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland. The Associated Press says:

"The President will speak in the field house of Butler University, five miles from the center of town, with an estimated capacity of 22,000. At about the same time Ritchie will deliver an address in support of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Cadle Tabernacle, in downtown Indianapolis, estimated to hold about 15,000 people."

Indianapolis has 364,161 inhabitants; Pittsburgh, 669,817. The population of the Indianapolis Metropolitan District is 417,685; that of the Pittsburgh Metropolitan District is 1,953,668.

Pittsburgh needs a Town Hall seating at least 15,000.

Returns Will Be Slow

We Are Again Going to Have to Pay a Penalty for Not Using Voting Machines.

The Sun-Telegraph's presidential poll indicates the race between President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt will be close in Pennsylvania.

It seems, then, that we probably shall not know the outcome on election night. If the experience of other close elections in recent years is a criterion, we may not know which of the candidates has carried the state for two or three days.

That is one of the penalties we will have to pay for not using voting machines. All of Allegheny County's 1,100 machines will be idle, and paper ballots will be used in most of the Philadelphia districts.

With voting machines in general use we might know the result, no matter how close the election, within a few hours after the closing of the polls.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15 000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
10—Fair public utility rates.

'It's Just Around the Corner' -:- -:-

It was this very Elephant,
The well-known G. O. P.,
Who said: "Around the corner, folks,
There is Prosperity."

Well he is near the corner now,

By that sign on the wall.

Marry-Go-Round

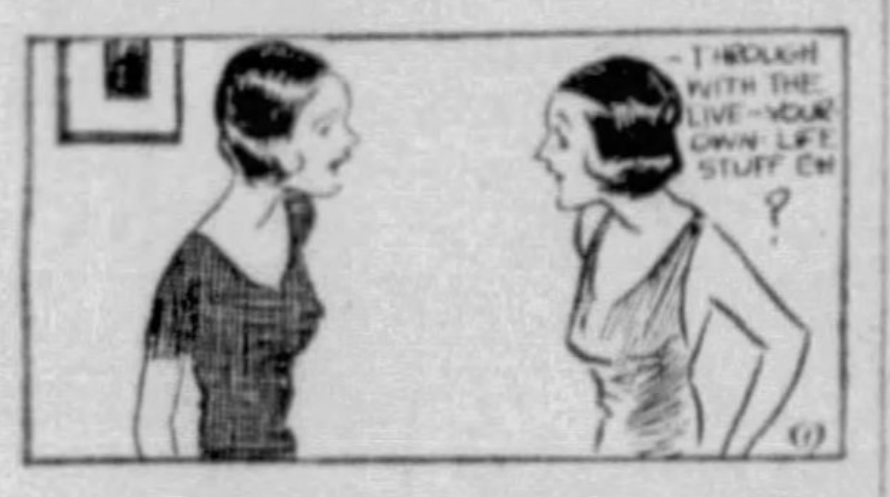
By HELEN ROWLAND

Own Your Own Husband

Now that real estate is deflated in price, the market value of husbands appears to be going up. I mean, now that you can afford to own your own home, it just naturally follows that you want to own your own husband.

* * *

The post-war hysteria has subsided, woman is regaining her equilibrium, the glory of the flapper has passed, and with it borrowed husbands have gone out of vogue. You hear almost nothing of that live-your-own-life stuff, which served as the clinching argument for helping yourself to any other woman's husband, in the mad jazz decade.



THROUGH WITH THE LIVE-YOUR-OWN-LIFE STUFF EH ?

There always comes a time when every normal woman wants to own a home—and a husband; and she doesn't quibble about the price she has to pay for him, even when it means sacrificing her career and her liberty. Or running a job with one hand and a house with the other.

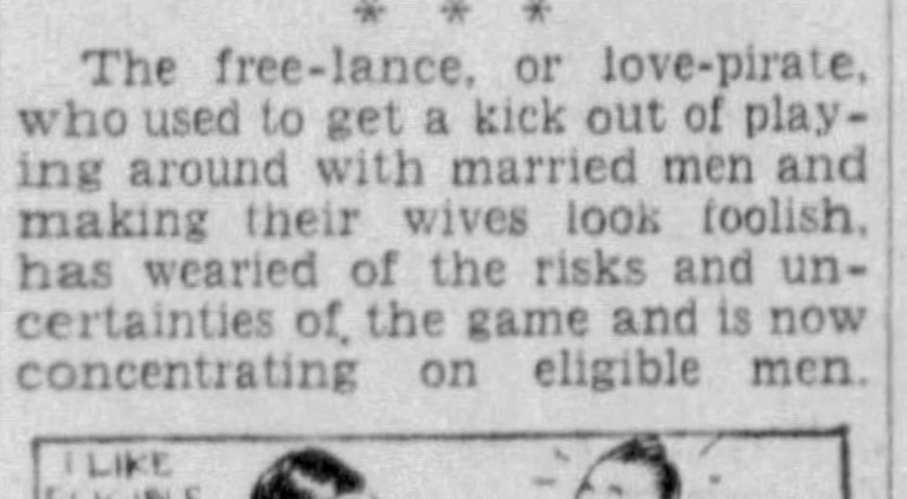
A borrowed husband, like a rented house, gives you a feeling of impermanence. He is yours today—and some other woman's tomorrow. You can't take any vital interest in putting improvements on him or remodelling him nearer to your heart's desire. You haven't the pride and thrill of "ownership."

* * *

Even a commuting husband, all your very OWN, whom you can be sure of greeting on the five-fifteen and holding over until 7 a. m., and who is always on hand to escort you to the dances at the country club or carve the turkey on Thanksgiving, is more heart-satisfying than the casual "date," who can telephone you at the last minute that he can't make it.

* * *

The free-lance, or love-pirate, who used to get a kick out of playing around with married men and making their wives look foolish, has wearied of the risks and uncertainties of the game and is now concentrating on eligible men.



I LIKE ELIGIBLE MEN NOW

In every woman's heart there is a primitive desire to be ATTACHED to something or somebody; and the loose bonds of a borrowed affection that can be broken like a lease, soon lose their charm and novelty.

* * *

If the deed to a house is a sacred document, then why should a marriage certificate be regarded as "just a scrap of paper"?

Own your OWN Husband! Why borrow another woman's?

AT SEA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, Oct. 28.—A ship's gala, held next to last night at sea, marks the end of the voyage. From then on you pack. All the gala passengers luxuriate silk-shod in Paris finery. All but the ultra sedate let themselves go—blooey, blooey! And breakfast sometimes becomes a hiccupy blur.

Entertainment is frequently of high order—featuring artists on way to fill engagements in America or abroad. They are inspired by that generous applause that comes to those who give of their art gratis. Even the mediocre performer is assured a great big huzzah.

At our gala was an extraordinary illusionist whose full evening dress was the most perfect fit since Billy Gaxton's last first night. A swaggering lady, with a Leonore Ulric husk in her voice, did some amazing juggling interpolated by low comedy falls. A seedy tenor sang the Pagliacci thing.

Emil Boreo, who originated "The March of the Wooden Soldier" in Chauve Souris, was on the bill. Here is a fellow incongruously lost in his own versatility. I know of no entertainer with such finished talents. Yet one rarely sees him save in cafes or at such ship affairs.

Too, there was the inevitable toe-dancer, chaperoned by a typical stage mamma. It is her night of nights, for she can run through her entire repertoire and be certain of a reception that may never come again. There's something wistfully pathetic about lesser toe-dancers of the world.

The ship has the customary harshly platinumed blonde who has picked up an Argentine admirer to squire her back to Broadway. His is the fervor of the romantic Latin and she has the responding cling of light ladies whose lives are devoted exclusively to capturing lovers. But an Argentine, I hear, with all his warm ardours, cools quickly and the bright flower may become a trampled crocus. Argentine romances frequently climax in moused eyes.

Our steward came excitedly this morning as we neared Newfoundland's banks. He pointed starboard, and we saw in ghostly radiance a jagged mountain of powdery white, sombre, foreboding. As we came closer, perhaps within three miles, it proved a liner's greatest terror—a floating iceberg. Out of thin mist it boggled a moment in a burst of sunshine, a glistening giant of the deep. And there was a subtle heart-pluck and the suspcion of a choke when, through glasses, we saw a valiant outrider of the ice patrol with the Stars and Stripes in gallant flutter.

Late yesterday, although I missed it, a school of whales disported, as is their custom, in a sun westerning high on the horizon. I've always wanted to sight a leader, rough old whaler that I am, and shriek: "Thar' she blows and sperm at that!"

Few sports are so entrancing as the bright blur of a liner's dining room with a meal in full swing. There is the savour of richly spiced food, the tingle of full-bodied wine and that burst of elegance that follows extravagant shopping abroad. The glummest men suddenly become silken-voiced courtiers and glacial ladies warm and vivifying in a bristling air of elation.

One may order at will from the ambrosial fare. Caviar frais de Riga, consomme froid et creme de petit pois, supreme de sole, perdreaux en cocotte, asperges, medaillon de fois gras, coeur de laitue and biscuit glace et corbeille! But it's not quite fair. They should slip in a pork chop or a corn pone here and there as a sop to the skillet folk and the country jake trade.

On the prow tonight, a shipboard acquaintance, a husband who left his wife home, stood mooning as we plunged toward port. He seemed trembly. "You need an overcoat," I suggested. He replied: "I'm not chilly." And after a silence added: "I suppose I am merely shaking off regrets." Paree! Paree!

So long out of touch with the business side of life, my dominant anxiety was naturally for news of improvement. So in a wireless telephone talk with Jimmy Lanehart, dean of the ship scribes, nearing Quarantine, I inquired. He was non-commital, but upon my insistence, and as a modicum of cheer, announced: "I hear things took a jump at the Flea Circus last week!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

These people who raise 57 varieties of Cain—

And then crawl out of it by saying they "meant well"—

They get my goat!

I can stand a fool, being plenty of one myself.

I can forgive a crook, having made a few messes on my own.

I can even endure hypocrites, liars, snobs, parasites and bullies. These pests usually are so self-evident that one can protect oneself against their malice and blundering.

But there's absolutely no protection against the menace of a human being who seems to be sensible and civilized, yet who may, at any moment, run amuck to gratify some idiotic impulse.

Occasional lapses like this may be excused; but there are people who make a regular career of it.

Wherever there's a difficult or delicate situation, one may find them hovering round; and if there isn't a difficult or delicate situation, they create one.

They tell you all the mean things people have been saying about you, "for your own good."

They arrange to have you meet people whom you've avoided for years, saying, "I just know you'll be crazy about each other, dear!"

They spill the beans, and spoil your perfect alibis, just when you think you've got everything fixed up pretty.

In short, they're always throwing a monkey wrench into the machinery, and then excusing themselves, or being excused, because they "meant well."

But I wonder if that should be accepted as an excuse?

Stop and analyze that impulsive little act that caused such trouble.

Suddenly the perpetrator of that act became possessed of a certain impulse. That impulse seemed delightful to him. It tickled his vanity and excited his sense of adventure to yield to it.

Of course, he shouldn't have yielded to an act involving another person simply to tickle or excite himself. He should have considered the other fellow's feelings. He should have stopped to think of the effect on the other fellow's life.

But such delay and consideration involved irksome self-control, and he didn't like to exercise self-control. He wanted to do things when he wanted to do them, so he went ahead and did them—and the unfortunate other fellow paid the price.

And then the culprit crawled out of the mess by saying that he "meant well."

BUT HE DIDN'T MEAN WELL! HE MEANT SIMPLY TO DO THE THING HE WANTED, REGARDLESS OF CONSEQUENCES, AND THAT WAS ANYTHING BUT "WELL."

For if we won't think about the consequences of our acts, then we're no better than savages. If we won't consider the other fellow's rights, we're as ruthless as murderers, no matter how delightful our impulse appears to ourselves.

So I'm all for putting leg-irons on blundering egotists who go around raising the devil and then chirping that they "meant well."

Unless, of course, the blundering egotist happens to be myself. Then, of course, it's different!

Volstead Repeal Issue: Cannon for Hoover

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

As we approach the close of the campaign the drift toward Roosevelt gains in momentum, and life-long Republicans are enlisting under his banner. This week Senator Hiram Johnson, running mate of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 and a militant progressive all his life, takes the stump for another Roosevelt in California. It would be stupid to discount his influence in California.

One Charles Evans Hughes did that in 1916. The California Senator goes to Roosevelt because no real Progressive can do otherwise, without playing hide-and-seek with his conscience.

It is nothing less than a slaughter when as many as five Republican Senators of the progressive school openly espouse the Roosevelt cause. Three of these are on the stump. Senator Borah, refusing to stultify himself, is maintaining a deadly silence. When in generations has anything like this been seen before?

Senator Capper's Statement

This general attitude of the West makes all the more remarkable Senator Capper's obsequious and sophisticated support of Mr. Hoover. The Kansas Senator, making his money on the farmers through his farm paper, is entirely satisfied with what the Hoover administration has done to agriculture, and this ought to be of interest to his subscribers.

Bunk seems an inevitable ingredient of a Hoover plea. Thus Capper has the effrontery to say that "taxes are coming down." It is incredible that any member of Congress should make a statement so notoriously at war with the truth. For Senator Capper knows that the highest taxes ever levied in times of peace have failed to balance the budget; he knows that we are now piling up an appalling deficit; and he knows perfectly well that taxes are going up to meet this new deficit.

But the most bunkish statement of Senator Capper is this:

"Hoover is a western man in sympathy with western interests. Roosevelt has lived all his life in New York. He does not know the West. I see no reason for voting a western man out of the White House to put an eastern man in."

That statement calls for analysis.

West Is Stampeding To Roosevelt

It is sheer bunk to refer to Mr. Hoover as a western man. He left the West when he had barely attained his majority; he did not even stop in the East; he went on to England and under the British flag he lived during the greater part of his mature manhood. He never went back to his beloved West until in his middle forties when he was aspiring for office. He has not actually lived in the West more than six months since he left it as a boy. His "sympathy" with the agricultural West has been demonstrated by his indifference and hostility in office. There is no reason why a promoter in the mining industry in China, India, Australia and South Africa should be familiar with, or interested in, the problems of the American West. Mr. Hoover is not. That is the reason that Capper himself, leaving the White House after a conference some time ago, complained that all Mr. Hoover would talk about was the indications of the market ticker tape.

And that is the reason Senator Moses, who called the Senatorial spokesmen of the West "sons of the wild jackass," is one of Mr Hoover's outstanding champions.

During the greater part of their lives Mr. Roosevelt has lived at least three thousand miles closer to California than Mr. Hoover: and in sympathy a million miles would not be an exaggeration. That is the reason the West literally is stampeding to the Roosevelt camp.

As Plain as A Pike's Staff

But Mr. Hoover has his accessions, too—for Bishop Cannon has announced his adherence to the Hoover cause. He says he is for Hoover because Al Smith is for Roosevelt. It will be recalled that four years ago the Bishop was conspicuously identified with the kind of campaign that was waged against Smith.

But there is another reason for Bishop Cannon's preference—and that is Mr. Hoover's continuing devotion to "the noble experiment" of national prohibition. That issue is now as plain as a pike's staff.

It was made in the two conventions, when Mr. Hoover, with the aid of Ogden Mills in command of 300 official retainers of the President, defeated an honest declaration for straight repeal and substituted one which would indefinitely continue the interference of the federal government in local matters. The Democrats overwhelmingly declared for straight repeal.

If there are subtle ties and legal technicalities here, making possible the confusion of the people, there is another divergence between Hoover and Roosevelt that makes the issue so clear that even the blind can see.

Mr. Hoover Will Not Stand for It

There is no possibility of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment in any form for at least five years from now.

Mr. Hoover would continue the present scandalous conditions during these five years, and, in the meanwhile, give the people no relief at all.

But the Democrats in their platform pledged themselves to the immediate amendment of the Volstead Act after the people have entrusted them with power.

That is something for which Mr. Hoover will not stand.

The amendment of the Volstead Act would mean the opening of the breweries that would put hundreds of thousands of jobless men to work.

It would mean something more—the lightening of the intolerable burden of destructive taxes to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars by a tax on beer.

Is that what you want?

Then there can be no doubt as to where your vote should go.

The Issue Is Clear

Time and time again in his public speeches since the convention, Mr. Roosevelt has declared without equivocation for the amendment of the Volstead act to lighten the burden of taxation with a tax on beer.

Mr. Hoover has been just as unequivocally against the amendment of the Volstead act; he has never intimated anything to the contrary; he won't, for he wants to hold on to the Bishop Cannons.

And his party candidates in New York are standing four-square with him for the Volstead act, while Wagner and Lehman, the Roosevelt senatorial and gubernatorial nominees, with a frankness equal to Roosevelt's, are outspoken for the reopening of the breweries to put men to work and to lighten the burden of taxation.

Not long ago Attorney-General Mitchell announced that he would not have a District Attorney who did not believe in the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. He said every man suggested for that position would be questioned on that point; and Mr. Medalie, the Hoover candidate against Senator Wagner, was appointed. He is as silent as the Sphinx on the amendment of the Volstead Act.

Col. Donovan, the Hoover Gubernatorial nominee, is accusing his opponent of being a "nullificationist" because of the latter's stand against the amendment.

So the issue is clear, and no liberal, nauseated with the orgy of corruption and hypocrisy which is costing hundreds of thousands jobs, and the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars, can ignore that issue.

We have said it before—to the anti-prohibitions we say it again: The issue is clear—"put up or shut up!"
